

LIFE SAVER—Ten-year-old T. F. Roselle explains to his father, Tony Roselle, his plan for cutting down automobile accidents at street intersections in Atlanta. A large clock placed under each traffic light, he says, would indicate to motorists and pedestrians whether they had time to "run for it" before the light changed.

Merrill Lynch, Fenner & Beane Firms Merge

Two Largest Brokerage Houses To Have Offices in 93 Cities.

The two largest brokerage commission houses in the nation announced yesterday their decision to merge. On August 18, the firms of Fenner & Beane and Merrill Lynch, E. A. Pierce & Cassatt will join forces as Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane.

The new company will have offices in 93 cities. As separate organizations, the two firms have competed in only 12 cities.

Of special interest to Atlantans is the announcement that Ryburn G. Clay, well-known local financier who recently became a special partner in Merrill Lynch, E. A. Pierce & Cassatt, will be a general partner resident in Atlanta. He will take an active part in the affairs of the consolidated firms.

McCord Is Manager.
Robert A. McCord, a partner in the firm of Fenner & Beane, is expected to continue as partner and manager of the Atlanta branch of the new firm, which will remain at the present quarters of Fenner & Beane. Francis C. Hunter and F. D. Willis will be assistant managers.

Both firms are financially strong and have operated even in the years of restricted trading at a profit, but the elimination of duplicate facilities will result in a saving in overhead, it is estimated, of a million dollars annually.

The new firm will have 48 general and 19 special partners, private wires from coast to coast and memberships in 28 securities and commodities exchanges.

Fenner & Beane was organized in 1917 by Charles E. Fenner and the late A. C. Beane. Originally cotton brokers, the firm expanded into other commodities in 1922 and joined the New York Stock Exchange in 1922. The firm's greatest growth has been since 1932 and has 881 employees.

Background of Firms.
Merrill Lynch, E. A. Pierce & Cassatt, in its present form, was the result of a merger which took place less than a year ago, but dates back through E. A. Pierce & Company to the old Gathway & Company, which began business 121 years ago in Richmond, Virginia.

Merrill Lynch & Company was established in 1914 and developed into one of the country's largest investment banking houses. Cassatt & Company, established in 1872, was one of the two most important investment banking houses in Philadelphia.

The new firm promises better service for its customers and greater stability of employment for its workers.

Atlanta Boy, 10, Plans Device To Reduce Traffic Accidents

Clock on Signal Light Would Warn Motorists and Pedestrians of Time Left for Crossing; LeCraw, City Engineer Study Idea.

By JIM FURNISS.

A 10-year-old Atlanta inventor has a plan to slow down the movement of those hands of the dial at Five Points which tabulates the number of accidents and deaths in the city.

He'll do it with a clock.

T. F. Roselle, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Roselle, of 1520 North Highland avenue, N. E., has developed a clock system which can be attached to traffic lights. The clock informs motorists and pedestrians how long they will have to clear the intersection before the light will change from green to red.

"T. F." took the plan down to Emmett Elliott, city traffic engineer, for his approval this week.

Elliott looked at the plan, mused for a minute, then asked "T. F." to follow him. They rode upstairs in the elevator and turned in at Mayor LeCraw's office.

After introductions, the Mayor, "T. F." and Elliott went into a huddle.

"T. F." said the idea for the new device came to him a week ago after he and his father had been caught in the middle of an intersection just as the light was changing.

Why, he asked himself, can't there be some way of warning motorists and pedestrians when the light is going to change.

"T. F." said he thought all afternoon and then approached his father with his new brain child. His father looked at it, and unlike some fathers, saw that there might be something to a young son's idea. He called a friend and had him draw a diagram of how the thing would work, and then took his son down to see Elliott.

The diagram shows a large dial marked off in seconds, placed under a traffic light. An approaching pedestrian or motorist wondering whether or not he had time to look at the dial where a hand

British Begin New Air Strategy, Flying U. S. Bombers So High They Can't Be Seen or Heard

Roosevelt Hints U. S. May Stop Oil to Japan

Nippon Sternly Warned To Watch Her Step in Firm Stand.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Branding Japan's move in French Indo-China as a threat to American security and a step toward further conquest, the United States hinted at strong countermeasures yesterday and warned Tokyo against a drive on Singapore, the Netherlands East Indies and the Philippines.

From President Roosevelt himself came some plain-talking about why the United States had not heretofore shut off all oil shipments to Japan—all in the past tense.

He told a civilian defense group bluntly that this policy was designed to make it unnecessary for Japan to go down to the East Indies for oil—and the President said "it has worked for two years," thus keeping war out of the Pacific.

Past-Tense Talk.

But from his past-tense discussion of American methods in seeking to keep peace in the south Pacific, some observers drew the inference that the President now might be ready to impose a full embargo on oil shipments to Japan and take other strong economic measures.

His informal remarks followed a blistering attack on Japan by Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, which also appeared to mark the end of American conciliation efforts and the adoption of a still firmer stand in the Pacific.

Welles declared that Japanese occupation of military and naval bases in French Indo-China was primarily in preparation for "more obvious movements of conquest in adjacent areas."

The Japanese move, he said, threatened sources of American defense materials, endangered the safety of other areas of the Pacific, including the Philippine Islands, and bears "directly upon the vital problem of our national security."

Similar Language.
Welles disclosed that he had used similar language in denouncing Japan to the Japanese ambassador, Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, in their thirty-minute conference Wednesday.

The ambassador had come out of the conference smiling, asserting they had approached the Indo-China problem largely from the Japanese side and expressing the hope that relations with the United States would get "better and better."

This hope seemed ill-founded as Welles read his strongly-worded pronouncement to a large assembly of reporters, including four Japanese, a German, French, British, Chinese and other foreign representatives.

The Japanese occupation of bases in Indo-China within closer striking range of British Malaya (Singapore), the East Indies, Philippines and Thailand appeared meanwhile to have begun even before the agreement with French authorities was signed.

Japanese warships arrived off two strategic Indo-China points—Camranh Bay and Cape St. Jacques—and 12 transports were reported en route to Saigon.

Armed Protection.
French Indo-China will be placed under the armed protection of Japan as the dominant power in the Orient according to an agreement in principle announced in Vichy.

Negotiations were temporarily shifted from Vichy to Hanoi, capital of the French colony, where technical details on bases for Japanese were to be worked out, but in late afternoon contact was resumed in Vichy between the Japanese ambassador, Sotomatsu Kato, and France's vice premier-foreign minister, Admiral Jean Darlan.

It had been understood that any details worked out at Hanoi would be referred back to Vichy for a final understanding. It was emphasized that nothing had been in its present tentative form presented.

3,000 Japanese Are Aiding Peru in War, Ecuador Claims

Official in Lima Terms Assertion 'Laughable, Ridiculous, Contemptible'; Fierce Fighting Rages Again on Border.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Ecuador government declared in an official bulletin last night that one of its officers had seen at least 3,000 Japanese officers and soldiers in Peruvian front lines in intensified border warfare between Peru and Ecuador.

The government statement also quoted newspaper dispatches indicating that Japanese troops composed the entire advance guard of the Peruvians.

In Lima, Peru, meanwhile, a high official of the Peruvian foreign office declared the Ecuadorian assertion that Japanese officers and troops were fighting with the Peruvian army on the northern boundary was "laughable, ridiculous and contemptible."

"The story, spreading Ecuadorian propaganda and asserting there are 3,000 Japanese troops fighting against Ecuador, almost does not deserve comment," the official declared.

"Such anthropological affirmation cannot be made seriously by a general staff at the battlefield, and less by a fleeing army," he said, adding that the same comment applied to a suggestion that the soldiers were Peruvians of Japanese parentage.

The intensified border fighting came as Argentina attempted to get the two countries to cease hostilities. Both charge each other with aggression in the new outbreak over the boundary between them.

The Argentine foreign office announced that Ecuador had agreed "to accept with pleasure all measures to facilitate a truce" in her border fight with Peru.

Argentina, along with the United States and Brazil, has offered to mediate the dispute, and Wednesday night issued a "supreme call" to both Peru and Ecuador to lay down arms in the interests of Pan-American solidarity and peace.

No reply to this appeal has come from Peru.

The Ecuadorian statement said fierce fighting broke out again yesterday morning with resumption of the Peruvian attack after a fairly quiet night. Wednesday's skirmishing had been reported the heaviest thus far in the new flare-up over the border dispute.

"At 5:30 a. m. the fighting was intense," the statement said. The Peruvians had considerably strengthened their positions. Captain Ceron, commander of the carabinieri fighting at Quebrada Seca, said that he saw more than 3,000 Japanese officers and soldiers in the front line.

Reports to the newspaper El Dia from the frontier also told of the presence of Japanese troops composing the enemy advance

Red Positions Still Unbroken, Moscow Says

Second Nazi Offensive Pictured as Ending in Failure.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Red armies were declared to be clinging yesterday to unbreached battle positions, on the right, left and center after 33 days of unending German assault against which the defense, for the Russian people, was taking on the quality of an epic.

Soviet troops by official account still stood substantially where they had stood 10 days ago, and thus the second Nazi offensive was pictured as ending in failure.

Failing, too, the Soviet government claimed, were the nightly Nazi air raids on Moscow, German airmen struck Wednesday night and early yesterday in the third consecutive raid, but again it was declared that there was no military damage.

The windows on two sides of the residence—embassy of United States Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt were smashed by a bomb. The only occupants were four American newspapermen and all were unhurt. The residence, known as Spassk house, was luxuriously furnished for the former American ambassador, Joseph E. Davies.

The defense, both by the ground guns and night fighter planes, held back from the city proper most of the 150 German planes which

Pee Wee Burns Dies at Tattnell After Fight With Other Convicts

A. T. Jeans, alias Pee Wee Burns, former prize fighter and one of the most notorious underworld figures ever to operate in Atlanta, died yesterday at Tattnell prison of mysterious injuries suffered in a fight with three other convicts.

Warden R. H. Lawrence, of the Reidsville institution, said a Tattnell county coroner's jury last night brought in the following verdict: "We, the jury, find that Pee Wee Burns came to his death from concussion of the brain caused by alcoholic drink or accidental lick or licks caused by cause unknown."

The verdict was signed by A. J. Anderson, Tattnell county coroner, and F. C. Callaway, foreman of the jury.

Warden Lawrence said that Burns was injured at about 10 o'clock Tuesday night and immediately transferred to the infirmary.

Whistling Bomb Is First Notice Of RAF Attack

Seven Hits Scored on Battleship; Brest Is 'Size of Thumb.'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

LONDON, July 25.—Friday) — Big four - motored American-made Boeing flying fortresses bombed the German battleship Gneisenau in Port at Brest, France, yesterday from a height so "fantastic" that the scream of their bombs was probably the first inkling the Germans had of the attack, the British air ministry news service reported today.

In a massive, synchronized onslaught, British-made Hampden and Wellington bombers guarded by fighters then swooped in at much lower altitudes, and the air ministry announced that in all seven hits were scored on the Gneisenau and that great damage was done to the near-by dockyard, where the German cruiser Prinz Eugen lay.

The raid was part of a general series of attacks along the German-held French coast, including new and damaging assaults on the Gneisenau's sister ship, the Scharnhorst, which was found to have been spirited 240 miles down the coast from Brest, the British stated.

Scarcely Visible.

The flying fortresses, flying over Brest in broad daylight, were so high that they would have been scarcely visible from the ground and were "certainly inaudible," the news service said.

"With summer far below them, they were covered with frost and rime a quarter of an inch thick," it said.

"Inside, the crews had sweated in summer heat as they took off, but the sweat had frozen before they reached their high altitude."

"Brest, even when they were over it, seemed 'no bigger than your thumb,' as one of the pilots said."

This formation of the Boeing flying fortresses, which the RAF calls "fortress I aircraft," was the spearhead of the assault, the news service continued, saying that the double assault on the Gneisenau and on the Scharnhorst at La Pallice was the heaviest daylight attack the RAF has made since the war began.

New Tactics.

"New tactics of aerial warfare played an important part," it was stated.

The first new assault on the Scharnhorst, following a long series last spring at Brest, was made Wednesday and resulted in a direct hit, the air ministry announced.

Then both the battleships were attacked again today, the Scharnhorst twice being an objective.

An air ministry communique said 15 bombers and seven fighters were missing from the two days of operations against the two German battleships while 24 German fighters were shot down.

"A heavy load of American bombs was well directed at the minute target of the Gneisenau," the air ministry's news service account continued.

"It seemed almost an impossible time before the flashes of the bombs were seen. Then, through the intercommunication system,

Temperature will range between 70 and 90 degrees.

Recorder Pays Auto Damage For Brazilian

Luke Arnold 'Preserves Relations' With Latin Consul.

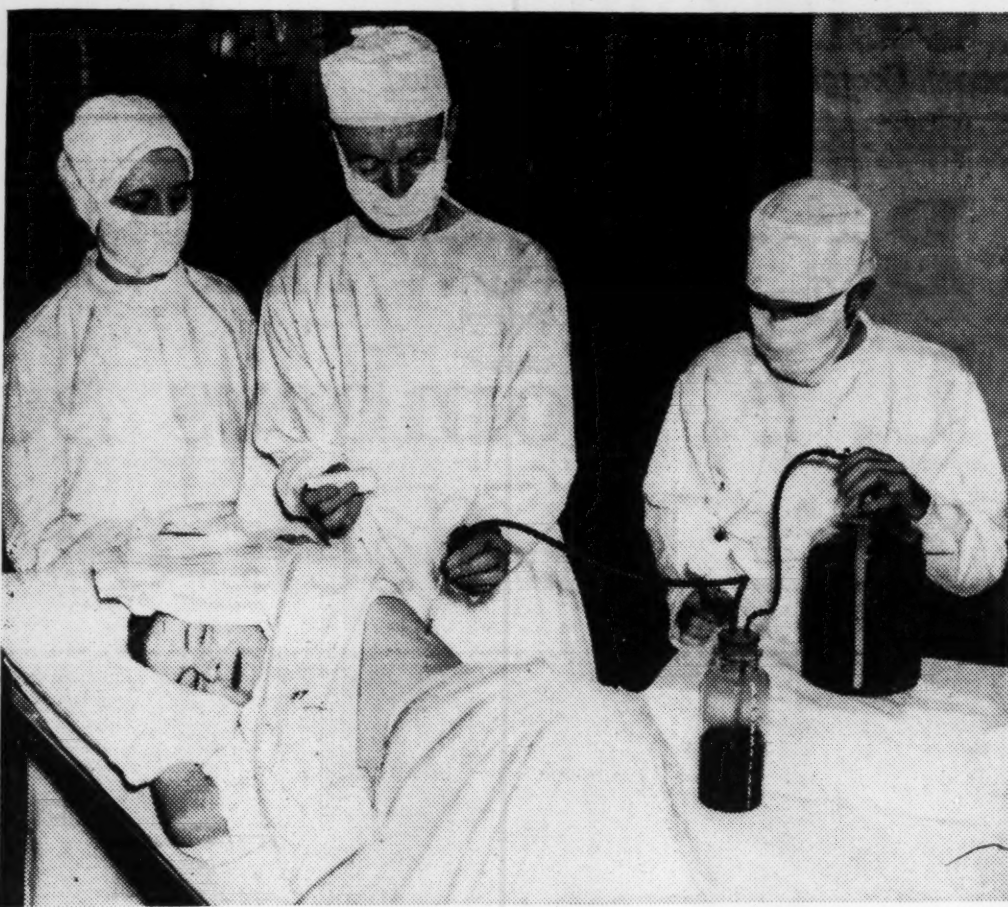

Atlanta hospitality and respect for the diplomatic immunity of representatives of foreign governments cost Recorder Luke Arnold, of traffic court, $13.75 yesterday.

After he had dismissed a charge of reckless driving against Joao A. R. Martinus, Brazilian consul at Norfolk, Va., the question of who should pay for damages to the car driven by R. G. Dempsey, 36, of 1031 Curran street, which was in collision with that of Senor Martinus, came up.

"Because Senor Martinus is an official of the Brazilian government," said the recorder, "and is a guest in our city, we want to treat him with every courtesy. It is important that nothing disturb this country's relations with Brazil."

The recorder then suggested that Senor Martinus and Dempsey settle the question of damages out of court and remarked that he would rather pay the damages himself than have the consul embarrassed and delayed. Later, Dempsey presented the recorder with an estimate of the cost of repairs to his car, amounting to $13.75. Arnold told Dempsey to have the car repaired and send the bill to him.

The accident took place at North avenue and Glen Iris drive when the consul and his wife were returning to Norfolk from Texas.

AIR CURES PNEUMONIA!—This picture shows a pneumothorax being performed on a pneumonia patient in a posed operation to illustrate this new method of treatment. Using only a local anesthetic, the doctors force air into the infected lung to give it a chance to rest and get well. A gallon jug, a discarded medicine bottle, 20 cents worth of syringe tube and a needle is all the equipment needed. An Atlanta doctor has treated 111 pneumonia cases successfully this way. Persons in the picture preferred to remain anonymous as they illustrated the procedure of the treatment.

Request To Put U. S., German Garbage Cans Ousted Consuls On Curb Made Are Exchanged

Mayor Asks Public Aid During Strike of 200 Workers.

Home owners and business houses yesterday were asked to put all filled garbage cans on the curb line so that collectors may make their rounds more rapidly.

Mayor LeCraw appealed to the public to co-operate "while the city government attempts to do the difficult job of collecting as much as possible on the restricted operations we are able to maintain because of the strike of about 200 laborers."

He also issued a statement placing the blame on the striking workmen, who have demanded more pay.

Business houses were urged to call the sanitary department at the city hall, Walnut 4463, or the city garage, Main 9703, when they have garbage collections which they can load with their own labor. The mayor said the city has plenty of trucks, but it has not the available labor to load the trucks at the moment.

Following is the mayor's statement:

Issuing an appeal to the people of Atlanta, the mayor said "172 unorganized Negro garbage collectors are taking advantage of the people of Atlanta and are imperiling your health."

"Once before, in 1940, these same Negroes walked off the job and forced a 10 per cent increase in their pay," he added. "They have now repeated this action, demanding a 20 per cent increase. They are now paid $15 per week, which is considered fair pay."

"These men gave no notice, but walked off the job without a word, counting on the danger to the health of Atlanta to enforce their demands."

"We are making every effort to collect your garbage, and we urge everyone to place his garbage can out on the curb so that the trucks which we are able to keep running will be able to collect it."

Striking laborers yesterday refused to submit the controversy over whether they shall be raised from $2.50 a day to $3 a day to arbitration and declined to join the Teamsters' Union, an AFL affiliate, until their grievances are settled.

Air Treatment Of Pneumonia Is Used Here

111 Pneumothorax Operations Are Performed Without Single Death.

By FRANK DRAKE.

The successful treatment of pneumonia, using only air as the means of healing, has been developed by an Atlanta doctor, it was revealed yesterday.

The method is the artificial, temporary pneumothorax—collapse of the lung with air pressure, such as has been used for many years in the treatment of tuberculosis.

With patients suffering from lobar pneumonia in one lung, this doctor in 111 cases during the last six years has performed the pneumothorax operation and in no instance has there been a death. Every patient recovered, most of them within three to six days.

Directly Responsible.

In one specific case, the air treatment was directly responsible for saving the life of a patient. He had pneumonia, but doctors were unable to type it so it could be treated with the serums developed for each of the 32 different kinds of pneumonia. Also, this patient was allergic, or supersensitive, to sulphypradine, and this newest intravenous drug could not be administered.

The man's family had gathered round to watch him die when this doctor performed an artificial pneumothorax. Within 10 minutes the patient was breathing easily with his good, uncollapsed lung and after a night's sleep felt well next day.

The Atlanta physician has read papers on his experimental work with the pneumothorax operation for treatment of dry pneumonia before the Medical Association of Georgia, and on the treatment of pneumonia with air before the Fulton County Medical Society.

Request Observed.

Because of the strict rules of the medical profession regarding personal publicity, he asked The Constitution not to reveal his identity and this request is being observed.

The Atlanta doctor is not the first discoverer of the pneumothorax for unilateral (one-lung) lobar pneumonia, but so far as is known he is the only man now widely using this old-new method of curing pneumonia.

A doctor in Washington, D. C., reported in 1920 he had performed three such pneumothorax operations—all successful, but from then until the Atlanta doctor began his experiments nearly seven years ago, no others in the United States used this method of treatment, so far as is known.

The Atlantan said he did not know why the Washington doctor's method had not been more widely adopted by the medical profession before he began this means of curing lobar pneumonia here among his cases. The treatment has been in use in New Orleans for several years also.

Simplest Equipment.

He uses the simplest equipment and instruments for the air operation. To obtain pressure for the air, he has a one-gallon glass jug from which water or any liquid is siphoned into a pint-sized discarded medicine bottle through an ordinary 20-cent syringe tube to force air through a needle.

The needle is entered into the affected lung cavity between the ribs, and only a local anesthetic, such as novocain, is used. It isn't even necessary to carry the patient to an operating room and the equipment for the pneumothorax can be obtained anywhere.

The only trick about it is the amount of pressure by which it is injected. The Atlanta doctor said there are few nurses yet trained to aid a doctor in this medical maneuver.

Great Advantage.

The great advantage of the pneumothorax in treating lobar pneumonia—it is definitely never used in the treatment of bronchial pneumonia—is that the collapse of the diseased lung gives the blood within it a chance for white cells to eat up the pneumonia germ, the pneumococcus.

For the pneumonia patient, as for the tuberculosis patient, the pneumothorax gives the infected lung a chance to rest. In pneumonia, it likewise gives the other lung more space in which to expand and thus increase oxygenation of the blood.

One of the greatest advantages is that it gives the gasping, choking, pained pneumonia patient a chance to breathe long, easy breaths.

"The pneumothorax for the pneumonia patient is an 'air-splint' for the lung, as a wooden or metal splint is used for a broken bone," the doctor said.

Lung Collapse.

It takes only from five to 10 minutes to collapse a lung artificially, and it takes approximately the same length of time to restore it to normal by removing the air from the lung well, he said.

The doctor said he had used the treatment a number of times when the patient was at the crisis, and always successfully.

Though it can be used only where lobar pneumonia has affected one lung, the doctor said in numerous cases he had seen the pneumothorax prevent the spread of pneumonia to the other lung, when it was caught in time. Us-

Absent-Minded Tourist Leaves Wife, Misses Her 30 Miles Away

WINCHESTER, Va., July 24.—(AP)—An absent-minded Illinois tourist drove 30 miles yesterday before he noticed his wife was missing from the car.

State Trooper B. E. Williams said the frantic woman called him after her husband drove away while she was in the rest room of a service station here. The officer and woman set out in pursuit and found the middle-aged husband on the roadside pondering what to do. He said he failed to see his wife leave the car and thought she had been thrown out on a curve.

'Every Family' Five Are Killed Asked by F.D.R. When Bomber To Aid Defense Falls, Burns

Volunteer Civilian Group Opens Sessions at White House.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told the men and women in charge of voluntary participation in civil defense activities today that the problems of civil defense must be brought into every family in the country.

Mr. Roosevelt received the members of the Volunteer Participation Committee—there are 45 of them grouped according to Army Corps areas—and made an informal talk before they began sessions at the White House proper.

Men and women in every county in the United States, Mr. Roosevelt said, are "pleading to be told what they can do to help—they honestly are ready to work."

He asserted that an amazing number of letters were coming to him and Mrs. Roosevelt from people willing to help with civilian defense, and he declared that there was a lot of work to be done.

Through the Volunteer Participation Committee, he said, an organization will be established in every community and full jurisdiction will rest on committee members.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was looking for "real results."

Civilian defense was in charge of Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York, and the chief executive said his work fell into two parts. The first, he said, is quasi-military—a thing like preparing sand bags, and they may be necessary in certain parts of the country, not necessarily all over.

Secondly, he said, is the work of the Volunteer Participation Committee which must bring home certain facts to a people who, the President said, have an inadequate idea of "what modern war means."

He cited what women were doing in England to help with defense and declared that "we have a long-long way to go in this country."

"About this question of politics," Mr. Roosevelt said, "Somebody may start it. Don't bring it to me. You are Americans. You don't belong to any party in this work."

SCOUTS AT CAMP.

THOMASTON, Ga., July 24.—Members of the East Thomaston Boy Scout troops are this week attending Camp Thunder, near Molena, the Flint River Council's camping reservation. The troops of Thomaston and Silvertown will attend the camp next week.

Usually, though, acute lobar pneumonia is in one lung only.

In the pneumothorax cases on which he reported to the Fulton County Medical Society, the doctor said: "None of the commonly anticipated complications occurred in this series of cases, and in no case did pyopneumothorax, cardiac collapse, pleural shock, abscess, gangrene of the lung or other accident develop."

He added that the collapsed state of the lung tends to prevent the absorption of toxins which so frequently cause death, directly or indirectly, from toxemia.

And lastly, he said, "the most striking result of this treatment is the prompt relief of pain and only slightly less spectacular than the relief of pain was the fall of temperature that followed pneumothorax."

The Atlanta doctor said he realized that his report on cases with extremely prompt recovery "is not one swallow that makes a summer" but that "the results certainly encourage further trial of this treatment."

Shaky Credit Endangers Jobs

New Loan Plan Offers Easy Solution.

When a person owes aggravating past due bills to a lot of creditors, it's mighty easy to become so worried that it's difficult to work satisfactorily. It's easy to get so discouraged that even a good job doesn't seem worth the effort to keep it.

Hundreds of Atlantans are finding the answer to money problems by borrowing money to pay up every creditor and then repaying the money on a monthly basis over a year or two-year period. Loans of this type can be made on a low cost, legal rate basis and can vary from fifty dollars to several thousand dollars.

Anyone with a job or regular income is eligible to obtain such a loan. Security can be a plain note, auto, furniture or personal property. Transactions are strictly confidential, and the plan is especially designed to help balance the budget of the average working person.

British Order Registration of Three Million

All Men 43 to 46, Women 24 to 31 Must Enroll.

LONDON, July 25.—(Friday)—(UP)—The British government, revealing an "urgent need of manpower," today ordered the registration of 3,000,000 more men and women for the armed forces and war work during the next five months.

The ministry of labor said that all men between the ages of 43 and 46 and women between 24 and 31 must register.

The urgent need of more manpower, both on the fighting and home fronts, in 1942 is likely to result in the calling up of men up to 50 and women up to 40 early next year, an official spokesman said.

"The stage of manpower requirements has been reached where the country can no longer afford that men should be doing jobs that can be done by women, nor can their services be spared for work not essential to the war effort," he asserted.

Russell, Arnall, Talmadge Will Talk at Jasper

All Will Be on Same Platform at REA Dedication Tomorrow.

By LUKE GREENE.

Three Georgia political stars who loom brightest on the horizon at the moment for the 1942 election races will speak from the same platform tomorrow in Jasper at the dedication of the Amicalola Co-operative Association, an REA project.

Scheduled on the program, which will begin at 11 o'clock, are the Governor, Attorney General Ellis Arnall and Senator Russell. At least two of these will be pitted against each other in next year's political campaigns and all three are certain to be candidates either for Governor or the United States senate.

Although the Governor has said he will seek another term as Governor, some political observers are predicting that he will make another try for the senate against Russell. Arnall is already a candidate for Governor, although he has made no official announcement.

Speaks Over WSB.

The Governor, who likes to quote Shakespeare and the Bible, announced yesterday he will speak over WSB from 9:30 to 10 o'clock tonight using as his subject "On Georgia's Stormy Banks I Stand."

The chief executive said he would review in detail evidence presented at the trial of Dr. Walter D. Cocking and Dr. Marvin Pittman, ousted Georgia educators, adding the radio time had been donated to him by the station.

"I know a great number of people could not attend the hearing," the Governor said, "and those ought to have a chance to hear a first-hand account of the evidence that was submitted against those two professors."

Same General Theme.

At the Jasper meeting the Governor said he planned to use the same general theme with special emphasis on accomplishments made during the first six months of his administration.

Arnall said he would emphasize the need for co-operation from both Democrats and Republicans in the present national emergency and the necessity for saving the American way of life.

The three prospective candidates will be speaking in what is normally a Republican county.

The Governor and Arnall will be on the same program again Monday when they are slated to speak at a meeting of the Rural Letter Carriers Association in Americus.

Streamliner Silver Meteor Leaves Tracks

14 Hurt as Speeding Train Hits Switch in Florida.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., July 24.—(UP)—The Silver Meteor, a Seaboard Air Lines' streamliner en route from New York to Miami, today sped through an open switch in the freight yards here and crashed into several freight cars. Fourteen passengers suffered minor injuries.

Three cars of the seven-car train, which was 22 minutes late as it headed toward the freight yards at an estimated mile-a-minute speed, were turned halfway on their side when the streamliner crashed into the empty freight cars. Four other cars and the engine remained on the track.

Engineer J. T. McCauley said he noticed the open switch, indicated by a red light, when he was 500 feet from it and immediately applied his brakes. The freight cars were standing about 350 feet from the switch.

The injured were: Mrs. F. Bernstein, Philadelphia; Mrs. S. R. Roseman, Miami Beach; Mrs. John Tostelmick, Homestead, Pa.; Mrs. W. Altman, Miami, Fla.; Belle Gardan, New York; Mrs. Ruth Green, New York; Mrs. Estelle Loewy, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. H. Kemp, Miami, Fla.; Sophie Frankel, Miami Beach; Mrs. E. M. Riley, Savannah, Ga.; Mrs. J. C. Hardwick, Miami; Mrs. Lee Burger, Miami; Joe Burger, Miami; and Sanford Robinson, address unknown.

Mrs. Kemp and Miss Frankel were taken to the Broward General hospital. Their condition was said to be not serious. The others were given first aid at the scene. The accident occurred at 2:20 p. m. The train was due in Miami, 28 miles south of here, at 2:35 p. m.

'Patriotic' Chain Letter Still Illegal

The old chain letter racket has a new angle—patriotism.

The office of Postmaster Lon F. Livingston reported yesterday that chain letter specialists who used to send 10 or 25 cents to "the person whose name appears at the top of this list" are now asking you to buy a 25-cent saving stamp and send to that person.

The only trouble is that it's against the law. The post office department issued a bulletin yesterday warning that sending of such matters through the mails is a violation of the postal fraud and lottery statutes.

ALUMINUM COLLECTED. BAXLEY, Ga., July 24.—The citizens of Baxley yesterday responded liberally to the call for aluminum. There were two pens filled to overflowing downtown beside other collections in the cause of national defense.

Atlantan Falls Into Nazi Hands in France

Steele Powers, young Atlanta man, who served in France with an all-American ambulance unit, has been arrested by the Nazis in Paris, it was learned last night.

Ray Powers, a brother, is now visiting in Washington in efforts to interest the State Department to inquire into his brother's present predicament.

According to the brother, Steele Powers was known only to be in the hands of the Germans. The reason why he was taken into custody or his present whereabouts in the German-occupied city was not learned.

The brother revealed that Steele's plight came to the attention of the Powers family in this country through a communication with the Spanish government, but the nature of this communication was not disclosed.

Ray Powers said he had gone to Washington from New York, where the Powers family now lives, to get the State Department to find out all it could about the case.

Ray Powers and his mother left Paris, where the family had lived for many years, after the Germans took over the city. They came to this country through Lisbon, accompanied by Steele's wife and their child.

Ray made his way to Lisbon from Switzerland, but the others, it was said, made the journey to that Portuguese city directly from the French capital.

The brother said Steele had remained in Paris to look after the family's property interests there during the German occupation.

Young Powers is the son of the late Ray Powers, who for many years represented an Atlanta soft drink company in France and Germany. He is also a nephew of Mrs. John Glenn, of 30 Westminster drive.

He has lived most of his life abroad, but has visited here frequently.

FIVE U. S. AMBULANCE DRIVERS FLEE NAZIS

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—The dramatic escape of five American ambulance drivers from German authorities in German-occupied France was disclosed tonight.

Two of them are homeward bound on the American liner Excalibur and the three others await departure from Lisbon, Portugal, on the Naval transport West Point, along with 16 companions whom the Germans released.

The two on the Excalibur are James Stewart and Thomas O. Greenough, who escaped from a dimly lighted and closely guarded German train at St. Jean de Luz on June 29.

The three others escaped from a German camp at Lure in German-occupied France on July 8. They were William R. Davidson, Ray Colcord Jr., of Kansas City, and Donald King, of Washington, D. C. The home addresses of the others could not be learned.

Twenty-one American ambulance drivers were taken prisoners by the Germans after the sinking of the Egyptian liner Zam Zam by a Nazi raider in the Atlantic on April 17. They were landed in France from a German ship and were held under guard at a small town near St. Jean de Luz until June 28.

They were put on a train that day and started for an undisclosed destination which they suspected to be a German concentration camp.

They were warned that guards had orders to shoot to kill if any attempted to escape.

In the early morning of June 29 as the train stopped in a railroad yards at Poitiers, Stewart and Greenough leaped through a window, eluded guards and finally made their way into unoccupied France.

Arriving at Marseilles, they were fatigued and inadequately clad. They contacted the American consul and arrangements were made for them to proceed to Lisbon in company with American foreign service officers. They sailed on the Excalibur on July 18.

Positive Defense Against Nazis Demanded by Wendell Willkie

We Cannot Wait in Corner for Hitler To Strike, We Must Force Him To Take the Count, San Francisco Mass Meeting Told.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie called for a positive defense against the Nazi machine in an address prepared for a mass meeting tonight.

Advocating an aggressive campaign of aid to Germany's enemies, the 1940 Republican presidential nominee asserted "we must read our lesson in the fate of other free peoples who found themselves unprepared to meet and stop the amazing war machine created by Adolf Hitler."

"Hitler has challenged our freedom," said Willkie.

"In defending it, we cannot wait in the corner for him to strike us. We must, on the contrary, size up our antagonist."

"We must plan our strategy and our tactics and, at the proper times, we must step forth boldly and courageously to throw Hitler off his guard, to bewilder him. . . . We must force him to take the count."

"The defense of freedom must be a positive thing. We must not be afraid to act—and we must be prepared to act swiftly and suddenly."

Emergency Powers.
"We must not be afraid to give our President the necessary emergency powers which will enable him to act—swiftly and suddenly. And we must realize that, in order to prevent the Axis from waging war on us, in our hemisphere, and possibly some day on our soil, these swift moves of ours must be taken at remote distances from the American continent, in strategic spots whose importance is appreciated and understood by our Army and Navy."

"This kind of defense, this positive kind of defense, has already proved effective."

"In a very real sense, it is responsible for Hitler's present difficulties in Russia. It is responsible for the exhaustion of men and equipment he is suffering there, and for the chance given Britain and the United States, meanwhile, to strengthen themselves."

"For our aid to Britain—which the isolationists did not want to deliver—has been the deciding factor in all this—Hitler's enormous gamble of invading Russia never would have happened if Britain and America had not been made strong by positive defense."

On the Russian situation, Willkie said:
"The only thing we have ever had to fear from Communism is the possible triumph of an ideology. Now even the idea (of Communism) is no longer a real menace to democracy. Its appeal is rapidly dying; its propaganda is confused and futile. It is a dream that didn't come true."

"Russia has never been a military menace or a trade menace to us. For 23 years the Communists have been on the Bering strait, and we've never had any reason to fear that they would 'tack us across that narrow water.'"

Picture Is Different.
"But the picture with Hitler is different. He is engaged with all the terrible power of his military machine in conquering the world. If he succeeds, he means to enslave it economically, politically and culturally. He has plainly told us so."

Pointing out that a positive defense involves great sacrifice, Willkie called also for aid to China, to divert the energies of Japan—and for doubling and redoubling American aid to Britain. He emphatically contended that additional naval and air bases should be acquired to protect the supply lanes of the North Atlantic, and that ship and plane courses of the South Atlantic should be guarded to prevent German moves through Spain and Portugal.

"Totalitarianism will thus be surrounded, blocked on all sides, and the Nazi flood, having reached its full, will begin to recede," he declared.

"History proves that such forces survive only in expansion."

SNAKE KILLED.

CARROLLTON, Ga., July 24.—S. C. Wallis, of Carrollton, Route 4, reports that he killed a garter snake near his home Wednesday, using a hoe to cut the body in two pieces, from which emerged by actual count 40 young snakes, each seven inches long, all of which were also killed. The large snake was three or four inches in diameter and about three feet long.

Crook With 60 Aliases Sought By Uncle Sam

Illinois Man Makes Specialty of Cheating Bankers.

An elusive crook with 60 aliases and a way with bankers is badly wanted by the FBI. So far, the man has not defrauded Atlanta banks, but, within the past 16 months, has operated in 20 states, from Florida to Washington, it was disclosed here yesterday.

Bert Edward Solem, 39, a native of Illinois, has a talent for passing fraudulent checks that has permitted him to live without work for a long time, according to the FBI.

The FBI warns bankers that Solem's approach is always extremely suave. He usually appears with a check made out for a substantial sum, say $235 or $451.50. Approaching either an officer or a teller, he announces that he wants to open a savings account and deposit a check for collection.

During the conversation, Solem intimates that he is connected with a tool company or that he contemplates moving into the community. Then he delicately conveys the information that he is a trifle short of cash at the moment and would like for the bank to advance him a small sum while his check is in process of collection. If he deposits $235, he requests that $200 be deposited and the remainder be returned to him in cash.

Solem is six feet tall, weighs 180 pounds, has blue eyes and sandy hair. His teeth are bad. A neat dresser, he occasionally wears pince-nez glasses. Sometimes he wears a mustache, but generally is clean shaven. By profession, he is a mechanic.

If you see this man, notify the nearest office of the FBI.

State Paralysis Spread Forces Meetings Ban

63 of 213 Cases Recorded in Atlanta, Precaution Urged.

Blackouts of public assemblies—particularly of youth groups—spread over Georgia last night coincident with tabulation of 213 cases of infantile paralysis that included 63 cases in the city of Atlanta.

The new total was eight above Wednesday's figure, but the new outbreak, physicians said, continued in mild form. Discovery of two new cases and an old case that had not been recorded raised the total for Atlanta to 63 cases, Dr. James F. Hackney, assistant city health officer, said.

Two new cases outside the city limits of Atlanta raised the total for Fulton county to 17 cases and DeKalb county reported the same number of cases last night. Camp Civitania for girls, near Austell, ended operations for the summer season yesterday due to the poliomyelitis situation, and DeKalb county's health officer, Dr. J. R. Evans, announced he had obtained definite postponement of a meeting of 1,000 4-H Club members set for tomorrow.

The board of health of Hancock county extended its ban on public gatherings for children under 16 years of age to August 1, pointing out that the situation had not reached epidemic stage, but necessary precautions were deemed advisable.

Atkinson county reported a new case last night to the State Health Department.

RAF Bombers So High Nazis Get No Warning

Pilots heard a bomb aimer say, 'There they go—one, two, three, four, five.'

"Even from that height the flashes seemed impressive. 'Thousands of feet below the fortresses, their crews saw a tight formation of many Hampdens (British bombers) sweeping in over the target, and they could also see star clusters of flames where the bombs from the Hampdens had rained the German warships.'

"The Hampdens had come in with a guard of fighters, and after they had finished their work it was the turn of Wellingtons (another type of British bomber) to continue the battle."

"German fighters which went up to intercept our bombers were unable to check the ferocity of the attacks."

Timed to Minute.
"Each attack was timed to the minute. There was no confusion, and as a pilot said, 'It was a marvelous sight to see in the sunshine bombers ahead of us and bombers behind us with fighters weaving overhead.'"

"A flight commander confirmed a direct hit on the Gneisenau with a bomb from one of the aircraft in his section."

"The ship was perfectly plain, he said, and one of our bombs hit it. All its guns seemed to be going at once. We went straight through it all."

"Both fighters and bombers fought hard battles with the defending Messerschmitts, and our bombers as well as our fighters claimed their victims."

U. S. HAS BEEN PREPARING FOR HIGH ALTITUDE ATTACKS

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—The high altitude bombing attack at Brest, France, by American-made bombers reported by the British Air Ministry was an initial wartime demonstration of a type of combat for which the United States Army Air Forces have been preparing for years.

Only the powerful, four-motored bombers used in the raid on the German battleship Gneisenau were capable of such an attack, airmen said. The 22-ton bombers of this type can readily reach altitudes of more than 35,000 feet, or approxi-

Homes Sought For Residents Of Dam Areas

TVA Projects Affect 300 Families in Towns, Union Counties.

YOUNG HARRIS, Ga., July 24.—(AP)—The problem of finding new homes for 300 families who must vacate their homesteads in Towns and Union counties because of projected construction of four storage dams, absorbed attention of educational leaders, extension executives and Tennessee Valley Authority representatives today.

Approximately 10,000 acres will be affected in each of the two north Georgia counties by the TVA dam projects. Those on the Hiwassee and Nolichucky rivers are expected to be ready for storage by the end of next year's spring rains.

Two more on rivers in North Carolina and Tennessee are scheduled for completion within 18 months.

President T. Jack Lance, of Young Harris College, said the residents involved were "entirely co-operative" but that they all wanted to continue to live somewhere in Towns and Union counties.

Director Walter Brown, of the Georgia Agriculture Extension Service, directed the session in which many questions were asked of a TVA engineer from Knoxville, Tenn., concerning construction and its effect.

Dr. Lance said about 25 per cent of the families affected were tenant farmers. All are facing a December 31, 1941, moving deadline. Educational leaders in the discussion included Dean Paul Chapman, of the State College of Agriculture, and Director H. P. Stuckey, of the Georgia Experiment Station near Griffin.

mately seven miles above the earth.

Presumably used in the raid was the Sperry bomb-sight which President Roosevelt released last year. This and the Norden sight, which the Army and Navy retained, were specially designed for such high altitude precision, level bombing.

Pilots, bombardiers and mechanics to man the bombers have been specially trained in this country, as civilians, since last year when the first of the "flying fortress" bombers were released to the British.

Hits on a target no larger than a battleship from altitudes of several miles are commonplace in the American Air Force, using equipment identical with that now available to the British. Parties of congressmen have seen such precision bombing in a number of demonstrations at Plumtree Island, the bombing range for Langley Field, Va.

One bomber of the same type reached an altitude of some 38,000 feet to take photographs of a solar eclipse in Florida.

The bombers flew the Atlantic under their own power. Although details have been withheld, the RAF is reported here to have received several score in recent months.

Bombers of the identical type have flown repeatedly from the United States to South America and return on goodwill missions.

SCARLETT AGAIN!—Here is Vivien Leigh as Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind." She and Captain Butler are at the Gordon theater today and tomorrow.

Scarlett and Rhett Are Back Again

"Gone With the Wind," complete, in full, uncut and "with the original cast" will occupy the screen today and tomorrow at the Gordon theater in West End.

Excellent opportunity for everybody—if anybody—who missed its two "premieres" to see Scarlett O'Hara and Rhett Butler in this romance of Atlanta in war time. "The Birth of a Nation" ran for years and years. It may be that "GWTW" will do that. But you never can tell. Anyway, this is a good chance to see it—at the theater's regular prices and no reserving tickets by mail.

Sparks Set Fire, Burn Workmen

Two workmen, Ed Sledge, of 502 Ninth street, and Jim Sherman, of 1074 Grove street, were painfully burned yesterday afternoon when gasoline was ignited by sparks from a wall paper remover which was being used to remodel the interior of the home of Mrs. Shorter Rankin, of 48 Inman circle.

Patrolmen W. A. Goode and W. J. Stephens reported the men were specially trained in this country, as civilians, since last year when the first of the "flying fortress" bombers were released to the British.

Sledge, burned about the face, was treated at Grady hospital, and Sherman, with severe burns on his arms and legs, was first treated at Grady and then removed to St. Joseph's infirmary, where his condition was reported as fair last night.

Gas Cut Menaces Georgia Finances

Drastic state economies or a raise in taxes would be necessary in event Georgia reduces its consumption of gasoline by one-third as requested by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, State Auditor B. E. Trasher Jr. pointed out yesterday.

The 6-cent gasoline tax, Trasher said, produced nearly one-half of the state's revenue during the last fiscal year, and to cut gasoline sales by one-third would trim approximately $8,000,000 from Georgia's revenue.

This, he said, would more than offset last year's increase of approximately $6,000,000 in revenue.

Navy Censorship of Cablegrams Sought, Fund Request Discloses

Admiral Asks Congress To Provide $796,500 for Establishing Facilities; Early Corroborates Safety Move.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(P)—Plans for Navy censorship on all outgoing communications from the United States, to be imposed as soon as the necessary legislation is enacted, were disclosed today in a House Appropriations Committee report.

The Navy sought $796,500 to establish the necessary offices, the largest of which would be in New York, but the committee rejected the item pending the passage of enabling legislation which a Navy spokesman said the Justice Department was preparing with President Roosevelt's approval.

The proposed censorship presumably would cover commercial wireless messages as well as cables. Although the testimony did not refer specifically to wireless messages, reference was made to an "international censorship on outgoing communications."

At the White House, Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said when asked about the plan: "I can't imagine that it is any more than a precautionary move to apply the censorship that the Army and Navy do and always use, plans for which they always have on hand, if and when certain eventualities take place.

Near Admiral Ben Moreel, appearing before the committee in behalf of the appropriation, said it was wanted "for the establishment of offices for national cable censorship" and added that "the unlimited emergency declared by the President will necessitate the establishment by the Navy Department of offices for national cable censorship in some naval districts."

$5,665,600 FOR NEW FLORIDA NAVAL WORK

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(P)—An additional $5,665,600 in construction at naval establishments in Florida was recommended by the House Appropriations Committee today as part of an $8,000,000 supplemental national defense appropriation measure.

Largest expenditures were recommended for the Navy's big new air station at Jacksonville, where $2,281,100 was designated for additional aviation facilities and $344,500 for expansion of the hospital.

Expenditure of $1,222,000 was recommended for additional aviation facilities at the naval air station at Miami.

The Key West station would receive these new facilities: Housing for enlisted men, laundry and ammunition storage facilities, $332,000; floating crane, $400,000; 35-ton locomotive crane, $50,000; additional aviation facilities, $375,000.

SUCCEEDS PITTMAN—Dr. Albert Martin Gates Sr., president of the Georgia Teachers' College at Statesboro, yesterday was named president of the Georgia Teachers' College at Statesboro.

Gates Named South Georgia College Head

Brewton-Parker President To Succeed Pittman 'at Early Date.'

Dr. Albert Martin Gates Sr., 58-year-old president of Brewton-Parker Junior College, at Mt. Vernon for the past 20 years, yesterday was named president of the Georgia Teachers' College at Statesboro to succeed Dr. Marvin Pittman who was ousted by the State Board of Regents.

This action was taken by a three-man committee of the regents consisting of the Governor, Board Chairman Sandy Beaver, of Gainesville, and Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System of Georgia.

Dr. Gates said he would assume control at the Statesboro institution "at an early date" but added the exact date would depend upon the working out of "certain adjustments."

A native of Greene county, Dr. Gates is a graduate of Mercer University at Macon with A. B. and L.L.D. degrees. He is a former superintendent of Twiggs county schools.

Dr. Gates, who has devoted virtually his entire life to education in Georgia, said he had no immediate plans to put into effect at Statesboro. The Brewton-Parker is a Baptist junior college.

Dr. Gates made it clear he had no connection with the Rosenwald Fund which the governor charged was partly responsible for the ouster of Dr. Pittman.

Defense Savings Drives Arranged

Cities and towns throughout Georgia are planning programs in observance of Defense Bond Week, beginning Monday, Marion Allen, state administrator of the Defense Savings Staff, said here yesterday.

While the bond and savings stamp sales program is a long-range effort to help finance national defense, the observance is intended to emphasize the need of united effort, the administrator said.

Reports from Savannah, Macon, Columbus, Augusta and Rome indicated the observance will be launched with displays comparable to those of Liberty Bond campaigns of World War days.

I know about an amazing way to keep at my best

Dad says I have more Vitality
Mother says I am more Animated
John says I am really Attractive

A truly marvelous change can be brought about by overcoming miserable digestive complaints, underweight, sluggishness and loss of appetite—all by two important steps—

Restore vital digestive juices in the stomach... energize your body with rich, red blood. Here's how!

If you are one of those unfortunate who have been ill, or have suffered with colds, the flu, worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper foods, or have been vexed by overtaxing worries... yet have no organic trouble or focal infection... and your red-blood-cells have become reduced in vitality and number... if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is good news for you.

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build back deficient blood strength... to revive and stimulate those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding worn-out tissue. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat... to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

Build sturdy health

Yes, when you tone up the stomach and get its digestive juices flowing freely, you should enjoy again that old-time zest for food... stomach digestive miseries should vanish. S.S.S. Tonic also gives you the mineral matter in soluble and digestive form to restore your blood

Grand Jury Reprimand Faces Etheridge in Refusal To Appear

Superior Judge's Offer To Answer 'Leniency' Questions in Own Offices Rejected; Legal Opinion Sought for Action Today.

Refusal of Judge Paul S. Etheridge, of Fulton superior court, to appear yesterday before the Fulton county grand jury to submit to questioning on two cases in which Judge Etheridge is regarded by some members of the grand jury to have been too lenient, may bring sharp criticism from the grand jury in the form of special presentments today, it was learned last night.

Judge Etheridge declined to answer an oral invitation to appear before the grand jury and later refused to respond to a grand jury subpoena that he appear before it. As an alternative, Judge Etheridge invited officials—or the whole grand jury—to meet in a courtroom for a discussion.

Legal Aspects Studied.

The judge's proposal failed to meet with a favorable response from the grand jury, and E. E. (Shorty) Andrews, assistant solicitor general, was said last night to be studying the law at the request of the grand jury to ascertain just how far a grand jury may proceed in criticizing a judge without being in contempt of court.

When Judge Etheridge refused to appear, Gordon McNabb, grand jury secretary, sent for a shorthand reporter, while he went to confer with Judge A. L. (Jack) Etheridge, who swore the grand jury in on August 4. Results of the conference were not made public.

It was reported reliably at the courthouse that Andrews' opinion will be sought this morning as to just how far the grand jury can proceed in its criticism of the court.

Simmons Declines Comment.

H. L. Simmons, grand jury foreman, said the matter probably will be resumed at today's meeting of the jury, but declined to comment on what may develop or events of the day.

Judge Etheridge told reporters he would be glad to discuss with any citizen, or group of citizens, as such, any sentence or order signed and give his reasons for doing so, but contended that the courts' orders are not subject to grand jury review. He said the granting of a suspended sentence or the later modification of a sentence is entirely within the discretion of the court.

It was reliably reported that the grand jury wished to question Judge Etheridge regarding the

Cuba Seizes 4 on Charges Of Espionage

Charge Totalitarian 'Object' of Invading Cuban Territory.

HAVANA, July 24.—(UP)—Police and special espionage investigators today arrested three Germans and a Swiss on charges of espionage for the purpose of obtaining information to be used by totalitarian powers in "invading Cuban national territory."

Those arrested were accused of having false passports and of being members of a group of aliens residing in Cuba as refugees or other exiled Europeans but actually commissioned to obtain information of a "military, commercial and industrial character, the ultimate purpose of which is for the use of totalitarian countries whose object is invading Cuban national territory."

In addition the spies were under instructions to foment trouble "in other American countries," it was said.

Those arrested were George Groudo, Otto Walther Fritzsche, Alfred Fischer and Julio Otto Ott, a Swiss.

Police said Groudo holds a high commission in the German army, according to documents seized when his rooms were raided. He was reported to have previously worked in Colombia and Panama. Police said they found "incriminating" correspondence between Groudo and a resident of New York city.

Fritzsche was said by police to have become chief of Nazi propaganda in Cuba since the departure of Karl Hoffman, former member of the staff of the German legation, who was declared persona non grata by the Cuban government and his recall asked.

beginning was to prevent it spreading to the south Pacific, whence the United States has to obtain defense materials such as rubber and tin.

"And now here is a nation called Japan," the President continued in teacher fashion. "Whether they had at that time aggressive purposes to enlarge their empire southward, they didn't have any oil of their own up in the north."

"Now, if we cut the oil off, they probably would have gone down to the Dutch East Indies a year ago, and you would have had war. Therefore, there was—no might call—a method in letting this oil go to Japan, with the hope—and it has worked for two years—of keeping war out of the south Pacific for our own good, for the good of the defense of Great Britain, and the freedom of the seas."

Welles termed the Indo-China developments a "determination that Japan was 'determined to pursue an objective of expansion by force or threat of force' and said there was no valid ground for Japanese claims that bases were necessary there as self-defense measures."

Denies Ambitions.

Denying that the United States, Great Britain or the Netherlands had any territorial ambitions in Indo-China or planned any aggressive moves, Welles said: "This government can, therefore, only conclude that the action of Japan is undertaken because of the estimated value to Japan of bases in that region primarily for purposes of further and more obvious movements of conquest in adjacent areas."

Japan's action, he said, endangered the peaceful use of the Pacific by peaceful nations; and tended to jeopardize the procurement of essential defense materials such as tin and rubber. Then he added in a scarcely veiled warning to Japan:

"The steps which the Japanese government has taken also endanger the safety of other areas of the Pacific, including the Philippine Islands."

"The government and people of this country fully realize that such developments bear directly upon the vital problem of our national security."

Arranges Talk.

After issuing the statement, Welles arranged conference with the minister of Australia—two nations vitally concerned with Japan's military intentions.

Singapore and all British Malaya are heavily garrisoned with Australian forces alert against further Japanese movement southward toward the East Indies.

Northward are the Russian provinces of Siberia, mentioned also as possible Japanese military objectives, while Russia is engaged in conflict in the west with Germany.

During the day, in fact, there was a wholly unconfirmed report from Shanghai that Russian and Japanese troops already had clashed on the Manchukuo-Siberian border.

In Tokyo, meanwhile, the Japanese foreign office organ, which only yesterday was urging that Japan assume protection of French Indo-China, dropped that subject today as if it were already settled and directed its attention to strongly similar vein toward the little Kingdom of Thailand.

The organ, the English-language Japan Times and Advertiser, accused Britain of attempting to "disrupt the good relationship which has developed between Japan and Thailand" and declared Thailand needed external support and internal consolidation against such a threat.

DIES IN PRISON—A. T. Jeans, alias Pee Wee Burns, one of the most notorious figures in this section, died yesterday at Tattnell prison from injuries suffered in a fight with three other inmates, according to prison officials. This photograph was taken a few years ago during one of Pee Wee's frequent appearances in court.

Pee Wee Burns Red Positions Dies in Tattnell Still Unbroken, After Brawl Moscow Says

His condition was not thought to be serious, until he lost consciousness at about 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Warden Lawrence said Burns had a two-inch cut on the left side of his face, and a battered left eye. These, he added, were the only marks of violence on Burns' body.

Dr. L. V. Strickland, prison physician, was with Burns when he died. Burns' family in Atlanta was notified, and arrangements were made to bring the body to this city for funeral services and burial.

Burns reputedly was wealthy and was reported to own considerable real estate, including several properties in the downtown section.

At his home here at 1466 University drive, N. E., Burns' attractive blond wife, Rose, expressed anger and told a reporter for The Constitution:

"I believe he had a fight with a guard and the guard used a stick. I've seen guards down there with sticks in their hands."

She would not amplify this statement.

Other members of Burns' family, a brother and one of his two sisters, both of whom declined to give their names, said the first indication of any trouble came at about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon with receipt of a telegram from Warden Lawrence.

This message stated: "A. T. in serious condition; come if you want to."

At about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, another telegram came from the warden. Its message was terse:

"A. T. Jean; advise disposition of body; we do not embalm body."

The wife of Pee Wee, who first gained that "moniker" in the early 20's when he engaged in prize fighting in both bantam and lightweight divisions—also disclosed that she received a letter from her husband postmarked from Reidsville at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Sentimental Missive.

This letter, she said, was typewritten, but signed in Pee Wee's hand. It was a sentimental missive, she continued, dealing mainly with his love for her, and contained many endearing expressions. The letter contained no indication of anything wrong, she added, and did not mention either a fight or injuries.

The brother and sister, as well as Mrs. Jeans, pictured Pee Wee as a good family man and one who had done much for them in a financial way. The family appeared grief-stricken at the news of Pee Wee's death and repeatedly stated they believed him innocent of any wrongdoing.

The sister also revealed that she came over in this third raid, the government announced. How many were shot down was not stated.

Moscow radio stations fell silent last night, indicating that a fourth consecutive night German raid was in progress.

Berlin reported steady progress in the face of stiff resistance and despite bad roads as the German summary last night of the war against Russia.

Motorized detachments of the German forces were slowed up by bad road conditions, especially in the Kiev area, but it was stated that this had been taken into account.

Cloudbursts were declared to have turned the highways into muddy handicaps to German trucks, heavy artillery and other equipment of a modern war machine.

Contract Is Let For Warehouse

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 24.—Arrangements have been completed here for the erection of a large wholesale warehouse for the Colonial Stores, Inc., in Thomasville, a contract having been tentatively approved at a letting here Tuesday.

B. L. Brewton & Son, of this city, was declared the low bidder. The amount of the contract is understood to run near $100,000, and work is to begin on the building at an early date.

The warehouse will be of brick and will be 370 feet long and 170 wide, having approximately 60,000 square feet of floor space.

The building will be located on the Boston road, just outside the city limits, and will have the Coast Line sidetrack available.

HANCOCK SINGING.

SPARTA, Ga., July 24.—The Hancock Singing Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at Friendship church Sunday, according to George B. Wood, director. Singers are expected from all churches in Hancock county, as it is an inter-denominational gathering, meeting each month at some church in the county.

Burns' Record Lists Numerous Tilts With Law

U. S. Had Detainer Against Atlantan on Tax Charge.

The death yesterday in Tattnell prison of A. T. Jeans, alias Pee Wee Burns, closed a long career of encounters with the law.

At the time of his death—from mysterious injuries which prison officials claimed he suffered in a fight with three other inmates—Burns was serving a term of four to six years following conviction in Bibb county for a liquor and jewel robbery of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Modena.

The federal government had issued a "holdover" for Jeans to serve a sentence for income tax evasion, and during Burns' career he was in and out of jail on a variety of charges, from bribery to assault with intent to murder.

Indicted by Fulton.

One of the most sensational chapters in Burns' life was in 1938 when, in April of that year, he was indicted by a Fulton county grand jury on all of 37 counts charging bribery of two Atlanta policemen and six former sheriff's deputies.

He was later convicted, but April 4, 1940, was freed on grounds that he had demanded a trial and failed to receive it in legal limits. Burns' police record began December 4, 1923, according to Fulton county records, when he was arrested in Detroit on a charge of larceny of an automobile. He was given a two-to-six-year sentence, served nine months and then was paroled.

November 8, 1925, he again had a brush with the law when he was arrested in Shreveport, La., and charged with aiding a criminal to escape. He was subsequently released.

Three years later, according to the record, May 5, 1928, Burns was arrested in Atlanta, charged with assault and battery. The case was not prosecuted. Four years later, December 22, 1932, Burns was arrested by the United States marshal in Atlanta on a charge of violating the prohibition laws. He paid a $10,000 fine and was released.

April 26, 1933, Burns was again arrested by a United States marshal, charged with violation of the prohibition laws and conspiracy. He was sentenced to 15 months, and was paroled January 27, 1934.

Given Sentence.

Two years later, January 29, 1936, Burns was again arrested, in Fulton county, and charged with violation of the prohibition laws, and April 29, 1937, was fined $750 and given a sentence of 12 months in prison.

April 18, 1938, he was again arrested in Fulton county, on a charge of bribery, and April 28, 1938, was fined $4,000. May 27, 1938, he was arrested in Atlanta by a federal marshal, charged with violation of the national firearms act. He posted $500 bond. Disposition of this case was not available from records last night.

December 10, 1939, he was arrested in Fulton county on a charge of assault and battery, and February 5, 1940, was fined $75 and sentenced to 12 months in jail.

November 13, 1940, the law again reached out for Burns. This time on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

$300,000 Blaze Sweeps Elevator

CHICAGO, July 24.—(AP)—A spectacular fire and explosion leveled one of two sections of a grain elevator today, causing damage estimated at $300,000 by Deputy Fire Marshal Anthony Mullaney. Six workers escaped from the elevator a few minutes before the explosion tore the roof from the structure and sent flames racing through the eight floors. Fire broke out in the top floor, apparently from spontaneous combustion.

Approximately 315,000 bushels of corn, most of it owned by the government, was stored in the elevator. A portion of the grain was in the destroyed section built of wood and corrugated iron and the rest in adjoining concrete storage tanks.

No Promises Given on Rosin Loan Increase

Final Answer Expected From U. S. in Two or Three Days.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—A second meeting of southern members of congress, leaders of the naval stores industry and Agriculture Department officials on a proposed increase in the rosin loan adjourned today without any promise from the department.

The industry seeks to increase the loan a cent a pound. It now averages about two cents. Congressmen said the agriculture officials indicated a willingness to make a small increase in the loan rate but frowned on the full one-cent boost. A compromise was discussed at length, they said, and the department promised a final answer in two or three days.

Use of Electricity
High at Thomaston
Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
THOMASTON, Ga., July 24.—In spite of the fact that the city of Thomaston has had a blackout each night since May, a new all-time high record for electricity consumption was set by the city during June.

Disregarding the nightly saving of 272 kilowatt hour, the city used 251,200 kilowatt hours during June to set the new record according to city officials.

The new high in the use of electricity was attributed mainly to the increased scale of operation on which the water department has been running, using an excessive amount of the current.

The blackout ended here yesterday until September 1.

Hatchet Buried By Mayor and J. Allen Couch

However, Councilman's Letter Criticizing LeCraw Printed First.

Councilman J. Allen Couch and Mayor LeCraw yesterday buried the hatchet before a blow was struck, but too late to prevent publication of a letter in the Atlanta afternoon paper written to LeCraw by Couch in which the mayor was strongly criticized for his stand in a projected investigation of alleged inefficiency, mismanagement and neglect in the administration of Grady hospital.

Couch wrote his letter early yesterday morning and sent copies to the press. Before the copies reached newsmen and the original reached LeCraw's office, the mayor paid a pop call on Couch to discuss the Grady matter.

While the discussions were in progress, Couch turned to LeCraw to say: "I wrote you a letter about this very thing this morning, just forgot it."

The letter, however, was a caustic indictment of LeCraw for entering on a tirade of personalities for the purpose of "beclouding the one single issue" (whether Grady is performing its maximum service, which the Couch resolution passed by council sought to ascertain).

The letter also dared LeCraw to veto the resolution, which he is holding on his desk and on which he probably will take action sometime today.

Agents Are Guests Of Callaway Farm

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
LORRAINE, Ga., July 24.—Cason Callaway, of the Blue Springs Farm, near Hamilton, was host to approximately 100 women representing the home demonstration groups of Troup county, under the leadership of Miss Ida Bell, home demonstration agent, one afternoon this week.

Mr. Callaway conducted a tour of the many enterprises being carried on at this nationally known experimental project in the Pine Mountain region.

The women, all from rural sections of Mr. Callaway's home county, listened attentively while he explained to them the value of certain modern, improved farming and harvesting methods. To each guest was presented a basket of the fine blueberries Mr. Callaway is producing as proof of establishing other money crops besides cotton on Georgia farms.

Willis C. Hawley Dies at Age of 77
SALEM, Ore., July 24.—(AP)—Former Representative Willis C. Hawley, 77, a co-author of the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, died today. Hawley represented the first Oregon congressional district from 1906 to 1932, when he was defeated by Representative James W. Mott. He was chairman of the House Appropriations Committee for many years.

Two sons, Cecil and Kenneth, survive. His wife died several years ago.

Laymen To Meet Today at Oxford

Methodist laymen of the North Georgia Conference territory will assemble today at Oxford for a three-day midyear meeting. Speakers will include Bishop Arthur J. Moore, Dr. H. B. Trimble, of the Candler School of Theology, and Dr. E. Dow Bancroft, of Chicago, representing the general lay activities board. Round-table discussions of questions pertaining to laymen's work in local churches will be held, led by district lay leaders. Bishop Moore is to speak tonight following the fellowship dinner, and Dr. Bancroft also will speak on fellowship and attendance. Bishop Moore is to speak again on Saturday, and Dr. Bancroft will deliver addresses Saturday and Sunday. The assembly will adjourn Sunday noon. Professor Virgil Eady is to conduct all song services.

Georgia Traffic Toll Increases By 19 Per Cent

401 Accident Fatalities Are Reported Since First of Year.

Traffic deaths in Georgia increased nearly 19 per cent during the first six months of 1941 over the same period last year, Georgia State Patrol officials reported yesterday.

Accidents on the highways took 401 lives from January through June of this year as compared with 337 in 1940, 343 in 1939 and 392 in 1938, first year in which records were kept.

An increase was recorded in every month of this year except June, and patrol officials indicated when complete reports are made this year's June total, too, probably will exceed that of the same month in 1940. Fifty deaths have been recorded for June, 1941, so far, as compared with 52 in June of last year.

Patrol officials said a general decline in the number of deaths was noted from the beginning of the year to the present, and attributed this to reorganization of the patrol in February and the recent addition of 40 new troopers.

Total numbers of deaths from automobile accidents in 1938 was 823. In 1939, 744 were killed, and 829 deaths were recorded in 1940. Records for the first six-month periods of the last four years follow:

|----------|------|------|------|------|
| January | 73 | 82 | 72 | 72 |
| February | 51 | 51 | 62 | 62 |

Plea He Served In Greek Jail Fails Prisoner

Double Jeopardy Denied in Unusual Case by Underwood.

Holding that John Philip Spanos, who sought his freedom from the federal penitentiary on the grounds that he had already served time in his native Greece for the same offense for which he is under sentence here, is not in double jeopardy, Judge E. Marvin Underwood yesterday discharged a writ of habeas corpus and remanded Spanos to the custody of Warden Joseph W. Sanford.

"While it appears from the record that petitioner may have been prosecuted in Greece for matters involved in the same transactions which resulted in the violations with which he is charged," Judge Underwood's order stated, "nevertheless it appears that the particular offenses charged in said indictment are different offenses from those for which he was prosecuted in Greece. The same acts may constitute separate crimes against different sovereignties. It appears, therefore, that no double jeopardy was involved in the prosecutions in the two countries."

"It further appears that there is no treaty existing between the United States and Greece, which would prevent the United States from prosecuting one who has committed a crime in this country, regardless of whether he had been prosecuted on other phases of the particular transactions in question."

Spanos is under two-and-a-half-year sentence from a New York court on a plea of guilty to transporting $5,000 worth of stolen securities in interstate commerce.

Course in Canning Instruction Begins

Community Employment Service Training School at 384 Irwin street, N. E., has begun a course of free instruction in canning for Negro women.

Employers have been urged to permit their servants to take advantage of this course.

Free training in domestic service is also available at the school, which is open from 8 o'clock in the morning to 3:30 o'clock each afternoon.

Miss Kathleen Watson, director of the school, urges Negro women take advantage of the abundance of fruits and vegetables by bringing them to the school, where they may can them under competent supervision.

25 Cattle From Fire

HUDSON, Mich., July 24.—(P) Spot, a collie chore-dog, is no less a hero to his farmer-master because the lives he saved were those of cattle.

Lightning set fire to Frank Brown's stock barn yesterday and at the same time rendered the telephone in the Brown farmhouse useless. The farmer raced through the burning barn, turning loose the 25 head of livestock it housed, and ordered Spot to drive the animals outdoors to safety.

Without waiting to help the dog, Brown set out on a five-mile journey to town for aid. He returned with a fire truck to find his barn in ruins but every animal safe. Firemen saved the other buildings.

PRINCESS' POOL GOES.

One of the most famous and exclusive of London's clubs, the Bath Club, where Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret were taught to swim, has been gutted by fire. The princess took part in swimming contests at the club in 1939 and won prizes in the children's races.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 25, 1941.

Garbage Odors

The city of Atlanta has been patient.

In the midst of an epidemic of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis), the men who load the city's garbage trucks walked out. It is believed that flies may be one of the carriers of the infantile paralysis germ. Flies are well-known carriers of other diseases.

It is high time those who are advising the men who have left their jobs, advise them to go back to work.

It may be that, as they claim, they merit more pay. That point can be settled. It may be, as the city says, it cannot pay more. That can be settled.

These men yesterday reportedly refused to join a labor union which had asked them to organize. This would seem to bear out the claim of all concerned that the men who left their jobs did not present any grievances but simply left them, depending on the city's inability to collect garbage to obtain for them their demands.

It was not the right way to do it. Public sentiment will endure garbage more cheerfully than it will a strike against the essential service of a city. When such a strike comes in the midst of an epidemic of frightening prospects, it is all the more intolerable.

There are methods for presenting labor difficulties. These men have not chosen to use them. There are right ways and wrong ways to present demands. These men have chosen, no matter whether the cause be just or not, the wrong way.

Those behind the scenes owe the city a responsibility.

It is time they met it.

Next to house-to-house canvassing in the Alps, we'd say the hardest kind of work was train-announcing in Russia.

An astrologer sets some time next March as the new date for the end of the world. Surely there are less drastic solutions of Hitler.

The Far East Must Remain Open

In the Far East the forces of Japan are being unleashed.

Whether or not the public realizes it fully, the United States must move if the Japanese strike into a danger zone, a zone determined by the accessibility of supplies of rubber, tin, quinine and other products necessary to this country's defense organization.

This is no hypothetical question, but a stern reality. Singapore and the communications to the Indies must remain open if this country is to survive.

After Tough Tokyo has decided where to strike next, comes the big question: Do we just ignore 5,000,000 armed Chinamen?

Struck on the head today with an apple, Newton wouldn't think of gravity. He'd begin feverishly digging a shelter.

American Story

Atlanta yesterday entertained Albert N. Williams, newly chosen president of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

"It is kind of you," he said, addressing the guests at a luncheon, "to welcome so warmly an old brakeman."

His story is so typically American that it is well worth the telling. His parents spent their honeymoon crossing the western plains in an ox cart in 1860.

He himself worked with a pick and shovel as a common laborer. He advanced to the position of rodman with a surveying crew. He worked as an apprentice machinist. He saved enough money to go to college and study engineering. When he got out there was no fancy jobs. He went back to work doing labor on a railroad. He rose to be its general superintendent.

He resigned a railroad presidency to become president of the Western Union. In this story, is the story of the "American Dream" and in it are the sinews which built America—the belief that hard work and ambition will be recognized.

The Western Union is to be congratulated on its new chief. Atlanta will delight to welcome him again.

Most confused picture of the week is the one in Tokyo. There we find poor Butterfly, 'neath the blossoms waiting, and engaged to two fellows.

The Time Has Come

The people of the United States have been talking of sacrifices in the abstract sense for more than a year.

The time has come for more tangible expression of the willingness to sacrifice, of the grit to sacrifice.

Because the time has come when Americans must conceive the sacrifices they are willing to make in the terms in which the people of the 13 colonies conceived them. For the danger that confronts them demands this conception.

Some will have to sacrifice their lives. No nation was ever great unless there lived within it those who willingly would die that the people might live on in peace. No man wishes to die. Most men fear it. Yet nations have become great only because men cast aside the wish and the fear for the greater ideal in which they have been nurtured.

Some will have to sacrifice advancement. A year or two years may mean much to many. Yet how valuable would be that advancement in life if by it a nation's needs are sacrificed? How valuable will be advancement when the barricades are built across the streets, as they always are, sooner or later, in defeated countries? What price promotion at the expense of a soul? A soul of freedom?

Some will have to sacrifice wages. And why not? Money neither opens the gates of heaven nor closes the gates of hell. The world is at war today because the few would not share with the many. Because, in no small measure, we of this country would not share our wealth or our genius with the peoples of other lands. If anything ever doomed the Republican party and its Democratic party friends to perdition it was the slamming of the gates against the world's peoples and their right to live and trade. This land of inalienable rights brought this narrowness of insular minds to curse the wide world. So of what avail is salary against the bill which must be paid?

Why? Why not the man across the street? Why not the mill hand in his rented squalor? The mill hand is of greater worth than you. His hands have known toil, have learned a trade which he can contribute to the common cause. You, perhaps, once knew toil. Perhaps you never did. The mill hand is needed at his spindles and his looms. His sacrifice has in large measure been paid in the years he has lived in this back street. His sacrifice will be as great. In hard work, in long hours. In these new taxes that will strike at all men, great and small, in some degree. Indeed, in greater degree on this toiler.

We speak of sacrifice. But is it sacrifice? Isn't it opportunity? What greater opportunity can man be given but to serve wherever and however his country requires? Are we not all Americans, sons of a land feared and respected the world over? What holds us back from sacrifice, from service, from strife and tears and travail? Fear? In this land whose sons have fought from the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli, from Siberia to the bloodied strand of a South Sea isle? Let lesser men speak of fears!

The war is immeasurably closer. For only a pitifully few days can these United States postpone the inevitable decision.

Think of these things in the quiet of your home and search your heart for the answer. The call will come. There is but one answer.

For freedom cannot perish from this earth! The pledge of all must be that of America.

For Herr Hitler, a war on two fronts should be easy, as he has the faces for it.

Things are so tough in Europe that when they say "no soap" they mean no soap.

Georgia Editors Say:

ENLIVENING DOG DAYS.
(From The Moultrie Observer.)

They will go on arguing about dog days. The wets and the dries will have it over and under in the future as in the past. Of course, there is nothing to dog days, and there is nothing to making a wish when you see a new moon for the first time, but we will continue to make wishes, and we will continue to watch for rain on the first dog day and watch for the sun on ground hog day. We cannot allow the realists to have all of the stage. It didn't rain in Moultrie on the first dog day, but it did rain in Tifton. That is confusing, and it seems that the weatherman will have a hard time spotting all of the wet spots of the first day for 40 return engagements. We will not remember ten years from now how it all came out, and we will then be preparing for a rainy spell when dog days start off with rain.

As we see it, dog days are much like other days. They bring pleasures and woes. They have their bright moments and their thrills, and they bring along rain and boll weevils and mosquitoes. When dog days pass, other days will come, and they will not be free from rain or drought, from sickness and sorrow, from work and hard luck. There will be a bright side and a dark side.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WE NEED A YEAR WASHINGTON, July 24.—Whether we need a year or not, we ever been called upon to use it is another question, but the United States with typical American ingenuity and industrial enterprise, is building a war machine that far outstrips anything yet conceived elsewhere in the world.

Given another year to complete the vast defense program we have laid down, we will have equipment in guns, tanks, military aircraft and naval vessels that will make anything Hitler has to offer look puny in comparison. All of it represents the latest word in military science and engineering skill. What is equally significant, we are doing in two years something that required the Germans eight years to build.

Only in one respect, trained military man power, will we be excelled by the Germans. The Nazis are supposed to have some 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 seasoned troops either in service or in reserves. Right now we have only approximately 1,500,000, with an additional batch of about 1,000,000 selectees coming along for training. This reflects one of the chief underlying reasons why President Roosevelt and General George Marshall, chief of the Army staff, are urging congress to revise the Selective Service Act so as to permit keeping the draftees and National Guardsmen longer than the original one-year limit.

A MODERN WAR MACHINE

But in all other categories of military preparations our advance over the Axis will be so great that, measured by the present outlook, we should have little to fear.

From one standpoint, our military experts regard it as fortunate, perhaps, that we did not launch our huge defense program earlier. Practically all of the blueprints we had for military equipment before the war started have since been outmoded. This applies to guns no less than to planes and tanks. By not getting under way with our production program until the war had been in progress for some time, we were able to take advantage of new improvements in scientific instruments and arms.

Certainly this is true of military aircraft, for example. With few exceptions, the planes we were building for defense shortly before the war began are now obsolete. If we had built up a huge air fleet prior to 1939, practically all of it would have been useless today, except for training purposes. The designs we were producing then were neither fast enough, had sufficient armor protection or fire control to meet present-day conditions.

The same was generally true of our conception of tanks, anti-aircraft guns and ordnance, though some of the scientific military instruments we had devised, notably the Norden bombsight, one of our prime military secrets, are still the best.

THANKS TO BRITAIN

No small part of the improvements we have been able to achieve in military equipment has been due to the British. Every new device developed by her engineers, every new secret gleaned from the Germans or otherwise, has been passed on to us immediately for study and production. Often we have been able to make great strides in added improvements, the product of our traditional inventive genius and industrial skill.

In short, we have been able to use actual war operations as the laboratory for our own defense program. The equipment we are building, or much of it at least, has seen the test of war conditions.

Most of the material we are constructing as a part of our defense works necessarily cannot be revealed because of the military secrecy involved, but enough can be told to give the country assurance that the administration and the OPM are not asleep on the job, as some critics would have the public believe.

OPM, for instance, is just getting under production a new anti-diver bomber gun which the British say would have saved their fleet from disaster at the battle of Crete.

THE MOST POWERFUL WEAPON

Regarded as the most powerful weapon of its kind yet developed, the new gun, product of a Swiss inventor, is designed to fire 500 rounds of 200-caliber shells, explosive and otherwise, per minute. It has an effective range of about a mile, with flexible maneuverability. One hit is supposed to put a dive bomber out of action. The British say two of the guns to a ship is all the protection needed against the Stukas.

As the gun is reportedly now in production in Switzerland, presumably for German use also, it is no great military secret. But it is of far greater value to us and the British than it is to the Nazis, who have few ships left to protect from dive bombers.

The British secured the blueprints and forwarded them to us with an urgent recommendation that we go into full-scale production. Several American automotive plants are already turning them out. Within a short time they will be coming off the production line at the rate of 200 and more a month. We plan to equip all our naval vessels with them. The British theirs also, as well as merchantmen.

What we are doing in the way of tanks and munitions is equally impressive. Forty billion dollars is a lot of money, but we will have the best military machine in the world when it is spent.

The Pulse of the Public

PLEADS FOR OLD SOUTHERN HOME

Editor Constitution: I happened to be near the old home place of Senator Gordon today and could not help but wander over the grounds and then enter the house via a rotting back porch.

Perhaps you too, would feel sad to see this place a victim of uncouthness and indifference. Objects of art, things of long ago that perhaps someone molded to please a master, were strewn about the place willfully smashed. In the house most of the fine old fireplace mantels were gruffly torn from the walls. I suppose the work of someone whose mind was craving for hidden treasure. On one floor I saw a collapsible metal wash basin that folded up into the wall. It must have been a honey in its time, but it, too, was broken.

The appearance of the place seems to come from the "Tobacco Road"—sloveness personified!

Surely there are some southerners who are in position to protect this shrine from the vandal.

Visit this place and stand on the east side of the porch and look to the west, tilting your eyes to the balcony, and follow the scalloped columns to the ceiling you could not fail to see what I saw—the vanishing south.

DILLON L. CROWLEY.

Atlanta.

WANTS TO USE V TOO

Editor Constitution: We are all interested in victory. Why not use "V" promiscuously in all we do—an envelope, in the letter V in our advertising, trade paper, newspaper, billboard, etc. Then check it or write it elsewhere.

This would co-operate with Britain—mayhap discourage our foes—and cost little.

RALPH W. BAGWELL.

MR. EATON SAYS GOODBYE

Editor Constitution: A copy of the Chicago Tribune of July 2 was handed to me by a friend. I have read their editorial, "Is Georgia Out Again?" (Editor's Note—The editorial objected to the refusal of the auditorium for Senator Wheeler.) This editorial meets with my heart-felt approval.

For some time now, I have been growing weary of the Atlanta press. I am getting tired of news presented in a biased and misleading manner. I am getting weary of editorial dishonesty. I am sick unto death of "canard" opinion, represented by a number of columnists beating a monotonous row of tom-toms, and evidently taking their lead from dirty Winchell and sinister Lippman. I am consumed with weariness by the feeble echoes of all this bosh coming from Atlanta editorial writers. I am sending my subscription to the Chicago Tribune, and would rather have my news day late than waste daily through the bludge that Atlanta journalism has become.

In the interests of free speech and a free press, just one question: Will it be satisfactory if I read my daily Tribune in the city of Atlanta, provided I guarantee not to read it in, near or about the auditorium? Surely you will favor free speech anywhere in the city, except at the auditorium, will grant me this right.

Another question: Will it be perfectly satisfactory if each day I hand my Tribune when it is read to some other party, and solicit subscriptions for it, in an attempt to give it as wide a circulation here as possible, provided that I hand it to no one in, near or about the auditorium?

Perhaps, for expressing this disgust of Atlanta journalism, I am a traitor. Perhaps Senator Wheeler, for expressing his unwillingness to see our country dragged by the heels into another European war, is a traitor. Perhaps Lindbergh, for defense against attack rather than attack for defense, is a traitor. Perhaps Vandenberg, Taft, Johnson, Talmadge and a host of others are traitors. Perhaps we are all traitors, who do not favor intervention in Europe, Asia, Africa and other points east and west. Yes, perhaps we are traitors. But perhaps Atlanta editors are prostitutes; plain, simple, literary prostitutes. Yes, perhaps. Take it or leave it. And goodbye for ever.

JIM EATON.

Word Stories

By W. Worthington Wells

The word "news", while plural in form, is singular in construction. One would not say: "The news are good" but "The news is good." Many years ago when Horace Greeley was editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, two well-known men got into an argument about the word "news". They decided to ask Mr. Greeley, finding he was out of the city they wired him, "Are there any news," to which Mr. Greeley promptly replied, "Not a new."

To be considered a meticulous writer or speaker one must watch carefully the construction of nouns. For instance, "means" is used as singular or plural, depending upon the meaning it conveys. In the sentence, "No other means are to be found,"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

An Innocent New York Man

July 24.—My reason for selecting the conclusion that Huey Long was assassinated by Dr. Carl Austin Weiss is that almost from the day of the shooting I have been skeptical of the conduct of the officials who, with all the power of a brutal dictatorship comparing Hitler's, and with the strongest of motives, failed to conduct an intelligent, thorough investigation. As matters stand, a man who was known in his home community as a decent American citizen and who was conspicuously aloof from the vilification of Louisiana politics, has been branded as a murderer. He has been so recorded in an important incident in American history on the word of men who, in the circumstances of the case, might themselves be vindicated of error or crime by an easy assumption that Dr. Weiss shot Long.

Two of the biographies of Long, published after his death, casually but flatly accuse Weiss of murdering the Kingfish, as though a fact had been positively established, when the truth is that no such finding ever was recorded.

Forrest Davis, in a book entitled "Huey Long: A Candid Biography," made the unqualified and unsupported assertion that Weiss shot Long. In the next paragraph underlining his own assumption by admitting that the "assassination" was "improbable" and seemed "to lack plausibility." Nevertheless, he declares that Huey was "vanquished by a will more ruthless, more destructive even than his own."

Statements.

In the career of Dr. Weiss, who fell dead from many bullets fired at arm's length by the bodyguard whom Huey called "my thug-men," there is nothing to justify a statement that he was a man of "ruthless" and "destructive" will. On the contrary, he was known as an earnest, studious, nonpolitical man of science who had been educated in medicine at home and abroad and the only ruthless and destructive act cited against him is the one which was not proven.

Carleton Beals, in the story of Huey P. Long, is equally positive that Weiss shot the Kingfish, declaring that Weiss "pressed a gun into the senator's side and fired a bullet," but seems, himself, to doubt the motive ascribed to Weiss. This motive was revenge for the cancellation of a political job held by Weiss' father-in-law.

"Whether this or deeper motives were involved," says Beals, "may never be cleared up." But before the question of Weiss' motive is cleared up, it obviously is necessary to establish that Weiss shot Long and this has not been done. Nevertheless, Weiss becomes a murderer, when it is very apparent that he may himself have been murdered in cold blood and his widow and child and his father, also a doctor, are thus glibly stigmatized.

If Long was shot in treachery by any of the armed men with whom he surrounded himself, or if he was hit accidentally in the general gunplay, then the surviving terrorists of the dictatorship would have had an obvious motive for concealing and confusing the facts. The caliber of the bullet which killed Huey was never ascertained and the expected first statements of men who were on the scene, or just out of sight around the corners, indicate that Weiss did not shoot first, indeed, he fired at all. It is not known that he fired even the one shot which was said to have been discharged from his pistol. Weiss carried the pistol in the front pocket of his automobile, as many citizens customarily do in Louisiana.

Might Be Police

The police might have fired that shot after discovering the weapon in the car, or after removing it from his clothing as he lay dead. The police, it must be remembered, were part of an armed personal terrorist force, as they were backed by a horde of sinister, mysterious secret agents of the criminal identification department, the Louisiana Gestapo. No unsupported testimony from the police would deserve any consideration.

And it must also be remembered that the police who finally did give testimony were not available for the inquest until eight days had passed. That lapse would have given them plenty of time to perfect and accommodate their stories, but, nevertheless, the coroner's jury was unable to say who shot Long and pointedly refused to say that Weiss shot him. There is no finding on that point, nor was there any evidence that Weiss had conspired with others and had drawn the "short straw," as some bawling members of the terror afterward said he had.

If history is to be written from hearsay and old clippings, then historians must give weight to the fact that Long's gunmen riddled and silenced the only man who could have told the story if the truth was that Huey died of treachery or by a misdirected shot intended for a man who only slapped his face.

Huey's police are commonly supposed to have been very tough and so they were in the blood-thirsty way of the Brown Shirts of Germany. But they were not tough in the way of brave men, for a whole bunch of them were afraid to take their man alive as single-handed New York policemen do every week in the year. Instead, they chewed a puny little runt to tatters with their .44's and .45's while he lay helpless and probably dead at their feet.

"means" is singular and should be "means is." "Various means were tried," or "This is a means to an end," are likewise correct. A famous writer said: "Some of our plural nouns are very singular." That sentence sounds like a contradiction but it isn't. Look up the word singular in a good dictionary, it has more than a dozen definite meanings.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

LOT'S WIFE I never liked Mr. Lot, one of the heroes of the fire at Sodom and Gomorrah. He was a timid soul and not a very good citizen at best. I always liked his wife best.

Some columnist once wrote a column on that subject, saying how much better it was to become a shining pillar of salt on the ugly plains than to have hurried on, whining, to the safety of the caves.

Lot's wife always has seemed to me much the more admirable character. She snaked a quick look at the fire as it rained down from heaven and burned up the two cities. There is no record even that the sniveling Lot once halted to shed a tear. Indeed, he seems to have been so disorganized that he was not much good to anyone, not even himself. Lot's wife saw the fire. She saw the big event. Lot never saw anything. I do not understand why he should be held up as a shining example. If you will read about him, there really was nothing about him to attract one's admiration.

It is good to look back. Indeed, we have a deal too much of this looking forward business. It is all very well to march forward, with one's eyes fixed on the rising sun, but I tell you it is well to look behind at the facts. If one's eyes always are toward the sunrise, one really doesn't know what has happened. Look back, at least long enough, to see what has been the result of your passing. If one looks back, one is very likely to be turned into a pillar of salty truth, standing on the plains of common sense. That is not a bad thing to happen to one. Indeed, I could wish for thousands of persons to look behind them.

This, of course, would not help some of them. Some would have to go through the experience which was Saul's on the road to Damascus. The scales would have to fall from their eyes. Then they might, indeed, become a rigid pillar of truth, the salt of it eating into the wounds. Yes, I think we could find a use for many, many more persons today who would emulate Mrs. Lot. We have enough of the Mr. Lot type, sniveling on toward the darkness of the caves.

"THESE ARE THE FACTS" We cannot all be like Mr. Lot or, for that matter, like Governor Pontius Pilate. Pilate, when he encountered injustice and false witness, washed his hands of the whole matter, dried them on a towel, and was finished with it.

Governor P. Pilate did not go about insisting on the lies that had been told about Jesus Christ in an effort to excuse the wrong he was to do. He could have done that. He contented himself with washing his hands of it. He could have been worse.

I am reminded of all this by an article in the Atlantic Monthly about the Citizens' Fact-Finding Movement. It is an excellent movement. It has stood the test of all those who are suspicious of truth.

They, indeed, are the sisters and brothers of Mrs. Lot, these farmers, these civic club members, these women's club members, and others who make up the membership, "thinking together." They dare to look back so that all of us may better understand how to go forward.

It has an interested membership of about 250,000. It advocates no cause, has no candidate, engages in no crusade. It functions as the collector of facts about Georgia and presents them factually. Always factually. It has found out the facts about Georgia's farms and it suggests solutions of the problems. It has examined into our social problems and offered solutions. It has found out the facts about our penal system. Its pamphlet on our educational system was one of its best.

I know that some of those in the 17 member institutions have become, on occasion, discouraged. They have given the people the facts, thousands of people had the facts, yet there did not seem to be much improvement.

Now I think I can see it at work. It seems to me I can feel the weight of it being reflected in the horse sense of the people of the state. It has been successful. It will go on being successful.

THEIR PAMPHLETS

The Fact-Finding Movement has had a difficult struggle. Indeed, it is having one now. Yet it goes on. The 17 members are worth noting. I think. They are the Georgia Education Association, the Georgia Press Association, the Georgia Civilians, Rotarians, Kiwanians, Lions and Pilots, the Georgia Division of the American Association of University Women, the United Georgia Farmers, the Home Demonstration Council (composed of groups of rural women), the Georgia Library Association, the Georgia State Exchange Clubs, the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, the Georgia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the Georgia Council of Church Women, the Georgia League of Women Voters, and the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers.

They study. They investigate. They come forth with the facts. The facts are winnowed and threshed. Their pamphlets are worth having. They are facts, unvarnished, unflinching, unmitigated.

It seems to me the newspapers of Atlanta and the 160 more newspapers in the state have profited by this organization. It seems to me I can feel its effect already; facts standing up strong enough to be a rallying point.

We can look back and see what has happened because of our passing and thereby gauge our path.

I salute the sons and daughters of Mrs. Lot.

The King Can't Appreciate His Advantages Until He Loses His Job

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

"What does America mean to you?" Writers and radio speakers are asking the question and then answering it.

It is the kind of subject that inspires eloquence and fancy writing, and those who expound it become lyrical and poetic. They go into detail to show us what America is—the tawny wheat fields of Kansas; eternal snow on the Rockies; the traffic on Broadway; coal miners getting $7 a day and a paid vacation; taking the family out in the car on Sunday afternoons; the deep shade of trees that line Main street; mowing the lawn after sundown; lying on the floor of a garage to repair Doc's car; walking home in the evening with a quart of milk.

But such thumb-nail sketches, while picturing various phases of American life and perhaps giving the stranger some idea of our country, do not answer the question: "What does America mean to you?"

For the sketches are not uniquely American. All of them or nearly all of them might be duplicated in other countries. They mean America only in the sense that they are familiar to us.

If these things are

Dudley Glass

Few days ago we—and that "we" includes several of us—took a friend from a pleasant south Georgia town for a drive.

He said he knew uptown Atlanta—the hotels and stores and office buildings and night spots—but he hadn't seen the residence district since he was a kid in short pants. He's wearing them again, for golf, tennis and badminton, but let that go.

We drove him through all the swank rural roads with their mansions and vast estates. He was impressed but not envious. Though he was tremendously interested in the great lawns, because he just can't get grass to grow like that in his country.

To cross from one swank neighborhood to another we traversed a pretty road between three hundred pretty homes. Nice little bungalows and villas and whatever you like to call them.

"How far out are we from my hotel?" he asked. I guessed it was about eight miles.

"Is real estate so costly out here?" he inquired. I told him it wasn't out of reason.

"Then why have all these people built or bought homes on such narrow lots that they can smell their neighbors' cabbage cooking or have to listen to their neighbors' radio or be kept awake by a next-door baby's crying?" he asked.

"Why did they all huddle up so close together? Are they afraid of an Indian raid?"

I couldn't answer that. Maybe it's because the subdivision folk offered 50-foot lots. Maybe because the buyers liked to possess a home on a nice street or road without paying too much. Maybe they'd rather put their money into a tiled bath and a basement game room than into elbow room.

But that's their business, not ours.

On the Sidelines
My old friend, Editor Shytle, of the Adel News, remarks editorially that he is not going to be drawn into a discussion about the Cocking-Pittman affair except to say it "looks like the state has lost two outstanding educators."

Mr. Shytle is one of the few Georgia better known editors who have sat on the sidelines.

But why shouldn't an editor discuss a matter of immense importance to his state? Certainly he has an opinion on the subject. Why shouldn't he express it? Nobody could accuse Mr. Shytle of being "skewed."

I have been so close to editors of Georgia newspapers for years that perhaps they will forgive me for a bit of criticism—directed at a number of them. By no means all.

Their fault, as I see it, is trying to edit a paper with shears and pastepot, a stack of free publicity material disguised as "news" and a couple of letters sent in by some local candidate.

I have waded through scores of papers every week in search of some editorial paragraph or discussion of local problems which might suggest an idea for this column, because I like to write about what's going on in Georgia that doesn't reach the city newspapers through their correspondents.

Almost half the exchanges I receive are tossed into the discard without being read. I know from experience that they contain nothing for my purpose.

I'll admit they're pretty interesting.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

HERRENVOLK.

Herrenvolk (Master Race) is the proud title which Hitler ascribes to the German people, and which today is being preached as fervently as at any time since he wrote in "Mein Kampf," Page 438:

"Peace is guaranteed by the triumphant sword of a people endowed with a power to master the world." Continuing, on Page 767, he says: "Continuing, there are 90,000,000 Germans in Europe. Our foreign policy will be recognized as rightly conducted only when, after nearly 100 years, there will be 250,000,000 Germans." On Pages 133-14, he says: "The time will come when the population of North America will be overwhelmingly of Germanic elements when the racially pure and more unmixed Teuton of the American continent has arisen to be its master."

And summarizing it all, he says on Page 315: "The pacifist-humanitarian idea may indeed become an excellent one when the most superior type of manhood will have succeeded in subjugating the world to such an extent that this type is then sale master of the earth."

In carrying out his world plan, Hitler has two main ideas, first, the immediate conquest of all other races and nations, reducing them to slavery; second, high-pressure breeding and high-pressure Germanization, by which it is explained that steadily the other races will lose their identity and the Nazi kultur will become the gospel of the world. "Lifelong monogamy is perverse and harmful to our race," declares Professor Ernest Bergman in his "Knowledge of the Spirit of Motherhood," in which he further declares that "Fortunately, one boy of good race suffices for 20 girls."

Hitler outlined his world campaign in 1923 in "Mein Kampf," and those who have studied this manual of Nazism will remember that he called first for the subjugation of the small nations of Europe, then England, then Russia, then Japan. On Page 533 of "Mein Kampf," he says:

"If the Urals with their immense raw material wealth, Siberia with its rich forests, and the Ukraine with its immense corn fields, were part of Germany, Germany would be swimming in plenty." And while he does not mention oil in that passage, we know that he has oil in mind as well as bread in the present campaign in Russia.

Having failed to conquer England last September, Hitler perhaps expects to make that his next major effort, or does he? Has he estings papers to the folks in the county because they contain items from the country correspondents about who's visiting whom. And announcements of church services and barbecues. And records of deaths and marriages. Names make news.

Lost His Pencil

But something by the editor? You look for it in vain. Often the editorial page carries nothing but the "masthead" and several columns of legal advertisements, the financial lifeline of the small town weekly.

The editor expresses no opinion about state or county affairs. He doesn't even mention them. It's likely he hasn't written a line all week about anything. He prints what comes in and if it doesn't come he can always find plenty of "boiler plate"—ready-made items about increase in population in Bolivia—to fill the necessary space.

Yes, I know the "country editor" is a mighty busy man. Sometimes he is the whole staff. His livelihood depends on rounding up advertising. He hasn't much time for writing editorials.

But there are a number who do find the time. And they can write with a punch when they feel so disposed. Several of the one-man, small town, weeklies are especially welcome visitors to my workshop. Because I know I'll find some happy thought in them.

I don't think a weekly—or daily—big or little, should rush in to take sides in every dispute that comes up, every race for county commissioner or solicitor. But I do think an editor should inform his readers about affairs affecting their fortunes. Especially those of his home county.

Editors who read my stuff won't be offended, I trust, because they are not the type that edit a paper with a pastepot instead of a pencil. And I feel sure the chaps I am criticizing will never find out about it.

"Eastern Papers Please Copy."

Uncle Jack Hilton, of the Banks County Journal, certainly does help out this column today. I joyously quote a couple of his items:

"Weston Rucker, of Statesboro, was here yesterday. He has a son in the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. He was packing to visit his son, when three men from Maine drove into Statesboro enroute home from Florida. They invited Weston to ride with them as far as Maryland and he crawled in the big new car. When they pulled out Weston says he asked if they were not Yankees. One of them said: 'No, not just Yankees, damn Yankees, call us that from now on.' Weston says he did, they were damn Yankees from Georgia to Maryland. Bought all the food and liquid refreshments they could consume and would allow him to pay for nothing. Weston says if all damn Yankees are like those three he would like to live among them."

changed any of his original plans? I have a notion that Hitler is very much worried at the present moment in his plan for world conquest. His original plan to finish up with England, Russia and Japan, and then strike at the United States through South America and Mexico may have to be altered. It will, if democracy works.

Many Products Canned By Schley Citizens
Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ELLAVILLE, Ga., July 24.—Schley county is in the midst of the canning season and, while the plant has been operating only two weeks, 3,100 cans were put up through July 21.

The products being canned include snap beans, butter beans, corn, soup, peas, peaches, squash, tomatoes, tomato juice.

The majority of the canning is being done with a view to higher prices later and to the national defense needs.

No preliminary hearing has been requested by Palmore.

Hearing Date Set In Warren Case

DOTHAN, Ala., July 24.—(AP)—Judge Charles M. Cooper, of the court of common pleas, today scheduled a preliminary hearing at 10 a. m. Saturday for Mrs. Curtis Warren, of Donalsonville, Ga., who has been charged with first-degree murder in the May 19 slaying of her husband.

Counsel for Mrs. Warren has ordered her held incommunicado pending the hearing. She was placed in the Houston county jail Sunday afternoon a few hours after Wash. Palmore, Negro, was reported by Sheriff B. G. Farmer to have signed a confession that he killed Warren at the instigation of Mrs. Warren.

No preliminary hearing has been requested by Palmore.

Metter Prepares For Tobacco Sale

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
METTER, Ga., July 24.—Preparations are being made here to open the tobacco sale season August 5 with exercises, Governor Talmadge being on the program to speak at noon. F. H. Sills, president of the Metter Kiwanis Club, and representative from Candler county, predicts that several thousand people will be present.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Metter band, in charge of Professor Matterson. F. H. Sills will be master of ceremonies, Mayor A. J. Bird will make the address of welcome, and Senator J. D. Kirkland will introduce the governor.

Nutrition Committee Maps Schley Program

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ELLAVILLE, Ga., July 24.—A Schley county nutrition committee this week mapped out a program to lift the health standards of the county in the face of the present national emergency.

The committee met Tuesday to discuss the most important problems of the county, which included: Making public the number of families having no cow, chickens, hogs or vegetable garden; encouraging regular examination of all food handlers; encouraging steps to assure a safe milk supply; teaching advantageous marketing; emphasizing the importance of land-owners requiring tenants to cultivate vegetable gardens; making full use of canning facilities; interesting groups in Ellaville in the school lunch room.

The committee is composed of Mrs. O. C. Hill, chairman; Dr.

Arch Avary, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Davis, Mrs. G. B. Perry, Mrs. Robert Strange.

CHURCH HAS SKELETONS.
Workmen unearthed several skeletons while excavating for the foundations of the skyscraper which the Seguros de Mexico is to build on the site of the old Santa Brígida church, in San Juan de Letran, Mexico. They are believed to be skeletons of priests and other persons buried there many years ago.

Our foreign policy will be recognized as rightly conducted only when, after nearly 100 years, there will be 250,000,000 Germans." On Pages 133-14, he says: "The time will come when the population of North America will be overwhelmingly of Germanic elements when the racially pure and more unmixed Teuton of the American continent has arisen to be its master."

And summarizing it all, he says on Page 315: "The pacifist-humanitarian idea may indeed become an excellent one when the most superior type of manhood will have succeeded in subjugating the world to such an extent that this type is then sale master of the earth."

In carrying out his world plan, Hitler has two main ideas, first, the immediate conquest of all other races and nations, reducing them to slavery; second, high-pressure breeding and high-pressure Germanization, by which it is explained that steadily the other races will lose their identity and the Nazi kultur will become the gospel of the world. "Lifelong monogamy is perverse and harmful to our race," declares Professor Ernest Bergman in his "Knowledge of the Spirit of Motherhood," in which he further declares that "Fortunately, one boy of good race suffices for 20 girls."

Hitler outlined his world campaign in 1923 in "Mein Kampf," and those who have studied this manual of Nazism will remember that he called first for the subjugation of the small nations of Europe, then England, then Russia, then Japan. On Page 533 of "Mein Kampf," he says:

"I HAVE SOMETHING FOR YOU"

Anita Makes a Furious Scene As Tony Leaves To Go Back to Camp

Author of "I'll Wait for You" and "Kiss After Midnight."
By Margaret Gorman Nichols.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

"I didn't lie to you. I said I had a job."

"I opened my charge accounts and bought things. . . ."

"You'll have to send them back."

"I'll do nothing of the kind. I'll go. If Tracy doesn't want me."

"Stop talking like an idiot," Tracy said sharply. "You're more welcome than ever."

"Thank you, Tracy." She looked at Tony again, her dark eyes blazing. "What you do in the future is no concern of mine. You— in that ridiculous uniform! You look like a zoo keeper! I don't love you and you can't love me or you wouldn't think of humiliating me like this! I'm through! I don't have to go to work as you suggest. I don't have to degrade myself to that extent. I'm sure there are other men who'd want to marry me. Several others did want me."

"It's a damned shame they didn't," Mike said.

Tracy said, "You don't mean that, Anita."

Tony said, "I knew you'd be shocked and disappointed but I thought if I explained how I felt, that I was happy. . . ."

"You have explained how you feel. You've done admirably. You've talked yourself out of a wife. I'm sorry that I can't share in the admiration of these—these other people. Go back to your camp and your job—if you can call it that. I'm going."

"Not to your parents?" Tony said.

"It's because I don't want to be a middle-aged object of charity that I've done this. People are sorry for your parents, Anita. They overstay their welcome long ago."

"My mother and my father are popular people. They're invited everywhere."

Tony shook his head. "This doesn't get us anywhere. Very well. I'll go back to camp."

Tracy said, "Kit, please find Cecil and tell him to take Tony to the station." To Anita she said, "Don't be an utter fool. Do you realize what this means? You're sending Tony away from you. You're certainly a failure as a wife."

"It's no use," Tony said. "No use, Tracy. You're wasting time and words. I'm sorry our marital grievances had to be aired like this. Not in very good taste certainly. Not becoming a Merryman and a Curtis. Good-bye. I'll go with Kit to the garage."

Tracy said, "You'll let me hear from you, Tony."

"Of course. Thanks a lot."

Mike said, "If I can be of any help, let me know. If you want anything."

"Sure. Thanks."

Head up, eyes defiant, Anita hurried toward the house.

Tony overtook Kit as she was walking to the garage. They did not say anything. Kit knew that he was hurt and that it would be stupid to offer platitudes.

Cecil sprang to attention and beamed.

"You in the army now, Mistah Tony?"

Tony nodded. "Yes, Cecil. I want to go to the station. I—I have to get back to camp." He turned to Kit and held out his hand.

"I still think I'm right. I've been feeling great. I've been feeling that I was of some use to myself and to my country. I've been feeling as I did at school when winning a game was the most important and most exciting thing in the world. I don't even mind getting up early. Your milkman has to get up even earlier. His face was long in its soberness, a lean, tanned, boyish face. "What she said about the uniform—got me. Well, good-bye, Kit."

"I think you're right, too. I know you are, maybe she'll . . ."

"Yes, maybe. Don't think too badly of her. She was raised to be what she is. But the rules in the game of living have changed radically since then. I'm ready, Cecil."

Cecil beamed again. "Yassuh, Mistah Tony!"

Kit went back to Tracy and Mike.

Mike's eyes were bright with anger. "Why don't you put her out, Tracy?" It would teach her some sense. She'd have to get a job. She'd learn more then in one week than in all her other years put together. She'd go crawling back to Tony."

"I'd like to but I can't. She'd starve."

"That kind never starves. They always find somebody to take care of them. The cussed thing is Tony and Anita love each other."

"You're staying for dinner, aren't you, Mike?"

"No, thanks. Some other time. I've got to get back to town. Come to think of it, I could have driven Tony back to town, but what with all the shouting going on, it didn't occur to me."

Tracy said, "Then you can take Mac and the baby back. Kit, find Mac and tell her that Mike will take her and the baby back. Tell her to spend the night with her daughter if she wants to. But I want to see Diane before she goes. With all the chewing she's done today on that yellow duck and other things she surely must have another toothache."

Anita did not come down to dinner that evening and Tracy and Kit dined together at the long, beautiful mahogany table. They talked little. Kit was certain they were thinking the same thoughts—thinking that Kirk's tall, loose-jointed figure had been conspicuously absent for the past few days. Strange, the similarity of thought, hers and Tracy Field's, because of that tall, loose-jointed figure.

The big house knew quiet nights as well as quiet days now. To-night the lights burned for three people. For Kit, her chestnut head bent over a letter to Aunt Chris. For Tracy, knitting in her room. For Anita, sitting up in bed, her hand to her chin, her tear-washed eyes no longer tearful but very bright with a new idea.

Soon Kit finished the letter, which was in response to the one Aunt Chris had written after Kit had explained her father's case. Aunt Chris had written, "I'm immensely relieved, dear, that the thing which has been bothering you won't bother you again, and I think you are wise to pursue it no further. Mike Saunders has been a good friend. New friends, you are learning, are sometimes our best friends. . . ."

Kit walked to the window and looked out. Moonlight had washed the countryside with pale silver. The house was so quiet. . . . Suddenly feeling the urge to "do something" she went to the closet for the short blue wool coat and quietly left her room. As she passed the door to Anita's room she thought, "Isn't she sorry? Isn't she telling herself that Tony is right? And that they'll have a new and better beginning? There isn't enough love in the world that you can turn your back on it. There isn't enough to go around."

Outside she took the winding lane and walked slowly. After a while she knew it was no apparition she saw—a figure approaching in the moonlight. Nor could she mistake that tall, rangy man in white trousers and a coat of darker material. The long, rangy figure was too familiar. . . . Kit.

For a second she thought of turning and walking back to the house quickly but somehow she kept on walking, her heart stirring excitedly.

In the center of the lane they met.

"Kit," he said. He stopped, dropped his cigaret, stepped on it and then smiled. "Do you—do you do this often?"

"No. Do you?"

"Well, yes. Bill and Sara Lanahan are back and they're a mob at their place. Shall we?"

She nodded and they walked on together.

"It's a swell night," Kirk said. "There won't be many more nights like this when you can get out and walk. You haven't been riding in the morning. . . ."

Had he looked for her? "No. Just that once. It's always too late when I finish my work. You—you haven't been over to see us lately." She had not meant to say "us." She had meant to say "Tracy."

He smiled down at her. "Then you missed me?"

"I've been wanting to apologize for acting so badly the last time."

"You could never act badly, Kit. And if you expect me to apologize for kissing you, I won't."

She thought, "If I stop and look up at him, he'll know. My face will give me away. It will be so hard not to touch him. Can he see that I'm shaking?"

She said, "You're going away soon and I'd like to explain myself. It goes back a long time. . . ."

Kirk walked beside Kit and lighted another cigaret while she talked. And while she told him about her mother and father, about Aunt Chris, and why the lights had gone out in Washington, she was thinking, "I hope I won't have to tell anyone this again!"

She ended, saying, "I'm not ashamed now. I wish it hadn't happened, of course, but I'm not going to let it blight me. I could go back to Washington now and face them. And if people hold it against me. . . ."

"Then you'll know they aren't people you care about anyway."

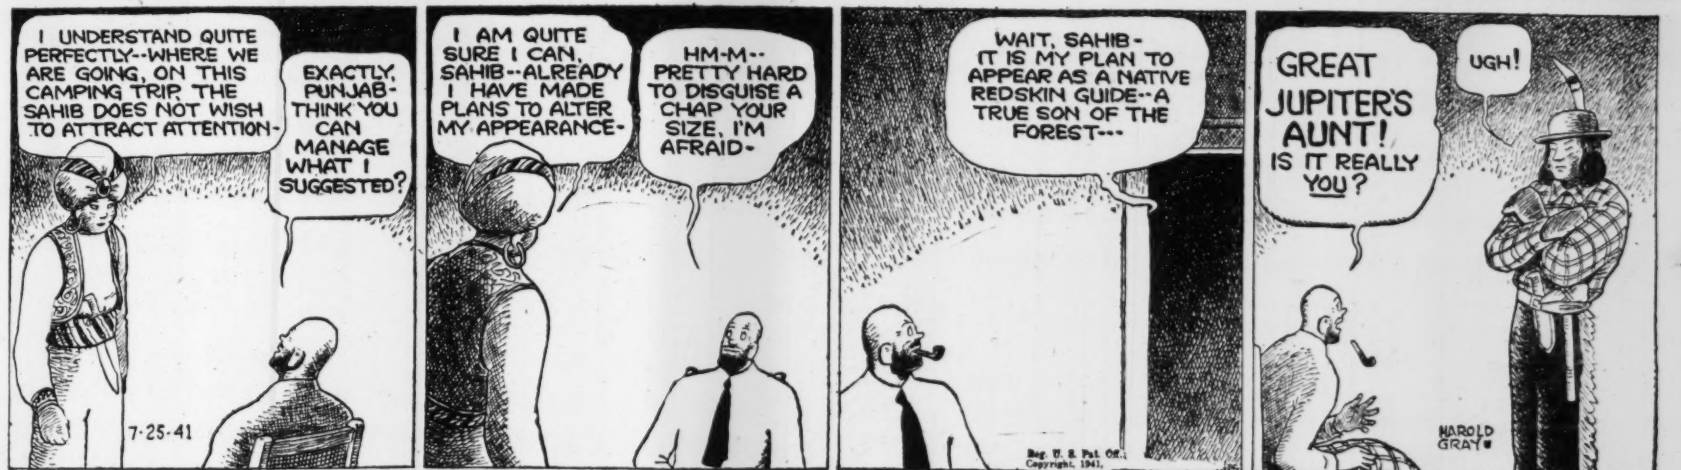

He smiled down upon her brown head. "I thought it was something much worse. You had my imagination working overtime."

His voice was suddenly more vital. "You know, if we walk to the Lanahans, I could get a car and we could ride—ride with the windshield down and, 'he chuckled' and sing. Don't you like to sing when you're riding? I've disturbed more than one sleepy Maryland town with what I call singing."

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—This will likely be a day of conflicting emotions, when you should avoid petty quarrels, unwise speculations, business and financial matters. Use care around water and liquids and be suspicious of people who want you to go into secret affairs. An excellent day to be careful of your health, especially the digestive tract.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—Previous to 12:30 p. m. favors general business and professional activities, matters pertaining to law, religion and philosophy. After 1 p. m. use care in driving and avoid quick flare-ups of temper.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—The entire day through 7:30 p. m. favors expanding your sphere of action. Benefits may be derived through the advice of others, financial dealings and legal decisions.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—The morning hours and until 8:41 p. m. favors developments that require much activity. Benefits may be derived through correspondence, travel and general business.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—Previous to 12:30 p. m. favors social affairs, artistic matters, dealings with unusual people. After 12:30 p. m. favors matters of romantic interests.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—Before 2:30 p. m. find it easy to come to agreements previous to 2 p. m. so care should be given to travel, business and living. After 2 p. m. favors private affairs, communications and things that have been hard to complete.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—The entire day does not especially favor new beginnings. Handle electrical equipment and motor vehicles especially carefully today. The day does not especially favor signing papers and use caution in dealings with relatives.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—Previous to 12:30 p. m. favors expansion along financial lines. An excellent period for dealing in real estate, legal and banking interests. During the afternoon and evening proceed cautiously in dealings of an unusual nature.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—If you have some special task to contact and want your interview to proceed smoothly, make your engagement before 11:08 a. m. Between 11:08 a. m. and 1:08 p. m. favors work requiring mental activity. The afternoon and evening hours favor general business activity.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—Between 9:27 a. m. and 5:08 p. m. favors general business and professional activities, matters pertaining to law, religion and philosophy. After 5:08 p. m. favors correspondence, conferences, meetings with those in high positions.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—The day favors more attention to necessary affairs and tasks that have been hanging fire for some time. The day favors using diplomacy around older people. The evening favors domestic affairs.

Don't Like 'Altitude.' Keenan Wynn, actor heard on "Province of Ontario" and "Mr. District Attorney," boarded a Fifth Avenue bus with a friend. The pal urged Keenan to ride with him on the top deck. "Not me," quipped Wynn, "I can't stand the altitude."

Harry Is Scorekeeper. Harry von Zell has his hands full on Wednesday nights in his new role as "umpire" on the "Quizzer Baseball" series. In addition to calling "strikes" and "outs" on contestants in the novel quiz sessions, Harry manipulates the controls of a huge electrical scoreboard which records, in typical baseball fashion, the scores of opposing teams.

Friday Concert Features Tunes From Pinafore

Lucille Manners, Soprano, and Ross Graham Soloists.

In answer to requests for more Gilbert & Sullivan music, the Friday Concert Orchestra under Dr. Frank Black, will present selections from "Pinafore" during the broadcast tonight at 7 o'clock over the NBC-Red network and WSB. Selections to be heard will include "We Sail the Ocean Blue," "A Maiden Fair to See," "When I Was a Lad," "I'm Called Little Buttercup" and "He Is an Englishman."

Lucille Manners, soprano soloist, will be heard in "La Serenata" by De Leva and "I Love Thee" by Grieg. Ross Graham, baritone, has chosen for his solo "The Two Grenadiers" by Schumann, and the choir will offer an original arrangement of "Shorten Bread." The orchestra will complete the program with "Polonaise Militaire" by Chopin and a tribute to the late Ignace Jan Paderewski to be heard against background music of the great pianist's famous "Minuet."

Vice President Henry A. Wallace will take over the role of master of ceremonies on the Listen America program tonight at 9:30 o'clock on the NBC-Red network and WSB with Gloria Swanson as guest star.

The scientist on the program will be Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Deeds of valor—not at the front but at home on the firing line of defense workbenches—are brought out in "Proudly We Hail" over the Columbia network and WGST tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Ted Husing, radio sports reporter, will make a special appearance on the program as a guest star. He will describe the defense work of the Douglas Aircraft plant in Santa Monica, Cal., and the RCA Manufacturing Co., of Camden, N. J.

A singing star dedicates her songs to the workers in these plants to dramatize the deeds individuals are performing.

Husing tells the behind-the-scenes story of how the Douglas plant and its aircraft workers cooperated under the sudden demands for airplanes and put production on an assembly line basis.

"Death Takes A Holiday," originally written by Alberto Cassella and rewritten for the American stage by Walter Ferris, is to be adapted by Charles Martin for "Great Moments From Great Plays," on Columbia network and WGST tonight at 8 o'clock. The play is based on the poetic concept of death suspending activities for three days. During this period death falls in love with a girl, and, through her, finds out why mortals fear him.

Philip Merivale played the lead in the first Broadway production in 1929 and toured with the play for two years afterward. Later Fredric March played in the movie version. Ray Block's orchestra provides the musical background.

Pert Una Merkel, comedienne with a crisp southern accent, will do a comedy take-off on one of her screen successes as guest on the "Your Happy Birthday" program tonight over the NBC-Blue network and WAGA at 8:30 o'clock.

Miss Merkel also will help M. C. Tiny Ruffner and Blues Singer Mary Small distribute cash to the persons with lucky birthdays.

Claudia demonstrates her sledge-hammer technique in the social world during the "Claudia and David" broadcast over the Columbia network and WGST tonight at 7 o'clock.

David, an architect who is convinced that only hard work will carry him to the top, and Claudia, receive a dinner invitation which will enable them to meet a family of social leaders who are planning to build a house. The invitation was wangled through the efforts of David's mother and against the wishes of the young couple. A delicate social problem is posed and Claudia solves it to the complete dissatisfaction of her mother-in-law.

BOND DEFENSE QUIZ

Q. How long will Defense Bonds and Stamps be on sale?
A. Indefinitely. Secretary Morgenthau has emphasized that the Defense Savings program is to be a continuing effort. Its success will be measured by the number of persons taking part, as well as by the amount of money raised, which is now in excess of $700,000,000.

Q. Is the purchase of Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps compulsory?
A. Absolutely not. Purchase of Bonds and Stamps represents voluntary action on your part. When you buy them you take your stand in the ranks of the National Defense program. You automatically become a shareholder in your government.

NOTE—To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., for an order form.

Miss Northcutt To Be Honored At Party Series

A series of informal parties is planned in compliment to Miss Mary Northcutt, of Wilmington, Del., who arrives today to be the guest of Miss Bunny Strubling at her home on West Andrews drive. Miss Strubling's tea, which will be given this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, will inaugurate the calendar of social events planned. Carrying out the deep coral color scheme in the dining room will be a low crystal bowl of pale coral geraniums and gladioli which will center the tea table. A theme of crystal and coral will be carried out throughout the house. Miss Strubling's mother, Mrs. J. W. Strubling, and her sister, Frances, will assist with the entertainment. The guest list will be formed by 75 members of the college group. Among the other affairs planned to compliment the attractive Wilmington visitor is a soft drink party which will take place Tuesday morning at the home of Miss Barbara Keeler. Miss Keeler has chosen summer flowers as the decorative theme. The guests will number 30 of the younger contingent. Miss Isabella Woolford will honor Miss Northcutt Tuesday afternoon with a soft drink party at her home on Vernon road. Mrs. C. B. Woolford will assist with the entertainment. Other parties in Miss Northcutt's honor will be announced at a later date.

MRS. GRADY SEALS AIKEN.

Marriage of Miss Brown To Mr. Aiken Announced

Mrs. A. Paul Brown announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Thelma Eloise Brown, to Grady Seals Aiken. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Vernon S. Broyles Jr. at Glenn Memorial Chapel on July 17. The chapel was decorated with Easter lilies and gladioli, forming a lovely setting for the ceremony.

The bride wore a two-piece navy triple sheer suit with a blue felt hat and matching accessories. A cluster of lavender orchids completed the costume.

Mrs. Brown chose a blue and white print with a spray of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. C. E. Aiken, wore a black and white mesh with a cluster of gardenias.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Robert L. Brown, Dr. Wayne Aiken, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The bride comes from a long line of distinguished ancestors. Her mother is the former Miss Mary Gee, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walker Gee, for many years leaders in the cultural and civic life of Quincy, Fla. Her father is the late Alsa Paul Brown, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Houston Brown, of Kenansville, N. C. He was a successful shoe manufacturer of Boston, Mass., for many years before coming to Atlanta to make his home. A. Paul Brown, of Nashville, Tenn., is another brother. Mrs. Aiken received her A. B. degree from Agnes Scott College and her master's degree from Oglethorpe University. She is a brilliant pianist of exceptional training, having studied with Mrs. E. Wayne Wilson, of Atlanta; Miss Rosita Renard, of Chilli; Miss Ethel Newcomb, of Whitney Point, N. Y., who was a pupil of Theodore Leschitzky, and in Alfred Cortot's school of music in Paris.

Mr. Aiken is one of Atlanta's prominent attorneys. He is the son of Mrs. Claudia E. Aiken, the former Miss Claudia Estelle Elliott, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Elisha Elliott, of Newton county. His father is the late Professor Charles Patterson Aiken, of Jasper county, Georgia, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Aiken. His family has contributed many prominent professional men and women to Georgia. His brothers are Dr. Wayne Aiken, Dr. Ralph Aiken, C. P. Aiken III, Samuel Aiken. His sisters are Mrs. G. R. Foster, Mrs. L. O. Kimbrell Jr., Mrs. Andrew Shields, Mrs. Robert Earle King, Mrs. J. H. Chapin and Mrs. Capers Robertson.

Mr. Aiken is a member of the bar of the United States supreme court, of the American Bar Association, the Atlanta Bar Association, the Lawyers' Club of Atlanta, and Delta Theta Phi law fraternity. He is also a 32d degree Scottish Rite Mason, a Shriner, and a Grand Lodge officer of the Knights of Pythias.

Mr. Aiken is on a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, Washington, New York and other points of interest. Mr. and Mrs. Aiken will reside in Atlanta.

Women's C. of C. In Defense Work

A dinner-meeting of the Women's Chamber of Commerce was held at the Atlanta Woman's Club recently with Mrs. Annie V. Weber presiding.

Reports of standing committees were made, and it was voted to co-operate in activities with regard to civilian defense. Mrs. R. J. Davidson was elected a director to fill the unexpired term of Miss Evelyn Deuberry, resigned.

Under leadership of Mrs. E. H. Gillespy, members are contributing many hours to Red Cross work. They have also pledged co-operation in the collection of aluminum ware to be donated by Atlantans to go into war materials.

Mrs. Sarah Mosteller and Mrs. Carolyn Seivers were appointed chairman and co-chairman to serve on a special committee to work with Norman Ramsey, chairman, and a committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, who will collaborate on a campaign for the planting of dogwood trees in Atlanta. The date of the campaign, which will be in the early fall, will be announced later.

The program was in charge of Mrs. R. J. Davidson, chairman, and members of the membership committee, which functions under the basic committee, commerce. Miss Thomas Parish, chairman. Mrs. Robert Sams spoke on British war relief work, and Oscar J. Coe gave humorous readings.

Dr. Lloyd B. Raisty, with the Federal Reserve Bank division handling defense contract service for the priorities division of the office of production management, and a professor of the University of Georgia on leave, spoke on "Production for National Defense."

Mrs. Sidney Saul was before her marriage on June 13 Miss Ruth Gershonowitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gershonowitz, of Jersey City, N. J. Mr. Saul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Saul, of Atlanta. He and his bride are residing at 105 Rumson road.

Tourist Turn To Hollywood; Sweater Girls Attract Record Crowds To Sets

By Harold Heffernan.

HOLLYWOOD, July 24.—This is the silly season. Hollywood knows this by a glance at the calendar—and by a look at the crowds on its busy sound stages. Hordes of vacationing tourists, with few other places to go these days, are descending on Hollywood in droves. All try to crash the studios. And in spite of an edict issued by the Hays office a few weeks ago declaring that the "visitor evil" would be abolished, they positively stopped this summer of 1941, a lot of them are successful.

The situation is actually getting so bad on some sound stages that assistant directors are forced to call time while they gently urge visitors back so that actors will have room to work on the set.

An electrician on Cecil B. De Mille's "Reap the Wild Wind" set stumbled over an elderly lady from Iowa one day last week and came up with a broken camera. So far, that is the season's only casualty. However, Paramount has just put into practice a scheme for protecting itself against damage suits that might arise from any thoughtless visitor who happened to get hurt while gazing about in the litter of a sound stage.

Nowadays, before your Uncle Henry is permitted out on the Paramount lot he must sign a paper agreeing not to start any funny financial business with the studio, no matter what he falls over or what falls on him. When he signs that paper he's strictly "on his own."

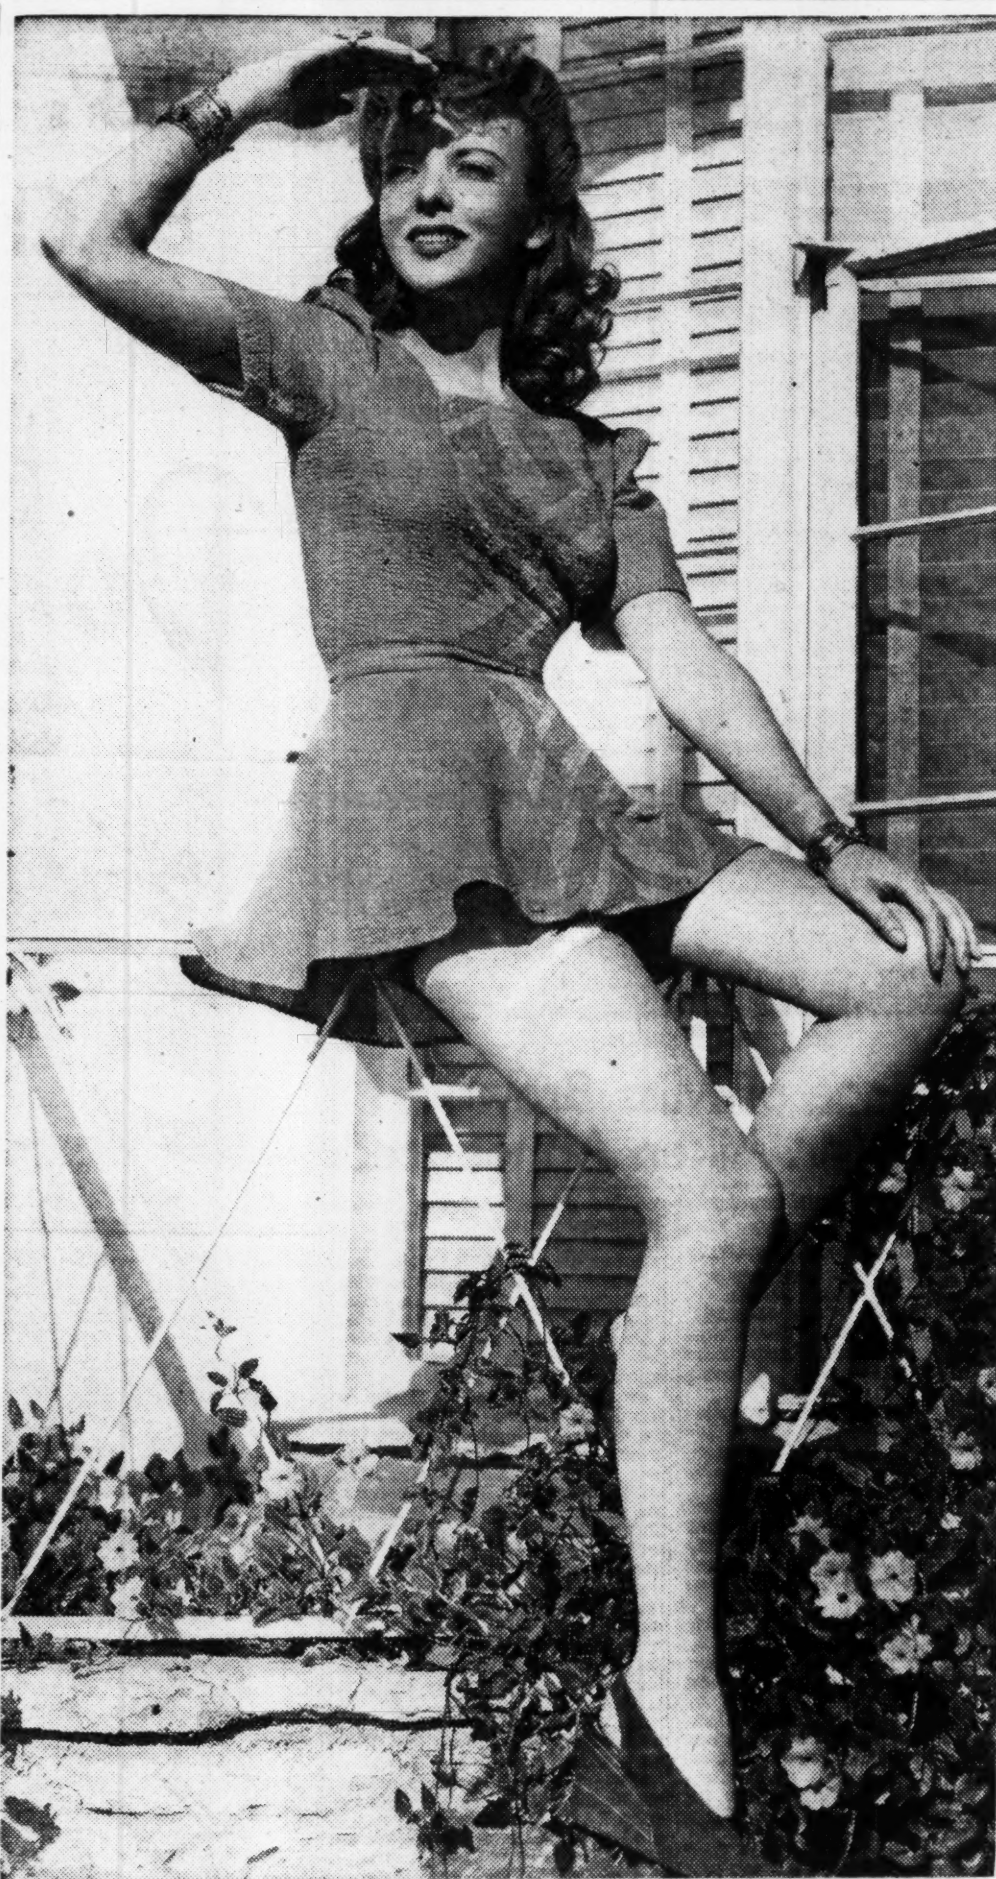

Anyway, let's try to weave or push our way out through the crowded stages and see what goes on. It is nearly noon and the temperature is up close to 90. To make it worse, most of the air conditioning outfits on the stages seem to be acting up.

With George Thomas leading the way, we pull up on Paramount's stage 4. It seems that most of the visitors in town have been shunted onto that stage. It is packed with "guests." And certainly they are getting a great show in return for their signed pass slips.

This is the stage where "Sweater Girl" is being produced and right now they're in the midst of a musical number. Some eyebrows were raised in Hollywood when that title was passed by the Hays office, for sweaters, sweater pictures and hug-me-tights had only recently been banned by the powers-that-be in Hollywood as far as film girls are concerned. The attendant publicity heaped more nation-wide ridicule on the Hays office than any move it has made in years.

But, sweaters must be all right again, for on stage 4 they are only making a picture called "Sweater Girl," but Eddie Bracken, one of the principals, is singing a song called "Sweater Girl" and as he sings scores of very beautiful and shapely girls are parading around clad in-guess or what—sweaters.

Yes, sir, sweaters are back on the job in Hollywood.

Play suits may be mighty attractive, like this plump red seersucker one which Ida Lupino wears, but the effect will be spoiled if legs and arms are not sleek and trim. Using a good depilatory is important in looking neat.

Wax Depilatory Gives Lasting Benefit

By Winifred Ware.

Among the numerous ways of removing superfluous hair from arms and legs there is one method which has a particular advantage, for the hair stays away longer after using it.

This method is the wax depilatory method. Right now I will admit that it takes a little more time and patience than cream or liquid depilatories, but the added length of time before the process must be repeated more than makes up for this trouble.

A famous maker puts the wax in the top of a miniature double-boiler so that all you need do is add water in the bottom and heat. When the wax becomes the consistency of molasses you can spread it with a stick (furnished) over the areas to be treated. Always spread it in the direction in which the hair grows. Apply it about an eighth of an inch thick.

Then, when the wax becomes hard, but while it is still warm, catch one end of it and jerk the sheet back very quickly in the direction opposite to that in which the hair grows.

If you follow these directions carefully you will find that the wax pulls the hairs right out by the roots, but does it so quickly that you feel only a jerk, no pain.

Since the hairs are pulled out from the very roots, it takes them that much longer to grow back. (Most cream or liquid depilatories remove them only at the skin's surface.) When the hairs do grow back they will be soft. You will find, too, that each time after you use the preparation it takes little longer for the hairs to grow back.

When you have finished removing the hairs you can apply a cream to soften and smooth the skin. A tube of this cream comes with the wax when you buy it, so that you have a complete beauty treatment for your legs at an economical price.

I'll be glad to tell you more about this wax depilatory, where you can get it and the price, if you call me at WAlnut 6585 or write me in care of The Constitution, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Girl May Lose Boy's Appreciation By Meeting Him Over Half-Way

By Dixie George.

PERFECT SET-UP

Dear Dixie:

I am 18 years old. I am in love with a boy three months younger than myself. He said in March that we were going to marry after I was 18. When we are together he never mentions marrying, but says he loves me. I cannot believe it the way he acts. Do you think he acts as he does because I cannot date him at home because of my parents? Sometimes he writes me once a week and again it is a week or two before he answers my letters. I am a nice, home-like girl. He often breaks dates when he is supposed to meet me at the home of some of my relatives. He is very nice when we are together but does not do much talking. He acts so strange that it is hard for me to understand him. My folks do not like him. Do you think I should go on waiting for him or try to forget him? He tells everybody he loves me. He goes with other girls and it makes him mad for me to mention other boys. I do not go with any other boys.

AN UNDECIDED LOVER.

A boy may tell you that he wants you to date him on the sly, and that it is all right to run to some other person's house to meet him, but do not do it. Boys do not appreciate a girl who will side with them against their parents and slip out and have dates with them. I would not be at all surprised if that isn't the reason your boy friend breaks dates. Things are being made too easy for him and he just does not care how he treats you. As for the marriage, I think it should be a mutual understanding rather than a subject which he decides for and against.

You say that he told you he would marry you when you became 18, and he has not mentioned it since. I think that should prove to you that he is not very dependable. You have as much right to go with the boys as he has to go with the girls, so don't pay any attention to him. I would not wait for him to do the deciding. Do a little deciding yourself. Go with some other boys.

Dear Dixie:

I am 17 and the boy is 20. We have known each other since childhood and have been deeply in love with each other for the past year. I lack one year of finishing school and would like your advice about finishing. The boy has finished high school and also finished a trade school. He has a good job which will allow him to support a wife. Sometimes we have lovers' quarrels, but they vanish quickly. We go on sight-seeing trips nearly every Sunday and enjoy every minute we are together.

My parents do not like for me to go out to entertainments, except about every two weeks, but they do not object to us going places on Sunday. We have discussed marriage and would like to have your advice on what to do.

LOVERS.

Things are so unsettled now, with the boys going away to the Army camps, that it seems to me, if there are no objections to the marriage, and if you two are so much in love, that there is no reason for you to postpone the marriage. On the other hand, it seems a shame for the girl to have such a short time of school. Seventeen is young to leave school and marry, for at 17 a girl is just beginning her young ladyhood and should be going around and having a good time, rather than assuming the responsibilities of married life. Some of the happiest couples in the world married at your age and lived a long life together. You have parental approval, you enjoy the same things and each other, so it seems about the perfect set-up to me.

Taking Exercise in the Sand Is Next Best to Swimming

By Ida Jean Kain.

As you drift through the lazy summer days you are scarcely aware of, much less concerned with, the extra pounds that accumulate here and there. But come fall, you will be.

If you would get in the water and swim you wouldn't have any silhouette troubles to notice, for swimming strengthens all the figure-controlling muscles and mends your posture in the bargain. But so many of you don't swim swim suits and don't go near the water.

The least you landlubbers can do is exercise in the sand. Sand isn't nearly as good an exercise medium as water but it is better than the floor because it shifts and that makes you use your muscles harder.

Try making circles. Stretch face downward with your weight supported on the hands and with elbows and knees straight. Now, walk sideways on the toes. Take long side steps and pivot on the hands until you have gone around in a circle. It's no good unless you keep your body in a straight line. Don't let your back sag.

Here is another exercise that requires space and is, therefore, an excellent one for the beach: "Walk" on all fours, with knees and elbows stiff, and pull up so hard with your stomach muscles that you look like a greyhound. At the end of your walk, remain in the same position while you bow your back up in the air, then make a sway back with the small of your back caved in, hips jutting. Repeat several times.

If you are not too much of a softie, here is an exercise that is almost as good as swimming: Stand erect with feet together and hands hanging down at sides. Set? Leap into the air, flinging both arms out at the sides, shoulder height and kicking one leg straight out at the side. Repeat, alternating legs for the side kick. Keep your knees fairly straight and try to kick sideways to a right angle.

A vigorous variation of the foregoing exercise is to jump into the air with knees straight and kick both legs sideways, flinging arms upward as you leave the ground. Come down to earth with feet together.

Walking in loose sand is mar-

Today's Charm Tip

When you are troubled over some petty slight or grievance these days, just ask: "What does this small thing matter in view of the terrific troubles facing women in the war-torn centers of the world?"

Whether children worry or not depends more upon their parents' attitude toward facts than it does upon the gravity of the facts themselves.

MY DAY: Nutrition Program Plans Its Publicity

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—A little after 5 yesterday afternoon, on our picnic grounds at Hyde Park, representatives of various organizations in the county gathered to discuss with state representatives what had been accomplished in spreading nutrition information. Miss Ruth Wheeler, of Vassar College, who had been made chairman by the Cornell University group, which is in charge of this work in the state, has been ill, and so the work is not completely organized.

I felt a good deal was accomplished yesterday, for they named a radio and publicity chairman and talked over methods of getting information to the people of our county. A home demonstration agent is being sent by the emergency home demonstration committee to a group of counties, including Dutchess, and our county agent, Mr. Shepherd, called a meeting at which women were named to take charge of the arrangements for the agent's work.

This seems to me very important, because she can help us to accomplish things which are now being asked of the women of the United States of America. First we may see that our schools are used as demonstration centers for child feeding. That means that every available source of supply must be tapped for food to be used daily.

I think that every housewife would like to set aside a part of her canning for use in the schools. This program can be carefully planned in every school district so that a variety of foods are available. It seems to me that every rural school might well enter into some reciprocal agreement with the near-by city school, by which they help the city school to carry on a similar food demonstration program. In return, the city school could give kind of entertainment or participation in group activity not available in the rural school district.

In addition, we are being asked to furnish certain kinds of foods for use in England. Shipping is a difficult problem, but the food must be available whenever the ships are ready to take it. Therefore, I think every housewife could set aside on her shelves certain things which are needed in England, and feel that she is actively participating in the defense of democracy.

We had a picnic supper after our meeting and my guests found the dehydrated corn soup, which was sent me for demonstration purposes, to be extremely good. Everyone went home by 8 o'clock and I worked at my desk until finally finished around midnight, having been tempted away from my work to listen to the Treasury programs on the air twice during the evening.

Prompt Action Can Lesson Infantile Paralysis Effects

No disease frightens parents as much as infantile paralysis. But the disease is comparatively rare and its dread after-effects can be largely minimized or frequently eliminated entirely by prompt and effective measures.

This reassuring message from Maxine Davis, the world's foremost reporter on medical subjects, appears in an up-to-the-minute discussion of the disease in the August issue of Good Housekeeping magazine. Infantile, Miss Davis says, is caused by a virus, an organism so small that it cannot be seen through a microscope. Doctors believe that it usually enters the body through the upper part of the nose or the intestinal tract, and that once it has gotten into the spinal cord, it attacks the cells that act as storage batteries for the nerves, which go out like electric wires to the muscles.

But the chances of contracting infantile are small, Miss Davis reports. There were fewer than 10,000 cases last year and only a small fraction were fatal. Actually, according to the Good Housekeeping article, the label "infantile" is misleading, because it occurs in adults as well.

The symptoms, says Miss Davis, are mild fever, upset stomach, persistent headache, and a rapid pulse. Then, when the temperature drops, the paralytic stage sets in. It is impossible to tell what portion of the body will be paralyzed, but if terrific pain is suffered in some portion of the body, it is probable that that area will be affected.

Miss Davis says frankly that doctors do not know how to control infantile. But once it is diagnosed, an orthopedic specialist should be called in immediately for the promptness with which you act may make all the difference in the world to the patient. In most cases, the orthopedist will place the patient in splints if there is any evidence of paralysis or muscle weakness. These splints are designed to hold the muscles of the body in a position as nearly neutral as possible. Drugs and surgery are not used in treating the disease, but special treatment known as physiotherapy consisting of supervised exercise, heat, and massage are prescribed to maintain muscle tone.

Infantile treatment is not to be had inexpensively, Miss Davis

A Simple Cotton for Easy Laundering

By Lillian Mae.

A truly well-dressed woman looks crisp, fresh and pretty the clock 'round! That's why this little Lillian Mae frock, Pattern 4806, is so indispensable! It's neat and takes to laundering like a duck to water. In front there's a wide bodice panel that continues right down into the shapely waist-girdle. The neckline is cut in a sweetheart shape; "hand-angle" pockets are optional but smart. That back buttoning is not only a saucy style note, but it's also convenient for dressing. Make tiny cap sleeves in-one with the bodice, have straight set-in sleeves or omit the sleeves entirely. For gay flashes of color, use ric-rac edging—or have the bodice panel and girdle in brightly contrast.

Pattern 4806 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 3-8 yards 35-inch fabric and 3-1-8 yards ric-rac.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Nancy Keeler To Represent Old South in Canoe Pageant

By SALLY FORTH.

NO STONE has been left unturned by Nancy Keeler in preparation for her role in the Canoe Pageant to be held at beautiful Bryn Afon camp on Lake Superior, Wisconsin, on August 6. Nancy, you know, is serving as a counselor at the picturesque camp, which she describes as "a country club de luxe."

The theme of the pageant, which attracted 1,200 spectators last year, will be "Journeys Along Rivers of the World," and the pretty blond Atlanta has been chosen to present a picture of the old south, her canoe to be designated as the "Suwannee River."

Nancy is applying all her ingenuity, of which she has more than her share, in preparation for the colorful event. In her canoe will be erected a miniature colonial mansion of ante-bellum days, the southern theme to be further suggested by gaily-dressed pick-animies picking cotton in an improvised field.

Not content to stop short of perfection, Nancy wrote her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Keeler, to send her some Spanish moss with which to decorate her craft! It was necessary to import NINE pounds of the gray moss from Florida for the occasion! Nancy, dressed in a hoop-skirted gown of the old south, will portray a southern belle and will be seated on the steps of the mansion in her canoe.

A flattering tribute was paid the vivacious Atlanta counselor recently when she was chosen to conduct a group of campers on the maiden voyage of Bryn Afon's brand-new houseboat. The group enjoyed a cruise down the Eagle river.

ATTRACTIVE Elsie Dunnick will forsake Atlanta today to entrain for Macon, where she will visit Lillian Roush, her former roommate at Williamsburg, Va. Lillian, you recall, returned home only recently from this city, where she was entertained as Elsie's guest.

An interesting weekend has been planned for the lovely Atlanta in Macon, but her visit in that city will end on Tuesday when she goes to Memphis, Tenn., to visit Mary Arnette Canale. Mary Arnette, you know, was Elsie's roommate at the Semple School in New York, and the Atlanta's arrival in Memphis will be the occasion for a grand reunion.

EVERY WEDDING is surrounded by its own little aura of sentimentality. When May Weltner becomes Mrs. Billy Norwood on August 14, a special ray of glory will be added to her marriage by a single strand of pearls. The pearls are highly prized, for they were a wedding gift from May's grandfather, A. L. Hull, to Mrs. Hull on the occasion of their marriage. Now May will use them as an extra precious "something old."

NEWS DRIFTS from New York that Anne Garrett, pretty gadabout post-bede, spent the weekend there with her brother and sister, Bob and Susan Garrett Ison. The young Isons, you know, now have an apartment in New London, Conn., where Bob is on submarine duty with the U. S. Navy, and Anne has been their guest for several days.

The trio journeyed to the metropolis Friday, where the Atlanta sisters added feminine pulchritude to night club gatherings, and attended shows at Broadway playhouses. Fashion notes, according to Anne and Susan, promise a successful winter for tiny skullcap hats.

VIRGINIA WILLIAMS has been visiting in North Carolina and Virginia for the past several weeks. She was expected back in Atlanta this week, but she is having such a good time she has postponed her return to Atlanta, and is now attending a house party with her

DO YOU KNOW? That one of last season's most widely feted debutantes has received her engagement ring from a prominent professional man? . . . That when Evelyn Harris, who is recovering from a recent automobile accident, was removed from an oxygen tent recently, he informed a caller that he had just "been unveiled"? . . . That a pretty Atlanta belle visiting on the west coast is rumored to be receiving constant marriage proposals from a youthful movie star? . . . That feminine vacationists at fashionable beaches are topping their tresses with fresh tropical flowers? . . . That a pretty belle who moved to this city from Louisiana has chosen Saturday, August 2, as the date for her marriage to a handsome admirer of several years' standing, the announcement of the marriage to be made in Sunday's paper? . . . That Arthur W. Harris is the best friend of the "newly-betrothed" because he presents them with champagne? . . . That a well-known divorced couple is rumored to be considering a remarriage? . . . That a popular auburn-haired Atlanta belle has an out-of-town admirer who comes to this city every Wednesday evening—and that they go on picnics? . . . That Louise McKie did not know that the little black dog eating cake from her hand during her recent trip to Savannah Beach was a victim of rabies until two officers approached with drawn pistols, and carried him away?

MISS CHARLINE LINDSEY.

Miss Charline Lindsey To Wed Harold Clarke on August 1

The engagement of Miss Charline Lindsey, of Atlanta and Nashville, Tenn., to Harold Clarke, of Raleigh, N. C., formerly of Decatur, is of widespread interest. Their marriage will be solemnized Friday afternoon, August 1, at the Druid Hills Methodist church. Dr. E. C. Few will officiate at 5 o'clock.

The attractive bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Hattie Lindsey, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., and the late James E. Lindsey. She is the sister of Mrs. G. C. Laney, of Madera, Cal.; Mrs. O. E. Hall, James and Hoyle Lindsey, all of Lawrenceburg, Tenn.

Miss Lindsey received her education at Lawrenceburg High school. She has been making her home in Atlanta for some time, and enjoys widespread popularity.

Mr. Clarke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Clarke, of Decatur. He attended Decatur High school and is now connected with J. I. Case Company in Raleigh, where he and his future bride will reside.

Prior to her marriage Miss Lindsey will be honored at a number of social affairs, the dates and nature of these to be announced.

Waldo Slaton Unit, No. 140, Installs Officers at Meeting

Waldo M. Slaton Unit No. 140, American Legion Auxiliary, met recently at the Legion Club in North Fulton park. The following officers were installed: Mrs. Vernon Frank, district director; President, Mrs. Bob Miller; first vice president, Mrs. Guy Crawford; second vice president, Mrs. Elmer G. Holmes; secretary, Mrs. O. T. Fishback; treasurer, Mrs. L. M. Roberts; historian, Mrs. Murt Kelly; chaplain, Mrs. J. B. Welton; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Jesse A. Barrett. The three members elected to serve with the officers on the executive committee were Mrs. S. E. Dillinger, Mrs. R. E. Milling and Mrs. Allen L. Henson.

Other guests present were Mrs. C. R. McQuown, first vice president of the department; Mrs. C. V. Hovis, president Atlanta Unit No. 1; Mrs. Ben T. Huie, vice president Atlanta Unit, and Mrs. Fred H. Bartlett, immediate past president of West End Unit, and a member of the Department Americanism Committee.

Mrs. Bartlett presented, on behalf of her unit, the Navel Print plate which the Waldo M. Slaton Unit won in a membership challenge from West End Unit the past year. The unit president, Mrs. Miller, immediately challenged Atlanta Unit and West End Unit to another membership contest, the unit first to reach its quota before November 11 to receive a Navel Print plate from each of the losers. Decatur was also invited to participate in the contest and will report its decision soon. Delegates to the recent convention gave reports and announced the unit had won all four membership citations offered by the department and national organizations.

In recognition of her year's work, Mrs. S. E. Dillinger was presented a Past Unit President's pin. The Americanism chairman reported that four essay medals had been presented the winners in all schools participating in the contest in north side schools.

The unit will give a pantry shower at the August meeting to provide trays for the patients attending patients during critical stages of illness.

Following the meeting the unit entertained visitors and members of the post at a social hour.

General Shoe Softball Team Regains Punch

Wallop General Electric, 21-1, in Feature of City Tournament.

When General Shoe lost its first game of the city softball tournament, a lot of folks counted it out of the meet.

But Wednesday night, the Shoemen unleashed the heaviest barrage of the tournament to wallop General Electric, 21 to 1, and bounce right back into a favored spot.

Satterfield limited the losers to only one hit and shut them out for the last six innings of the contest.

General Shoe got 15 hits off Clark and took advantage of six errors to pile up their overwhelming margin. Twelve runners trotted home in a wild fifth.

Westminster cracked out 20 hits, which were good for only 14 runs in defeating Adams Service, 14 to 6.

In the other tournament game, the Journal Circulators conquered C. & S. Bank, 10 to 6.

Exposition's girls defeated Speedway Service, 13-1, in a regular league game of the Greater Atlanta Softball Association, and the Dodson Dodgers whipped Tractor Division, 11-4, in a Twilight Loop battle.

By its victory, General Shoe joins Walker Electric and Gulf Oil as teams which have lost one game but are still capable of winning the meet.

Cooledge, Western Auto and Railway Express are the prime undefeated favorites.

DiMag Halted In 12 Contests, Records Show

Joltin' Joe Gets Revenge on Jim Bagby, Who Stopped Streak.

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(UP)—The second and final chapter in the thriller entitled "The Revenge of Joe DiMaggio" was written by Joltin' Joe himself in today's Yankee-Indian game at Yankee stadium.

The Yankees' super-star took care of Jim Bagby Jr., today just as he did Al Smith yesterday and gained some measure of satisfaction from the two Cleveland pitchers who terminated his hitting streak at 56 consecutive games out in Cleveland last Thursday night. He proved that he could hit them and established their stunt of stopping him as something of a fluke.

Leading off in the fourth inning, DiMaggio rifled a line drive single to center field off Bagby and just as was the case yesterday, Joe's hit started another Yankee rally which eventually resulted in the 4-1 triumph.

DiMaggio came around to score in that frame to give the Yanks a 1-0 lead. Then he walked on a 3-and-1 count in the next inning and Charlie Keller's 24th homer into the right field stands gave the Yanks a 3-0 lead.

DiMaggio has now hit safely in seven straight games since Smith and Bagby stopped him under the lights a week ago, and has hit safely in 63 out of his last 64 games. In only 12 of the Yanks' 90 games has DiMaggio failed to hit safely. The pitchers who've stopped him are:

1. Lester McCrabb (L), Athletics.

2. Charlie Wagner, Red Sox.

3. Emerson Dickman, Earl Johnson (L) and Mickey Harris (L), Red Sox.

4. Bob Harris, Browns.

5. Ted Lyons, White Sox.

6. Buck Newsom, Tigers.

7. Tommy Bridges, Tigers.

8. Johnny Gonsky, Tigers.

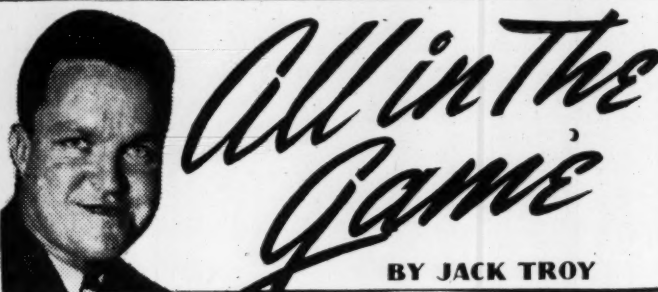

9. Al Milnar (L), C. Brown and Harry Eisenstat (L), Indians.

10. Bob Feller, Indians.

11. Mel Harder, Indians.

12. Al Smith (L) and Jim Bagby, Indians.

Tomorrow the White Sox come to town and Edgar Smith, the southpaw against whom DiMaggio started his 56-game hitting streak back on May 15, will be in the box.

All in the Game

BY JACK TROY

Saga of a Fighter

Once upon a time a sports columnist, coming upon a dull day, hit on a bright idea. He picked up the entire column of a contemporary and prefaced it with this question:

"Wonder what so-and-so means by this?"

I thought about that when I read Richard (New York Herald Tribune) Vidmer's story of Bob Jones' sentimental interest in a young prize fighter.

Vidmer pointed out how in famous Stillman's gym in New York this day there was a sudden stir at the entrance. "A little Negro boy (Vidmer continued) appeared, accompanied by an entourage fit for a champion. The heavyweights peered over each other's shoulders, the shadow boxers stopped dancing, the managers and matchmakers turned to stare. The parade passed through the room and on to a private dressing room."

"Who in the hell was that?" someone finally asked. No one knew.

Vidmer went on to say that some of the escorts were recognized, among them being the secretary of Henry Armstrong, and a publicity man, Chick Wergeles. From this point the scene of the story shifts to Georgia, and Vidmer recounts it entertainingly.

Bowman's Protege

"It all goes back to the Augusta National Golf club and Bowman Milligan, who has charge of the locker room. That may seem a far cry from Stillman's gymnasium and a little Negro lightweight making his first appearance in New York, but here's the story:

Bowman, as everybody knows him at Augusta National, sometimes provides the entertainment for stag dinners and smokers and a few years ago he put on a good, old-fashioned battle royal for the entertainment of the golfers. Out of the brawl, victorious, emerged a kinky-haired little fellow with a fighting face, who immediately became the darling of Bowman's heart.

It seemed the little fellow didn't have any father or any mother and just got along the best he could. So Bowman took him under his wing and started him shining shoes. But Beau Jack wasn't very good at that. Then Bowman persuaded the caddy master to let him carry clubs. But Beau Jack wasn't very good at that, either. It developed that all Beau Jack wanted to do was to fight.

So Bowman became his legal guardian, took him to Long Meadow Club in Springfield, Mass., where he supervises the locker room in the summer, and let Beau Jack fight. That, it turned out, was something Beau Jack could do well, and Bowman went back to Augusta that fall telling such people as Robert Tyne Jones Jr., Cliff Roberts, Slaters Slater, Frank Willard, Burt Peck and the others how good Beau Jack could fight.

Bowman's Friends Form Syndicate.

Of course, they didn't believe him, but Bowman produced his ring record to convince them. When Bowman returned to Long Meadow last spring others became interested. They followed Beau Jack's fights and got a kick out of his string of successes, most of them by knockouts. They got together and decided something ought to be done for Bowman's boy; he ought to have a chance to show on the big circuit—New York.

But it takes money and influence and a lot of things to bring a comparatively unknown fighter to New York. So a syndicate was formed, a very strange syndicate, indeed. Bob Jones, Cliff Roberts, Frank Crumit, Frank Willard, Billy DeBeck, Slaters Slater and a lot of their friends all chipped in to stake Beau Jack.

They subscribed enough to pay for his training expenses, his boxing license, a manager, a trainer and a couple of companions to guide him through the mysteries of New York City. They gathered enough to pay his board and rent until he could get a fight and earn his own way. And they persuaded Jimmy Bronson and Chick Meehan, who are operating the boxing shows at Ebbets Field, to give him a chance. They are convinced that once the public sees Beau Jack in action they'll demand his return to the ring.

Benefactors' Interest Purely Sentimental

But the strangest part of the syndicate is that their interest is purely sentimental and not financial. All they hope to get back is their original investment. There will be no profits except to Beau Jack and his manager.

Chick Wergeles has been selected to handle the lad's boxing career. Sammy Scheer has been appointed trainer. Peevee has been hired as companion and bodyguard. A private dressing room in Stillman's gym has been engaged. A rubber has been hired and a couple of Beau Jack's friends have attached themselves to the entourage. He even has a special chef.

Anyway, he came into New York like a champion and, who knows, he may go out like one. He has his first fight next month.

What's the Idea? I don't get the idea of the story about Dick Wakefield, the fancy Michigan sophomore who signed with Detroit for a bonus of $50,000.

Wakefield, playing for Winston-Salem (Piedmont League) fanned three times in one game, but the story said, "but the lanky Chicagoan looked great in his debut here, swinging with the tremendous power that has made him the season's most talked about recruit."

In the first place, the $50,000 bonus, not his swing, has made him the most talked about recruit. It was an unheard of thing for Detroit to pay that much money to an untested prospect.

In the second place, any batter can swing hard. Ever see Jinx Poindexter swing? Now, there's a Medalist Plays Owen and Suggs Meets Vines in Today's Matches.

BY DOROTHY KIRBY.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 24.—I feel a bit better today than I did at this point yesterday, for I won my match by a 6 and 5 margin. Eileen Stulb, my opponent, was not up to her usual game and needed 42 strokes on the front line. I came in with a 38 taking three putts on the ninth green.

This green really gets me down. I take three putts here every time I play it. In fact my putting had me worried all the way. I needed par in from the 14th for another 76.

The closest match this morning was between Mary Stevenson, of Brunswick, Ga., and Virginia Vines. This went to the 19th where Virginia won it with a one over par five. Mary got into the ditch in front of the green and couldn't seem to get out and that ended this match. Coming up to the 18th Mary had Virginia one down, but Virginia dropped about a 20-foot putt for a par four and a win. It was a beautiful putt.

SUGGS ROUTS FOE.

Louise Suggs trounced her opponent, Beverly Bridgers, by a lopsided score of 8 and 7. Louise was out in a 30, but she said her putting was slightly off.

Tomorrow she will meet Virginia Vines and it looks as if Louise will have to get in the groove for this one as Virginia is capable of playing nice golf. Louise agreed with me and went out on the practice tee at the moment hitting shots.

Frances Owen, my opponent for tomorrow, won today without much difficulty. As for myself I have a job cut out for me tomorrow in playing her and I only hope I can hit the ball.

GREENS TRICKY.

These greens are something to write home about, not any two of them are the same. So if you putt well on them you really have to have a keen putting touch.

For relaxation several of us are taking in the old fashion square dance tonight. They say this is a sight to see.

Well there is only one more day until the finals and I am keeping my fingers crossed all the way.

Baseball Arranged For Camp Teams

FORT OGLETHORPE, Ga., July 24.—(AP)—Camp athletic officers arranged for baseball games Saturday and Sunday with the Camp McClellan team in what they hope will be a series of inter-camp engagements of Army teams.

First Lieutenant Charles G. Opper and Private Thayer Houts, acting as athletic aide, said the Oglethorpe team is in good shape particularly since the induction of several professional ball players from different sections of Tennessee.

They hope to add Camp Forrest, Fort McPherson and Camp Wheeler teams to their playing schedule.

'42 Tiger Track Captain Called to Camp by U. S.

AUBURN, Ala., July 24.—(AP)—Babe McGehee, captain-elect of the 1942 Auburn track team, was ordered to active Army duty today at Fort Bragg, N. C.

McGehee won a second lieutenant's commission in June. He had completed three years as an end on the Auburn football team, but was eligible for another season of track competition. He is a hurdler.

Finds Baby Deer Makes Ideal Pet

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 24. Ed Dunn, well-known resident of this city, recently found a baby deer on the road and picked him up and brought him to his home here, giving him every attention. The little spotted critter drinks milk from the bottle like any other normal infant would. He also devours grass with pleasure and sweetens his stomach with peach peels and fresh ripe figs occasionally.

Though dogs and deer are not usually friendly, Mr. Dunn has a dog which has accepted the deer as a pal, the two making fine playmates, getting out in the street in everyone's way.

Mr. Dunn plans to take the deer to a near-by farm and keep it there as a pet.

Jack Teagle Defends Title At West End

Outstanding among the 60 entrants in the West End Club's third annual tennis tournament are Jack Teagle, last year's winner; Carl Maddox, city junior champion; T. W. Fowler Jr., and Malcolm Manley. Also entered in the tournament are Hank Crawford, Don Floyd, Glenn Dudley, Champ Reese, John Bethune, Glenn McConnell, Marvin Nicholson, Stan Smith and Bob Rayle.

With Mrs. David Jones, present champion, out of the city, the women's division will be wide open, and among the ladies eager to battle for the crown are Etta Coyne, Florence Camp, Mildred Stacy and Anne Allen.

Today is the last day for men to enter the tournament, but the deadline for women is Sunday. Those wishing to enter are asked to call RA. 9119.

Oris Hockett Is Sold To Cleveland by Vols

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 24.—(AP)—Manager Larry Gilbert said today Outfielder Oris Hockett, currently the Nashville Vols' leading hitter, had been sold to the Cleveland Indians for delivery at the close of the Southern Association season.

S. E. C. Unhurt By Draft Act, Meagher Says

Freshmen Not Needed for Varsity Duty, Tiger Coach Writes.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 24. (AP)—Coach Jack Meagher, of Auburn, predicted today the draft would affect all Southeastern Conference teams "about the same" and asserted he was "sure" no members would have to call upon freshmen for varsity duty.

Each would have to lose "a wholesale number of boys," Meagher said, to bring this about. He added, however, some of the smaller schools might have to play first year men.

Meagher's observations were contained in a guest column written for Sam Adams, sports editor of the Alabama Journal.

"All teams in the Southeastern Conference carry large football squads," Meagher wrote, "and I know that all would have to lose a wholesale number of boys, much more than the half-dozen or more it now looks as if most of all the teams might lose, before freshmen would have to be called upon."

"Some of the smaller schools might have to call upon freshmen to play this coming season, but I am sure this will not happen in the Southeastern Conference."

"Already we have lost two lettermen, Quarterback Buddy McMahon, a major loss; End Theo Cramer, and Halfback Paul Ellis to Uncle Sam. It now looks as if Guard Nick Ardillo, Tackle and Alternate Captain Francis Crummins, End Moncees, Quarterback Jim Sims, and Halfback Bill Yearout might be inducted into the Army."

"If we lose all of these boys, it would hurt us lots. But I believe that the draft will affect all of the teams about the same. We now count on 15 lettermen returning and they will be the backbone of our 1941 club."

Aluminum Day Delays Cards 10,000 Women Bring Pots for Tickets

ST. LOUIS, July 24.—(AP)—Nearly 10,000 women baseball fans armed with everything from salt shakers to double-boilers stormed Sportsman's Park today and held up the Giants-Cardinals game several minutes.

They weren't throwing the stuff this time, however.

It was Aluminum Day and the kitchenware—contributed as the price of admission in the interest of national defense—was piled so high around the main gate extra help was needed to keep entrances clear.

Every woman brought at least one article and some turned out with what looked like the whole kitchen. Prize for the most unusual piece went to the lady who dropped in a set of false teeth with aluminum plates.

There was such a jam at game time play was delayed to give all the ladies a chance to find seats—among the 3,200 cash customers.

Cooper, Hogan Top Favorites In $7,500 Meet

170 Golfers Tee Off Today in 1st Round Qualifying at St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, July 24.—(P)—The card index of the golfing greats had a good going over by prognosticators looking for the likely winner of the $7,500 St. Paul Open golf tournament starting tomorrow.

Light Horse Harry Cooper, the highest money winner of the tournament's history, has been placed high, along with Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Horton Smith, Clayton Heafner, Ralph Guldahl, Lawson Little, Dick Metz and Denny Shute.

From the duffer's point of view, all the favorite needs is the idea that summer is supposed to produce some good hot weather, and Ben Hogan, from down Texas way, has had that. So have Heafner and others, but one can't get away from the thought that Hogan has collected heavy cash in his last 51 tournaments.

A total of 170 players will tee off tomorrow in the first 18-hole qualifying round. A second 18 holes is booked for Saturday, with the 60 low scorers entering the 36-hole finals Sunday.

DICKEY BEATEN BY BAGBY—Bill Dickey, veteran Yankee catcher, was struck behind the right ear by one of Jim Bagby's fast balls in the fifth inning of Thursday's game with the Cleveland Indians. He did not lose consciousness and was assisted to the dugout. Rollie Hemsley, Cleveland catcher, bends over him here. Dickey was taken to the hospital for X-rays and remained overnight for observation, although his injury did not appear serious. This was the second beating in the major leagues in two days.

Burge Wallops 30th Home Run To Tie Record

Heusser Finishes With Burst of Speed To Notch His 15th Victory.

SULPHUR DELL, NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 24.—The Crackers made it two in a row over the Nashville Vols here tonight, winning 8 to 5 to increase their first-place lead to 15 full games.

Ed Heusser started poorly but finished with a great burst of speed as he notched his 15th victory. The veteran righthander was in trouble in the first and was hanging on the ropes in the fifth. But he had the Vols' number the rest of the way, retiring them in order in the sixth, seventh, and eighth, and he faced only four men in the ninth.

Leo Twardy was routed in the sixth and the Crackers hopped on John Sain for two insurance runs in the ninth. They slapped Twardy for 12 blows.

TIES CULLOP'S MARK. Lester Burge exploded his 30th home run to tie the all-time Atlanta record, which was held by Nick Cullop. It came in the sixth with the bases empty.

Buddy Bates supplied the pinch blow in the sixth that broke the tie. Herb Crompton laced out three hits and drove in three runs. Jeff Cramer will face George Jefferson Friday night, when the third game of the four-piece series will be played.

VOLS SCORE FIRST.

The locals bunched three blows in the first inning for a run to get off in front. Culler spanked a liner to center and Shilling shot single past Glock into left field. After Hockett whiffed, Workman blasted a single to right, scoring Culler. Charley was an easy out at second as he attempted to stretch a single into a double. Tatum followed with a drive which sent Marshall to the top of the left field dump to get it.

Marshall singled with one away in the second for the Crackers' first hit off Twardy. Glock was hit by a pitched ball. Crompton was Leo's fourth strike-out victim of the night. Then Gerlach sent a line drive to left. Hockett came in fast, hoping to take it on the first bounce and throw Marshall out at the plate, but the ball took a weird hop over his head and rolled all the way to the fence. Both Marshall and Glock scored and Gerlach pulled up at second.

The Vols pulled even at the third. Heusser issued a free ticket to Shilling with one down. Hockett then smashed a single to center, and when Bates' throw to third took a bad hop and went into the stands, Shilling scored and Hockett pulled up at third. Heusser got out of the trouble, however, by getting Workman on a short fly and fanning Tatum.

CRACKERS GRAB LEAD.

The Crackers moved ahead again in the fourth when the Vols protested umpire Red Jones' poor vision. Glock led off with a drive to right that went for a double when Workman fielded trying to field the ball. Crompton bounced a hit down the third-base line that the Vols claimed hit at least a foot in foul territory. Glock scored on the play but Crompton was out at second as he attempted to stretch the hit into a double.

A three-hit outburst enabled the Gilbert gang to forge to the front in the fifth. Culler lined to Burge to open the round. Then Shilling spanked a ground single to left and Hockett hit a hot one

The Spotlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

TWO GREAT STREAKS.

Various attempts have been made to compare the two record contributions of Joe DiMaggio and Ben Hogan. This naturally means DiMaggio's run of 56 games for consecutive hitting and Hogan's run of 51 golf tournaments inside the money sector.

We have been put in the middle of a number of violent arguments concerning this famous pair, but the situation happens to be as follows—baseball and golf are two entirely different games. You might as well try to compare a 100-yard sprinter and a high jumper.

Yet there are those who insist on knowing which of the two—Joe or Ben—put over the better or harder performance.

DiMaggio's accomplishment called for an everyday act for about two months. Hogan's run was close to an every-week act for over a year.

While as a rule the nerve strain in golf is rougher than it is in baseball, in this case I think the nerve strain on DiMaggio as he began closing in on the records of Sisler and Keeler was much more than the strain Hogan faced to finish in the money-winning division.

Winning a big golf tournament is one of the hardest assignments in all sport. Finishing in the money hasn't been quite so complicated with the powerful, accurate swing Ben carries to the green turf.

Hogan's Feet. Hogan's record run gathers a new glow when you consider the glittering inconsistency of all golfers. Form and touch are here today and gone tomorrow. Mental attitudes swing back and forth like spectral pendulums. They can rarely be established in advance.

You will find ten or eleven different contestants among the winners of 12 big tournaments.

This is largely because golfers get hot at only extended intervals. Hogan has remained hot through consecutive tournaments, yet not quite hot enough to finish in front any too often.

It is significant that from so many star entries Ben Hogan is the only one consistent enough to keep on marching in the money parade, usually near the front. There have been many days when he looked tired and stale. But even through these periods he has had the swing and the iron-shod determination to keep on hammering away in the general direction of the main goal.

What Golf Is.

Golf has been established as a game that is about 25 per cent physical skill and 75 per cent on the mental and emotional side. It is largely a game of concentration and determination. This applies also to the ordinary players, struggling between 90 and 110.

There are certain days when concentration seems simple. There are other days when it is almost impossible.

What is concentration? I believe Long Jim Barnes has the best answer when he says it is "thinking of the right thing at the right time." There is a "physical order of movement" in the golf swing, but this must be preceded by a "mental order of movement."

This might be lined up as follows—

1. A feeling of ease and comfort in the address.
 2. The smooth, unhurried pace of the backswing.
 3. The proper left side turn.
 4. To be sure the backswing is finished before the downswing starts.
 5. To be sure the head is held in place as anchor for the swing.
- There should be a mental picture of these details before the backswing is ever started. Certainly no golfer ever had a swing fine enough to work well with a drifting head.

Good concentration must be on the swing itself, not on the results of the swing.

The Main Battle.

The hardest fight in golf is for consistency. I have seen as fine a golfer as Craig Wood shoot an 88 in one tournament round and a 67 the next day. Here is a margin of 21 strokes, more than a stroke a hole, an incredible shift. But it can happen.

Vic Ghezzi was good enough to win the P. G. A. crown against a great field, and then a week later in the Chicago Open he couldn't crowd into the first sixty.

This is why Hogan's long run, moving well into the second year, is one of the leading achievements in sport.

Few know the long hours the Texan, now at Hershey, has put into practice grinds. We see his left hand when it looks like a veal cutlet. For Ben takes a terrific lash at the ball. Few combine distance and direction so effectively. You'll never see him play a careless shot.

In addition to being a fine swinger there is no one else who can outmatch him at concentration and determination—the winning twins of golf.

McNeil, Parker Bombshelled in Tournery Upsets

Ted Schroeder, Wayne Sabin Whip Favorites in Dynamic Sets.

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., July 24.—

(P)—Don McNeil, whose lease on the championship is fast running out, and Frankie Parker, until now the man of the hour in amateur tennis, were blasted out of the 54th annual Sea Bright Invitation tennis tournament today in a pair of upsets that left the men's field with only one of its seeded stars. McNeil, playing tennis that hardly befits a national champion, was relegated to the side lines by 20-year-old Ted Schroeder, of Glendale, Cal., 6-3, 7-5, and Wayne Sabin, of Reno, Nev., touched off the day's second bombshell by crushing Parker, 6-2, 6-4.

The quarter-final round matches ran true to form as second-seeded Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, the defending champion, conquered Jack Kramer, of Los Angeles, 6-6, 6-2, and Gardner Mulholland, of Coral Gables, Fla., trounced Ladislav Hecht, of New York, 6-2, 6-0, in the lower half of the draw.

McNeill's defeat was sealed when he had set point in the ninth game of the second set and lost it on one of the countless errors he committed.

Sabin was dynamic against the third-seeded Parker. The Altadena (Cal.) ace made only one spirited stand when he captured three straight games in the second set to cut Sabin's lead to 5-4. Riggs, now a heavy favorite to win the tournament title for the fourth time, encountered stiff opposition from Kramer in the first set of their match, but was never in danger once he asserted himself.

power swing. Trouble is Old Jinx just LOOKS GOOD swinging.

In the third place, what is a power swing, anyway? Wouldn't you say Lester Burge does rather well blasting 400-foot homers?

Burge doesn't appear to be swinging very hard, either. He simply meets the ball and great wrist action does the rest.

If it takes hard swinging to impress major league magnates, the college boys of our section should take notice. They should practice swinging so hard they couldn't maintain their balance at the finish. That would be impressive.

Then when they strike out they can say to the coach, "but gee whiz, Roy, I looked good swinging, didn't I?"

Vegetable Variations

Vegetables are the life savers of summer meals. There are so many fresh young vegetables available now that it's downright exciting to go to market. Fresh vegetables inspire colorful meals and certainly do their part in keeping us healthy in summer.

When preparing vegetables, remember they are most delicious when cooked only long enough to make them tender. That is, when they retain a slight amount of their fresh crispness. Use only a small amount of water so that the fine flavors and vitamins and minerals are kept. Never throw away the water in which green and yellow vegetables are cooked. Vegetables should be dropped in boiling, salted water and cooked quickly until tender. All green vegetables should be left uncovered. Others may be covered to steam. Cook until the vegetables are just tender and no more.

These directions hold true for most fresh vegetables. Onions and the members of the cabbage family are the exception, because they have stronger flavors. Cook them in a large amount of boiling salted water . . . enough to cover . . . and with the lid removed. The steam and water take away some of the flavor. Be extra careful not to overcook these vegetables, for long cooking will give them a bitter taste.

Here are some other ideas which may help you in preparing appetizing vegetables.

Baked Tomatoes With Mushrooms
6 large tomatoes.
2 cups soft bread crumbs.

1 small onion, minced.
Salt and pepper.
Cut tomatoes in halves and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Heat shortening and saute the onion and mushrooms over low heat about 3 minutes. Add crumbs and stir until well mixed. Season. If not sufficiently moist to cling together, add a few drops of water or tomato juice. Divide into 12 parts and pack on top of each tomato. Bake 8 or 9 minutes in hot oven until light brown on top.

Ten-Minute Beets
6 raw beets.
1-2 cup boiling water.
1 tablespoon margarine or butter.
1 tablespoon vinegar.
1 teaspoon salt.
Pepper.

Using a thin sharp knife, peel the beets and shred with a coarse grater. Place with the other ingredients in a saucepan and cover the pan closely. Cook over quick heat until a strong steam appears . . . which will be in just about one minute. Then reduce the heat and simmer gently for 9 minutes. The seasoning may be changed if desired. The main point is to cook the shredded beets quickly in this small amount of water, which produces steam.

Creamed Celery
Outside stalks, 3 heads celery.
3 tablespoons butter.
3 tablespoons flour.
1 1-2 cups milk.
Salt and pepper to taste.

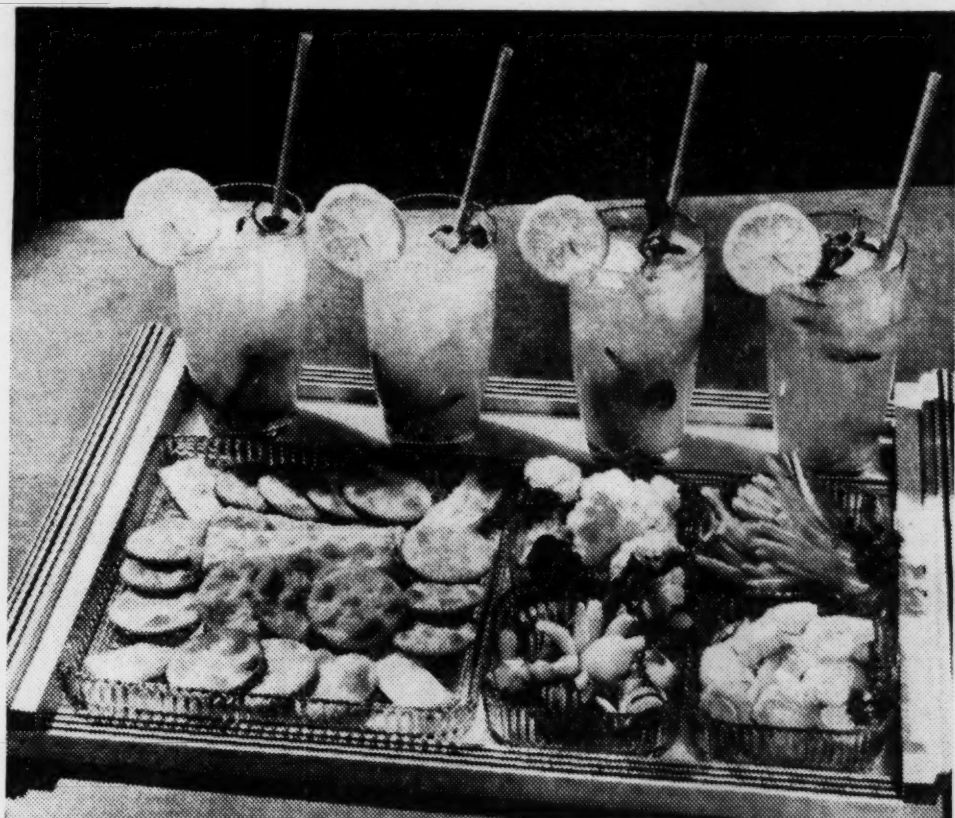

Wash and scrape celery, cut into inch lengths. Cook in salted water until tender, about 30 minutes. Then drain well. Blend butter and flour, add milk gradually, stirring constantly until mixture boils. Cook 3 minutes, season and heat the celery in this sauce. Onions, parsnips and carrots may be prepared this way.

Leftover vegetables are often a problem. A cupful of this and a dab of that takes up valued space in the refrigerator, yet they're hard to throw away with a clear conscience. Combine these leftovers with enriched bread and canned tomatoes and they can be made into a delightful casserole dish.

Vitamin Bake
1 cup cooked peas.
1 cup cooked diced green beans.
1 cup cooked diced carrots.
1 teaspoon grated onion.
2 cups canned tomatoes.
1 tablespoon sugar.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
1-8 teaspoon pepper.
4 slices bread cut in cubes.
4 tablespoons butter melted.

Mix vegetables, seasonings, bread cubes and 3 tablespoons butter in saucepan and heat. Transfer to greased casserole. Brush tops with remaining butter and place under broiler flame until top has browned.

The first three vegetables listed above are "leftovers." For these you can substitute corn, lima beans, diced broccoli, white turnips, kohlrabi, celery or almost any other canned or cooked vegetable.

Crisp summer vegetables, radish roses, cucumber slices, carrot sticks and cauliflower hearts, make appetizing hors d'oeuvres arranged with crispy crackers. Serve them with mint-garnished lemonade . . . or with any tangy, not-too-sweet drink.

Mrs. Wesley Warren, right, prepares carrots and cabbage for a healthful summer salad. Salads of fresh vegetables are not only tasty, but rich in needed vitamins.

A worthy climax for any meal is the refrigerator cake shown left. It gets its unusual flavor from cranberry sauce and the refrigerator does all the hard work!

A vegetable dinner may use nut meats to supply the needed proteins. Below they are used in the vegetable stuffing of the green peppers, which are arranged around a regal cauliflower head.

Refrigerator Cooks This Dessert

Refrigerator desserts are a boon to the housekeeper in summer. They can be made hours, even a day or two, ahead of time, and are all ready at mealtime. What's more, this type of dessert, while being easy, loses none of its eye appeal, for they can be beautiful as well as good.

Cranberry Refrigerator Cake
1 envelope unflavored gelatin.
1-4 cup cold water.
1 can jellied cranberry sauce.
2 tablespoons sugar.
Stale cake or lady fingers.
3-4 cup heavy cream or evaporated milk, whipped.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Dissolve over hot water. Crush half of the can of cranberry sauce and add it to the gelatin and sugar. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in the whipped cream. Line bottom and sides of loaf pan in cake or lady fingers, cover with cranberry-cream mixture and repeat until pan is filled. Place in refrigerator until firm. Unmold on cake plate, cover with whipped cream if desired, or garnish with fancy shapes cut from remaining cranberry sauce. Serves six.

Cooling Grape Aloha

2 cups simple syrup (made by boiling together for 10 minutes, 1 cup sugar and 1 cup water for each cup of syrup).
1 cup crushed pineapple.
Juice of 3 lemons.
3/4 cup grape juice.
2 1/2 cups carbonated water.
1 quart ginger ale.

Add fruit juices to simple syrup. Chill. Just before serving, add carbonated water and ginger ale, prechilled. Serves 10 in tall glasses.

Stuffed Peppers

Vegetarian Stuffed Peppers
6 large green peppers.
2 cups cooked rice.
2 tablespoons butter, melted.
1-4 cup chopped celery.
1-2 cup chopped nut meats.
1-4 cup chili sauce.
1-4 cup water.

Cut peppers in halves, lengthwise, remove seeds and parboil 3 minutes. Combine remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Fill pepper cases and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, until tender but still firm (about 20 to 30 minutes).

Meat Stuffed Peppers.

6 green peppers.
3 cooked tomatoes.
1-2 cup chopped (cooked) meat.
1 tablespoon fat or oil.
Breadcrumbs.
1 teaspoon butter.
Salt and pepper.

Cut stem end from peppers, remove seeds and parboil 2 minutes, then drop in cold water. Combine tomatoes and meat and enough crumbs to make a thick stuffing. Heat stuffing in frying pan in fat and butter, with seasonings to taste. Fill peppers, place upright in a pan, pour around them 1 cup water or stock and bake 20 to 30 minutes.

Can Vegetables Now For Future Savings

A housewife with even a grain of thrift in her makeup is impelled to do some canning, pickle making or preserving while vegetables, fruits and melons are cheap and abundant. Pickle making and preserving offer no particular complications since sugar, spices and vinegar add to the keeping quality. But the canning of vegetables is a different matter; to keep them safely requires absolute sterilization of jars and equipment and precise methods followed exactly.

There are several means of canning successfully: (1) By the old-fashioned open kettle method; (2) by pressure cooker, and (3) by hot or cold pack and processing. "Processing" is a very important step in canning and should be understood by every home canner.

Processing is placing filled and sealed jars (contents hot or cold, according to recipe) in hot water or regulated oven and heating for a given length of time. In other words, the food is cooked in the jar. All foods, with the exception of tomatoes, fruits, preserves and pickles, should be processed. Any large, deep vessel which will allow the water to come up to the neck of the jars, and which has a rack to hold jars off the bottom, will serve to "process" jars in the hot water bath method. In oven processing the filled jars are set on a rack, placed so they will not touch each other, and the oven control set at 250 degrees. (Not higher).

In hot water processing the water surrounding jars should never boil briskly. It should simmer. Count time when water reaches slow, bubbling boil.

This table will guide you in canning successfully:

| | Canning Time Table—In Minutes | | |
|---|-------------------------------|-----------------|-----------|
| | Hot Water Bath | Pressure Cooker | Oven Time |
| String or wax beans, wash, string, precook 5 minutes, pack | 180 | 40 min. 10 lbs. | 210 |
| Beets, wash, leave roots and stems long, precook 15 minutes, slip off skins, pack | 120 | 40 min. 10 lbs. | 210 |
| Lima beans, shell, grade, precook 3 minutes, pack | 180 | 55 min. 10 lbs. | 210 |
| Cabbage, remove outer leaves, wash, precook 5 minutes, pack | 120 | 35 min. 10 lbs. | 150 |
| Carrots, wash, peel, precook 5 minutes, pack | 120 | 35 min. 10 lbs. | 150 |

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

Cool Luncheon Salad.

1 package lime-flavored gelatin.
1 1-2 cups hot water.
1 cup cubed avocado.
3-4 cup diced celery.
1-2 cup sliced ripe olives.
5 tablespoons lemon juice.
Onion salt.
3-4 cup flaked crab meat.
8 large thick slices peeled tomato.

Letuce.
Salt.
1-2 cup mayonnaise.
1 tablespoon mild prepared mustard.

Pour water over gelatin and stir to dissolve. Chill until thick but not firm. To prepare avocado, cut into halves and remove seed and skin. Cut fruit into cubes. Combine with celery, ripe olives, lemon juice, a sprinkling of onion salt, and crab meat. Add chilled gelatin and blend lightly. Pour into a wet mold and chill until firm. Place one slice of tomato on each of eight lettuce-garnished salad plates. Sprinkle tomato slices with salt and spread lightly with blended mayonnaise and mustard. Unmold gelatin mixture and cut into squares. Place a square on each tomato and garnish with the blended mayonnaise and mustard. Serves 8.

Grate on a coarse grater enough carrots to make 4 cupful measure and cut into squares. Place a square on each tomato and garnish with 3-4 cup boiling water, cooked peas until it is boiling.

Prize Winning Recipes For This Week

Creamed Lettuce.

Submitted by Miss Julia Hogan, Agnes, Ga.

3-4 teaspoon salt.
4 slices bacon, diced.
1-2 cup cream.

Combine lettuce, onion, and salt. Fry bacon and add cream blending thoroughly. Pour this over lettuce and onion, mix well, and serve immediately.

Vegetable Salad.

Submitted by Mrs. M. M. Adams, Hermitage, Ga.

3 or 4 ears corn (approximately 2 cups).
2 cups tomatoes, uncooked.
1 cup grated cheese.
1-2 cup salad dressing.
Boil corn (whole ears) fifteen minutes, cut from cob as nearly whole grain as possible. Peel tomatoes, free from seeds, and cut in small pieces. Mix corn, tomatoes and cheese with dressing. Garnish with sliced olives.

Frozen Mayonnaise Salad

Submitted by Mrs. W. L. Southwell, 1690 Peachtree Road, Atlanta, Ga.

1 quart strained red tomato juice.
3-4 quart mayonnaise.
Season tomato juice with about 12 drops of tabasco, or more. Salt to taste, one teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, one teaspoon red vegetable coloring, paprika to taste.

Freeze this in churn until thick and velvety. Then pour into this the mayonnaise and turn rapidly until frozen. Put into a melon mould, pack for three or four hours. Turn out on oblong platter, placing crisp lettuce buds around.

Place very cold capers along ridges of melon to represent watermelon seeds. Split seedless green grapes and sprinkle profusely around and on lettuce buds.

Old-Time Blackberry Flummery.

Submitted by Miss Marie Chambliss, 1368 Wayne Ave., N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

1 teaspoon lemon juice.
1-2 cup sugar.
1 cup water.
1 teaspoon cornstarch.
1-2 sponge cake, cut in strips.
Wash berries, add sugar and water and heat to boiling point. Make thin paste of cornstarch and 2 additional teaspoons water, add to berries and cook 15 minutes, stirring constantly till thick. Add lemon juice and chill.

Summer Green Beans.

Submitted by Miss Barbara Allen, 993 Arden Avenue, S. W., Atlanta, Ga.

3-4 cup chopped onion.
3 tablespoons shortening.
2 additional teaspoons water, add to onion and cook 15 minutes, stirring constantly till thick. Add lemon juice and chill.

Serve in sherbet glasses lined with strips of cake (or lady fingers). Serves six.

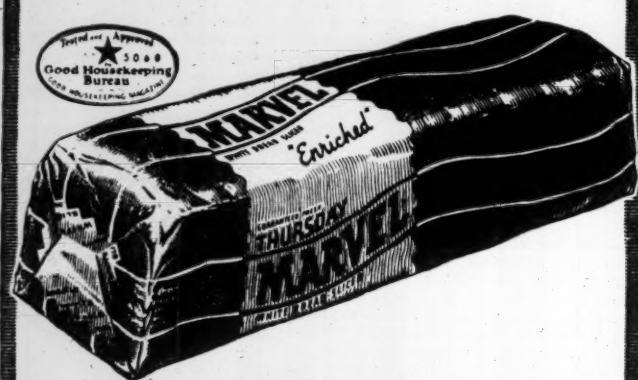

The long, tall drinks above have pineapple and grapefruit juice as a base.

Stops To Cool Off; Wishes He Hadn't

(UP)—Ninety-five degree heat caused Jack Skowlund to stop for a rest today.
He sat down on a stump containing a bees' nest and got stung. He took off his shirt to apply a mud plaster to the sting and his shirt blew into a barbed wire fence.
His shirt was torn and when he recovered it, Skowlund suffered a serious hand laceration.
He started to jump into his truck, but missed the running board and sprained an ankle.
When he got to the doctor's office, Skowlund learned he had fallen in a patch of poison ivy.

Commenting on the action of the Atlanta city council in refusing Wheeler the use of the municipal auditorium, Cusick said:
"We know that the people of Atlanta and Georgia do not agree with Senator Wheeler's views any more than they agree with the action of Governor Talmadge in ousting a college president and a university dean."
"The people of Georgia believe in Democracy. That is why they know that this country must prosecute a shooting war against Nazi Germany. If Wheeler comes to Atlanta to speak, the people there will give him a hearing, but his isolationist, appeasement arguments will not convince them."
Adolf Hitler has already convinced Georgians, as he has Americans everywhere, of the positive action that must be taken to win the battle for liberty.

Says Wheeler Favors Gagging His Opponents

Atlantans Unconvinced by Senator's Stand, Leader Asserts.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Constitution Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, July 24.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler must be defended in his right to speak in Atlanta, or anywhere else that he chooses, F. H. Peter Cusick, executive secretary of Fight for Freedom, Inc., declared today, "but no one should forget that Wheeler does not believe the same rights apply to his opponents."
Commenting on the action of the Atlanta city council in refusing Wheeler the use of the municipal auditorium, Cusick said:
"We know that the people of Atlanta and Georgia do not agree with Senator Wheeler's views any more than they agree with the action of Governor Talmadge in ousting a college president and a university dean."

Al Youst and Wife Convicted by U. S.

MIAMI, Fla., July 24.—(AP)—Al Youst, operator of the La Paloma night club which was raided by hooded men several years ago, and his wife, Evelyn, were convicted on eight slavery counts and on two counts of conspiracy to violate the law.
They had been charged specifically with transporting girls from other states to place them in "conditions of debauchery" at the club on the city's outskirts.
During the dramatic trial girl witnesses testified they were brought here from Chattanooga, Tenn., Atlanta, Ga., and other places to present lewd entertainment at the club.

McPherson Band Strikes Bottleneck

Some 40 musicians among draftees at the Fort McPherson reception center would like to "get hep" and add a little music to the daily scheme of things on the post, but they've struck a bottleneck.
They haven't any instruments. Time was when the band played with pieces borrowed from Atlanta schools, but the owners had to have them back. Now the boys are left empty-handed because the Quartermaster Corps isn't authorized to issue instruments to reception centers.
The band is seeking donations of instruments—and it needs them quickly. The musical group will have to be disbanded if help doesn't arrive.

Duke, Duchess Await Approval for Trip

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 24.—(AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, who want to visit his ranch near Calgary in the Canadian province of Alberta, are waiting for official approval from London before making plans for the trip.
The former King, as governor of the Bahamas, cannot leave the colony without authority from the colonial office.
In any case, the Windsors do not plan to leave before August 17, when he will have completed his first year in Nassau.

activities and treason, Wheeler said:
"One can probably excuse Secretary Stimson for his statement on the grounds of his age and incapacity."
"Everyone in Washington knows that the old gentleman is unable to carry on the duties of his office, and some go so far as to say he has reached the point, to use a British expression, where he's 'ga ga.'"

Stimson had the evidence in his hands when reporters filed into his office today for a regularly scheduled press conference. It consisted of two of Wheeler's cards, one of which had been received by an Army officer and the other by a staff sergeant. They had sent the cards on to the War Department.
One side bore the address, Senator Wheeler's "frank," that is his printed signature, in lieu of a postage stamp, a statement that the cards were "not printed at government expense," and the following plea in boxed type:
"Write the President today that you are against our entry into the European war."

Henry Cawthon Sentence Affirmed

Henry Cawthon, alleged head of the "wrecking crew" of the East Point Ku Klux Klan, must serve a year and pay a $1,000 fine on his conviction on a charge of flogging P. S. Toney, Scottsdale labor organizer, the Georgia state court of appeals ruled yesterday. The court affirmed Cawthon's conviction. Cawthon was indicted on 17 counts, but the trial judge dismissed verdicts of acquittal in eight of the counts, and the grand jury freed him on eight others. A ground for the appeal was that Cawthon was tried on too many counts, and that prejudicial evidence was admitted. Judge Hugh McIntyre wrote the opinion, holding that the continuity of testimony made the evidence complained of by Cawthon "admissible as indicating the general plan and scheme of the wrecking crew."

Hapeville's Post Office Finished 2 Months Early

Completed two months ahead of schedule, Hapeville's new $75,000 post office building will open for business this morning, Postmaster W. R. Conine announced last night. Hello American Eating Places Becomes New Facing Tighter Elks Greeting Restrictions

Exalted Ruler McClelland Welcomed Home From Convention.

From now on it will be "Hello American" among Elks, instead of "Hello Bill."

Judge John S. McClelland, new Grand Exalted Ruler of Elks, announced this innovation at the dinner-dance given last night in his honor on the Rainbow Roof of the Ansley hotel.

This form of greeting will accentuate the 1941 spirit of the brotherhood under the leadership of the new ruler elected on July 15 at the national convention in Philadelphia, it was said. The entire policy of the new administration will be directed towards the promotion of national defense, McClelland said.

Committee Named.
"I have already appointed," said Judge McClelland, "a committee on national defense and public relations and we have organized a service for the recruiting and training of young men for the Army Air Corps. The boys we shall recruit are those who lack the required two years of college."

"These boys will be known as Flying Elks and when they enter the national service will continue to remain separate units."

After his speech, McClelland was presented an oil painting by Salzbrener which has been hanging in the local Elks' Lodge. It depicts three elks in a forest and represents the spirit of tranquility. Mrs. Frank Fling, president of the Kle Club composed of wives of Elks, presented Mrs. McClelland with a handbag. A $100 defense bond was presented to the ruler by the Buckhead, Decatur and East Point lodges.

Enthusiastic Welcome.
Judge McClelland received an enthusiastic welcome as his train drew into the Union Station yesterday at 6:50 o'clock on his return from Philadelphia. He was greeted by Mayor LeCraw on behalf of the city, by Charles Bruce of the industrial board, and Troy Chastain, representing the county commission.

Then the police band, conducted by Captain Gering, broke into "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." The new ruler and the reception committee then marched upstairs to the plaza, where a parade of colorfully decorated automobiles and marchers had lined up.

The parade included the Old Southern Colonists dressed in black frock coats and flowing black ties, Mayor LeCraw's car, a float carrying three girls dressed to suit the torrid weather, Kle Club cars, the Rainbow Girls' Drill Team in red and white silk uniforms, the Yaarab band, and representatives of the Optimist, Lions, Civitan and Kiwanis Clubs, and the Defense Corps.

The new Exalted Ruler has established his headquarters in the First National Bank Building.

State's Draft Total Is Fourth in South

Georgia ranked fourth among the 12 southern states in the number of men who registered for selective military service in the second registration July 1, national selective service headquarters announced yesterday. The state's 188 draft boards listed 16,748 new men. North Carolina 22,196 new men; Virginia, 18,205; and Tennessee, 17,212. The south registered 171,225 of the 764,490 men listed over the nation, almost one-fourth. Other state totals were: Alabama, 15,735; Kentucky, 15,031; Mississippi, 13,033; Maryland, 12,809; South Carolina, 10,988; Louisiana, 10,511; Arkansas, 10,161; and Florida, 8,666.

Gallup Poll Reveals:

Iceland Occupation Approved

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion. Copyright, 1941.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 24.—Final returns from a nation-wide survey of public opinion show that a substantial majority of American voters approve the American occupation of Iceland.

Early returns of the survey which was started the day after American troops landed on the island, were reported last week, and showed a majority favorable to the administration's action. Complete returns are as follows: "Do you approve or disapprove of the government's action in taking over the defense of Iceland?"

The early returns, as reported last Friday, were 61 per cent approve, 20 per cent disapprove, and 19 per cent no opinion.

The results emphasize the fact, often pointed out before by the Institute, that while the nation is against entering an all-out shooting war at this time, the majority nevertheless favors measures "short of war" to aid Britain and defeat Hitler.

Analysis of the reasons given by the persons interviewed show that conscious of war-risk involved in such steps, but are willing to take that risk.

State Patrol Will Receive 50 Army Rifles

U. S. Officials To Give Instructions in Use of Weapons.

The Georgia State Patrol is being furnished with 50 nine-pound Enfield Army rifles, complete with ammunition, to strengthen Georgia's home defense, Major Owen Warren, adjutant of the State Defense Corps, said yesterday.

The rifles, the same type used in the first World War and similar to the Springfield rifle now in use, will be divided among the 10 patrol stations in Georgia.

State troopers will later be given instructions by Army officials in the use of the weapons.

According to present plans the Defense Corps, which officially has charge of Georgia's civilian defense, would use the radio system of the State Patrol in case of emergency.

BOYS' ON MARCH TO GET FRIED CHICKEN

When the "boys" of the First Army go on the march in October and November they can be assured of their fried chicken as usual.

The quartermaster corps has adopted for the first time a new method of fast-freezing of fowl which will insure safe delivery of chicken to points in the field far from slaughtering plants, officials in the Fourth Corps area quartermaster's office announced here yesterday.

Bids will be sought on $4,747 pounds for Fort Jackson boys in October and 100,250 pounds for them in November. Deliveries from Wilmington will total 204,848 pounds in October and 314,746 pounds in November.

The Army IN GEORGIA

"Search me. He's been hanging around all day, Lieutenant Berg!"

Several troop units slicked up their gear yesterday in preparation for weekend movement toward Louisiana and war maneuver areas.

The schedule calls for units to move out tomorrow morning and most will stop overnight at Demopolis, Ala. During July, August and September a large portion of the military personnel at Fort Benning will move out for various maneuvers over the south. Each unit will be gone from one to three months.

Captain Marion L. Bazzard, rail transportation officer of the Fourth Corps area quartermaster's office, made arrangements to transport more than 12,500 officers and men of Third Army units from their home stations in Georgia and Florida to the central Louisiana maneuver area later this month.

Twenty-one trains, made up of 223 coaches, 37 kitchen cars and 51 baggage cars, were scheduled to leave Camp Blanding, Fla., between July 30 and August 4.

Three hundred and nineteen officers and men of the Third Cavalry, Company B, 86th Quartermaster Regiment, the 65th Ordnance Company, and Company C, second chemical regiment, will leave Fort Benning July 29. Their destination will be the area between Mansfield and Leesburg, La. In addition, the 193d tank battalion, with 23 flat cars of tanks, was scheduled to make the trip.

Sixty other flat cars carrying tanks of an unidentified organization were scheduled to leave Benning at an unannounced time. They will head for Dry Prong, La. From Fort Oglethorpe 502 officers and men of various units will travel to the Bentley-Leesburg area late this month.

R. C. MARTIN PROMOTED TO FIRST LIEUTENANT

Second Lieutenant Robert Carr Martin, field artillery reserve, has been promoted to first lieutenant, field artillery reserve, the War Department announced yesterday. Lieutenant Martin is now on duty with the Atlanta quartermaster depot, where he is assistant to the officer in charge of the utilities division.

Representatives of the railroads and their unionized employees began a series of conferences in Chicago on demands for pay increases and changes in working rules involving 1,150,000 workers.

Spokesmen calculated that the wage hike—if granted—would add $600,000,000 or $700,000,000 a year to the carriers' payrolls.

The railroads' conference committee opened negotiations first with the heads of the five operating unions, whose 350,000 members seek a 30 per cent increase in their basic pay rates.

The committee will begin discussions today with chairmen of 14 non-operating brotherhoods on requests for upward adjustments of 30 to 34 cents an hour in the wage scales of approximately 800,000 members.

The union board ordered an election within 30 days to determine whether employees of the American Sheet Metal Works, New Orleans, want to be represented in collective bargaining by CIO's Steel Workers organizing committee.

Three Italian Ships Sunk by RAF Missiles

CAIRO, Egypt, July 24.—(AP)—British bombers and torpedo-carrying swordfish planes were credited officially today with sinking an Italian munitions ship and destroying at least two others in an attack on a convoy.

The RAF report said the raid was carried out Tuesday on Italian ships off the island of Pantelleria, in the channel between Sicily and Tunisia. A Rome communique said that on the following day a British destroyer and three other British ships were sunk in a combined air-sea attack on a British convoy.

A vessel of 5,000 tons, which apparently was carrying munitions, was hit by three bombs and immediately blew up and disappeared below the surface of the water," the British communique said.

It reported that an Italian destroyer escorting the convoy was hit by an air-launched torpedo, a 7,000-ton ship was set afire and sunk, and a tanker was destroyed by two torpedoes.

Defense Offices Approve AFL No-Strike Rule

800,000 Directly Affected in Affiliated Building Trades.

By The Associated Press.

Defense officials approved yesterday a no-strike agreement with the AFL building trades designed to keep construction moving on defense jobs employing about 800,000 men.

An additional 1,500,000 will be affected indirectly, officials said in announcing it that the plan called for uniform overtime pay equal to time and a half and barred work stoppages in jurisdictional disputes "or for any other reason."

Approved by the War and Navy Departments and the Defense Housing Co-ordination Office prior to an "o. k." from the Office of Production Management, the agreement was reported to be highly gratifying to President Roosevelt.

CIO officials were understood to be miffed, however, because the Construction Workers' Organizing Committee, headed by A. D. Lewis, brother of John L. Lewis, had not been consulted.

Aviation Proposal Made.

Meanwhile, a plan for a master wage contract with the AFL machinists' union covering 55,000 workers in the Lockheed, Vega and Consolidated Aircraft factories on the west coast was presented by the employers.

It was believed that the plan followed the scale set up in the North American Aviation agreement.

The CIO announced that it also would begin negotiations for a similar agreement in plants in which it was represented.

A wage dispute which threatened stoppage on a $2,000,000 Army and Navy project at Key West, Fla., continued after the striking AFL laborers' union members threw out their president, Luis Avila, who opposed the strike, and installed Charles Albury, chairman of the grievance committee.

The union seeks an increase from 40 to 62 1-2 cents in the basic minimum wage. Marines patrolled the area, which includes construction work on a submarine base, an air base and a Navy housing project.

Air Associates Accused.

A National Labor Relations Board regional director at New York, Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, charged Air Associates, Inc., with unfair labor practices in connection with work stoppage at its aviation accessories plant at Bendix, N. J. More than 200 of the 700 employees have been idle since July 11. The union alleged that 24 members had been discriminatorily discharged.

A few hours earlier the Defense Mediation Board had announced that the union had accepted its recommendation for settling the dispute and that the company had been given a few days to study the plan.

Representatives of the railroads and their unionized employees began a series of conferences in Chicago on demands for pay increases and changes in working rules involving 1,150,000 workers.

Spokesmen calculated that the wage hike—if granted—would add $600,000,000 or $700,000,000 a year to the carriers' payrolls.

Group Favors Compromise On Seizure Bill

No Mention of Labor Disputes in Version Committee Adopts.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP) A joint house-senate committee agreed today on compromise legislation which would give the President power to take over defense plants when an interruption of production occurs sufficient to impede or delay the defense program unduly.

As the bill passed the senate it contained authority for the government to take over plants in event of labor disputes, but this was deleted by the house and no mention is made of labor disputes in the compromise version adopted by the committee.

The committee also agreed on the mandatory deferment of selective service for all men who have reached their twenty-eighth birthday before having been inducted into the land or naval forces.

The compromise measure must now be approved by both houses before it can become law.

Improvement Is Voted for Medical College

Georgia Program Will Increase Capacity 50 Per Cent.

A $100,000 improvement program designed to bring about a 50 per cent increase in the capacity of the University of Georgia Medical College at Augusta yesterday received approval of the Governor and a special committee of the State Board of Regents.

Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System, pointed out the college is now equipped to accommodate 48 freshmen every year, but that proposed additions to the laboratory and other physical changes will increase this number to approximately 75.

The committee, consisting of Regents W. S. Morris, of Augusta; Joe Jenkins, of Hartwell; and Dean Lombard Kelley, of the medical school, conferred yesterday with the Governor and Chancellor Sanford following a meeting Wednesday in Augusta.

The committee was said, plans to seek federal funds for part of the new construction.

Chancellor Sanford pointed out cost of maintenance at the institution would be increased from $125,000 to approximately $200,000 a year as a result of the increased facilities.

Letter Carriers To Meet Sunday

AMERICUS, Ga., July 24.—(P)—Americus residents today were assembling watermelons and making other preparations for the entertainment Sunday and Monday of the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers' Association.

Both Attorney General Ellis Arnall and Governor Talmadge have been invited to speak, along with Representative Robert Ramspeck.

One feature of the convention is a breakfast planned for the children of the visitors Monday.

5,000 Serbs Rise Up Against Nazi Invaders

NEW YORK, July 24.—(P)—A British broadcast reported today that 5,000 Serbs had risen up against the German invaders in Yugoslavia, attacking Nazi outposts and strongholds.

The broadcast, heard here by NBC, also quoted a dispatch from Ankara as saying that 200 Serbs had swooped down from mountain hiding places north of the village of Mish, attacked a German garrison, and retired into the hills with prisoners.

Nunnally Will Offers Site to 1st Methodists

Substantial Requests to Charities Also Are Provided.

The will of Mrs. Cora Winship Nunnally, probated here yesterday, left substantial bequests to charities and included the offer of the site of her former home at 1750 Peachtree road to the First Methodist church. Winship Nunnally, her son, and the Trust Company of Georgia are co-executors.

Under the will, the church must accept the offer of the site within a year of the testator's death and construct on it a new building to be known as the "First Methodist Church, George Winship Memorial." If the church fails to accept the offer, the site will be tendered to other Methodist institutions.

Besides relatives, grandchildren and 15 close friends, the following received cash bequests: Hillside Cottages, the Home for Incurables, the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, the Home for Old Women and the Decatur Orphans' Home. The residue of the estate will be held in trust for Mrs. Nunnally's grandchildren, upon the death of her parents.

Toombs Farmer To Use Cotton Weed for Hay

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
VIDALIA, Ga., July 24.—Cotton stalks are said to be good animal feed and at least one Toombs county farmer will use his crop for this purpose after inspection had indicated that the weed would not produce enough bolls to interest him in the harvest for lint.

Buck Bailey, cotton grower, states he will harvest his cotton weed as a feed crop and maintained that some excellent value was contained in the cotton plant for feed purposes.

Other cotton growers are blue over the crop prospects, unfavorable weather and boll weevil ravages having combined to damage the crop.

Around 17,000 acres are planted to cotton in Toombs county which last year produced 7,300 bales. This year many growers estimate that the crop will be less than 5,000 bales in the county.

Western Union Head Appears Here on Tour

A. N. Williams, New President, Defines Im- portance of Atlanta.

BY CELESTINE SIBLEY.
The only difference between running a railroad and running a telegraph company is that the railroad moves people and freight and the telegraph company moves words.

"And that," concludes Albert Nathaniel Williams, 53-year-old former Denver railroad rodman who recently resigned the presidency of the Lehigh Valley Railway to become president of Western Union, "is almost no difference at all."

In Atlanta yesterday, his first stop on a swing around the country to get acquainted with Western Union personnel, Williams shook hands with several hundred Western Union employees, inspected plant facilities, including the new reperfector plant which is to go into service September 1, and was guest of honor at a luncheon given by C. H. Carroll, general manager, at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 12:30 o'clock.

Traveling in a special car on the Southern Railroad, Williams, accompanied by three Western Union vice presidents, made Atlanta his first stop on his first official inspection tour because of its importance "telegraphically," he said.

"We in Western Union are aware of the importance of the city of Atlanta," the president told a group of business and professional men with whom he lunched. "Probably few of you know of the important position that Atlanta occupies in the telegraph field. It is the principal office of this entire southern section of the country."

The Southern division headquarters of the Western Union are in Atlanta and from these headquarters are directed all of the telegraph activities south of the Mason and Dixon line and east of the Mississippi river.

President Williams and Vice Presidents W. C. Titley of the plant department, E. R. Shute of the traffic department, B. D. Barnett of the communications department, left last night for Birmingham. They will go through Texas to the Pacific coast.

Williams, who boasts that he has done "practically every job on a railroad," including climbing an icy pole in freezing weather to get railroad telegraph lines open, is tackling his new job with confidence.

Right now defense activity is stepping up business for Western Union.

"A large number of our employees are on active duty in the Army and Navy and members of my official staff are directing the defense communication board's activities in both the telegraph and cable. We have no admirals or generals in the Western Union but we do have commanders and regular colonels and Kentucky colonels."

'V' for Victory Drive Gains Support in Maine

BANGOR, Maine, July 24.—(P)—Britain's V-for-Victory campaign is gaining support in this part of the world.

The Bangor Daily Commercial, evening newspaper, published today with three dots and a dash at the end of each news item, in place of the customary "finish rule."

The characters symbolize the letter "V" in both the Morse code and the international code.

Author of Tarzan Books Is Sued for Divorce

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—(P)—Edgar Rice Burroughs, 67, creator of Tarzan and author of many books and magazine stories, is being sued for divorce by his 36-year-old wife, the former Florence Gilbert of the screen.

Her complaint, filed yesterday, charges Burroughs has assigned all his assets to Burroughs, Inc., and has conveyed half the stock to his former wife, Emma Centennia Hulbert Burroughs, the mother of his three children.

It asserts he had agreed to convey the remaining half to other persons and asks appointment of a receiver.

YOU'LL GET ORCHIDS FOR changing to fresher, more delicious CUSTOM GROUND COFFEE!

Unless the coffee you served this morning was Custom Ground, you probably received only a portion of the coffee's rich, satisfying flavor in your cup... the balance was left in the pot... in the coffee grounds! America is awake to the superior performance of A&P Coffee—that's why every 7th U. S. family enjoys it! No longer will "any grind for every pot" do because scientific tests prove that unless your coffee is ground precisely right (Custom Ground) for your own coffee pot... you lose much of the fine flavor. Today... go to A&P—select the blend of A&P Coffee you prefer (there are 3 from which to choose)—presto! your coffee will be Custom Ground! Tonight... you'll thrill to the magnificent flavor of this coffee that gives you so much more!

Custom Ground Coffee is A&P Coffee correctly ground for your own coffee pot.

Corsage Pin Taken From Youth's Lung

Linwood Glass, 16, of Williamson, Is Treated Here.

Linwood Glass, 16-year-old Williamson, Ga., youth, was recuperating yesterday at Ponce de Leon Infirmary after having had a two-inch corsage pin removed from his left lung Wednesday night by physicians.

The boy was lying on his back in the sun Wednesday afternoon cleaning his fingernails with the pin. Suddenly it slipped from his fingers, hit in his mouth and slipped down his windpipe head-first into his left lung. Rushed to the infirmary here, it was removed by bi-plane fluoroscopic guidance in an operation which took more than 35 minutes. His fever at one time reached 106 degrees, but yesterday his condition was better.

Doctors said it was one of the largest pins they had ever seen in a human's lung.

Depot Here Buys Non-Perishables

More than a million pounds of non-perishable supplies for the Army were bought daily at the depot by the Quartermaster Depot in Atlanta. The total of purchases for the month amounted to $2,418,316.

This was announced yesterday by Colonel Thomas L. Holland, commanding officer of the local depot.

The supplies included such items as dried beans, all kinds of canned fruits, vegetables, jams and fish, as well as peanut butter, gelatin, baking powder, rice, spices, safety matches, twine, vinegar and sugar. They will be consumed by troops stationed in Georgia, Alabama and Florida.

Colonel Holland said that during the last fiscal year $14,796,644 was spent by the local depot for such supplies. During June, 30,471,986 pounds of freight passed through the depot, located at Glenn street and Murphy avenue, S. W. The total would fill a freight train seven and a half miles long.

G. & F. Purchases Eight Locomotives

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. VALDOSTA, Ga., July 24.—The Georgia & Florida Railroad has purchased eight locomotives from the Florida East Coast Railroad. They arrived in Valdosta today en route to the shops in Douglas, where they will be conditioned.

This additional motive power was acquired to take care of the increase in business for the United States Bombardier Base in Valdosta. The base is located on the main line of the Georgia & Florida near this city, and is the only rail transportation available for the Army at the base location.

Funeral Set Today For Major Stocks

FORT BENNING, Ga., July 24. (P)—Funeral services for Major Fred S. Stocks, killed in an Army airplane crash Saturday, will be held at the Post chapel here tomorrow with Chaplain W. C. Shure officiating.

The body will be taken to Arlington National cemetery for burial. The entire 62nd Air Base group will attend the services.

The body of Captain William S. Hargen, flight surgeon killed in the same crash, was sent this afternoon to Vine Grove, Ky., for funeral services tomorrow.

Moultrie Girl Winner In Speakers' Contest

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MOULTRIE, Ga., July 24.—Miss Merry Elizabeth Hicks, of Moultrie, won first place in the south-wide speakers' tournament held yesterday at the Southwide Baptist Training Union Assembly in session at Ridgecrest, N. C., with representatives from 15 southern states competing.

Miss Hicks was adjudged the best speaker first, in her local church, then the association, region and state. She is a member of the First Baptist church of Moultrie.

According to a word from Gainer E. Bryan, state secretary of Baptist Training Union work in Georgia, there are 375 Georgians in attendance at the eighth Southwide Baptist Training Union Assembly in session at Ridgecrest this week. He also said there are 2,550 Training Union members from over the south enrolled at this assembly.

4 Killed, 12 Injured In Auto-Truck Crash

CALEDONIA, Miss., July 24.—(P)—Four men were killed and 12 were injured, four critically, today when an automobile and a truck loaded with 18 sawmill workers collided near here.

The dead are Woodrow Winders, Walter Killian, U. L. Sanders and Epp Lindsey.

Those seriously injured were James Hunt, Talmadge Sanders and O'Neal Jones, taken to an Aberdeen, Miss., hospital, and a youth named Aldridge, removed to a Columbus, Miss., hospital.

The sawmill workers were en route home when the collision occurred.
